

For Foot Ailments
CONSULT
H. J. A. BROWN, D.P.
CHIROPODIST
143 Great George Street
CHARLOTTETOWN, P.E.I.

Not Permitted To "Save Up" Coupons

OTTAWA, May 18 — (CP) — A Prices Board spokesman said tonight that consumers will not be permitted to "save up" meat rationing coupons when such rationing comes into effect in Canada. He said the coupons will be valid for periods of from two to six weeks, and will carry expiry dates. They must be used within the stated periods, and cannot be accumulated for use later, he added.

SOUTH AFRICAN ELECTION

NEW YORK, May 17 (CP) — The BBC said Field Marshal Smuts announced Saturday that the South African general election will be held on July 7, saying that "its issue was never clearer—the war."

The London broadcast, recorded by CBS, quoted a cable from the BBC correspondent at Pretoria which said that "Parliament will be dissolved this month," and that "General Smuts explained the early date for the election by saying that it should not be of service to the country to prolong electioneering."

MT. MELICK SCHOOL

Report for the month of April:
Grade IX—1. Miriam Praught and Gertrude Cannon equal, 2. Ruth Wood, 3. Leo Cannon.
Grade VII—1. Donald Mutch and Wilfred Cannon equal, 2. Bernadette Praught.
Grade V—1. Pauline Praught, 2. Hilda Wood, 3. John Cannon.
Grade IV A—1. Freda Richards.
Grade IV B—1. Loyde Mutch and Joseph Cannon equal.
Grade III—1. Frances Praught and Charlie McInnis equal, 2. Alan MacRae, 3. Joseph Praught.
Grade II—1. George Bruce.
Grade I—1. Shirley Jenkins.
Perfect Attendance: Ruth Wood, Donald Mutch, Bernadette Praught, Hilda Wood, Pauline Praught, Loyde Mutch, Alan MacRae, Glen Morrissey, Frances Praught, Charlie McInnis, Joseph Praught, Billie Praught, George Bruce.
Teacher, Marjole Jones

RULES TO CONTROL CATTLE DISEASES

Here are ten rules endorsed by the Health of Animals Division, Dominion Department of Agriculture for controlling cattle diseases:

1. Clean and disinfect water tanks and feed bunks regularly.
2. Daily clean and rotate feed racks and bins and fill manure holes.
3. Raise young animals on clean ground.
4. Feed rations fortified with protein, minerals and vitamins.
5. Feed and feed different classes of animals separately.
6. Obtain a health certificate with the animal.
7. Separate new animals from the herd until it is known they are in a good state of health.
8. Quarantine sick and unhealthy animals from the herd.
9. Have diagnosis of sick animals by a qualified veterinarian.
10. Consult with experienced veterinarians about vaccinations and treatments.

Advisory Boards have been established in Antigonish and St. Kitts Nevis in the Leeward Islands colony.

Home Service
Have Fun With Your Friends
By Fortune-Telling

BE A "SEERESS"
You look into the crystal ball and see many things. You amuse your friends by telling their fortunes. Not as difficult as it seems!
Our 32-page booklet is full of various ways of looking into the future, and it explains all of them quite clearly. Choose the way that appeals to you most.
If you observe keenly, have imagination, and a good memory, you'll soon be able to tell your friends what the tea-cups, cards or stars predict, what secrets other fortune-telling methods, old and new, reveal.
You don't even have to buy any props. For example, if you want to do some crystal-gazing just use a large glass bowl, inverted on any sort of small stand. The hands of the "seeress" move mysteriously over the bowl, before she interprets what the crystal reveals to her.

Send 5c in coins for your copy of Fun With Fortune-Telling, to the Charlottetown Guardian Home Service. Address: Be sure to write plainly your name, address and the name of booklet.

Name _____
Street Address _____
Province _____

Girl of the Turf

By Mary Douglas Stevart

CHAPTER XX

Cary couldn't sleep the next morning, so she slipped out of bed and took a cold shower and walked to the corner grocery for fresh fruit for breakfast.

The trip wasn't at all necessary, for she knew the colored maid would have iced cantaloupe and grapefruit on hand. But Cary had to do something. She swung along rapidly in her gay hussies and trim voile dress, in order to keep pace with her thoughts.

There was one thing she wanted to do that she could not do at the apartment. She wanted to telephone Tony, to have him meet her somewhere. He would know where she could sell the horses and how much to ask for them but, most of all, she wanted to see him again, to see his dark eyes intent upon her face.

She took her time about selecting the fruit. Then she went across the street to a drugstore and put her call through. The reply from the slabs was the same as the day before—Mr. Garth has not been here this morning.

She went out of the telephone booth puzzled and worried. A little later she would rent a car and drive to the stables, to talk to Joe. She would have time to do that before Lucretia and she started for San Diego. Maybe Joe knew something he was not telling her over the telephone.

Back at the apartment she found Ivy up and dressed but Lucretia's door was still closed.

"I'll take in her breakfast tray," Cary said to Ivy.

Ivy looked impressed. "Did you say something to me once about sticking my head in a lion's mouth?"

Cary smiled. "And you replied it was the best way to find out if he was hungry."

She went into the kitchen and prepared dry toast and coffee and the light tray in one hand, she knocked at Lucretia's door and entered.

Lucretia sat up, frowning. Cary thought with a quick twist of her heart that early in the morning Lucretia at near-fourty was still as pretty as a girl.

"Darling, do you have to come in at this time of day?" Lucretia said, annoyed, "I aren't starting to San Diego until eleven, you know."

"I'm going out," Cary said calmly. "I wanted to talk to you first."

Cary put the tray down, sat on the edge of the bed looked about the room. It was typically Lucretia's room, blue and white, fragrant and disorderly. Under the table, emptied of its two gorgeous white orchids, was a box of Jim's flowers. On the dressing table stood bottles of expensive perfume and silver-topped jars of creams and lotions. The closet door stood ajar and a dozen evening dresses hung from velvet hangers, vying with each other for color and style. On a shelf were slippers to match. All this was the essence of Lucretia's slim happiness, Cary thought miserably.

"What did you want to talk to me about?" Lucretia asked.

Cary turned from the room to look at its lovely occupant and, as so often before, Lucretia's fragile beauty shot quick pain through Cary's heart. She wanted to put her arms around her mother, to protect her.

"I wanted to tell you that I'm selling the horses."

"Darling, not really—," Lucretia sat up with definite interest. "On what condition?" Cary's courage was fast slipping, so she flew into what she had to say. "I want you to promise me that as soon as I can pay Jim Constance, you won't see him again. I'm selling the horses right away, so that I'll have the money."

Lucretia opened her eyes in surprise. "I hardly thought you would be that way, darling. After all, you must remember he has been grand about dinners and flowers and all that and he let you have money on pretty tricky ventures, if you ask me."

"We'll get along—," Lucretia suddenly flared. Her small, pretty face became red with anger. "Cary, I won't do any such thing. At least I'm not ungrateful."

"Then don't be surprised at anything I might do," Cary said, stubbornly warning, as she got up and walked toward the door.

Cary rented a car and drove to Englewood Park. She had no trouble at all in finding Tony's stable, but, as she half expected, Tony was not there. Joe Graziana sat sullenly on guard in the shade chewing his inevitable tobacco.

"Haven't seen him for two days," he said in answer to her inquiry.

"But is he in town or has he gone back to the ranch? I've got to see him as soon as possible."

"Don't know where he is. Didn't ask him where he was going."

Cary was near desperation. She had to see Tony. She could turn to no one else. She studied Joe's sour face for a few seconds. Then she played her ace card.

"Listen, Joe, I know you don't like me. I'm not asking you to, but I'm going to tell you something. I'm in a jam. I've got to sell the horses. That's what I wanted to see Mr. Garth about."

She frantically watched while Joe shifted his quid to the other side of his mouth. Then he looked at Cary and his hard little eyes were softer, or so she thought.

"Don't you know them horses go until you see him."

"But how can I see him when you won't tell me where he is?"

"He ain't gone for good. He always comes back. Maybe he's seeing something about them horses right this minute."

Wild hope drove her thoughts in frantic circles. "Joe, tell me—you're holding out on me—"

"I ain't holding out on nobody. I don't know what he's up to—that is, for sure. I keep my nose out of other people's business. But just you wait about them horses until he shows up again."

"Joe, you darling—," Lucretia said, smiling and frowning.

"Please tell Mr. Garth that I'll be out of town the rest of today and tomorrow. Tell him I won't be a bit about the horses, but I see him." She ran swiftly to her waiting car.

(To be Continued)

SEA VIEW AND VICINITY

The W. M. S. of Darnley and Sea View met at the home of Mrs. Edwin Donald on Monday evening for their May meeting. President presided and led the devotional period, using the program from the Missionary Monthly, the theme being youth in the armed forces and factories, several members taking part. Appropriate hymns were sung through the program. Roll call was answered by seven members with a verse of scripture. Mrs. Donald and

Freedom's Fires Must Be Fed Our COAL!

CANADIANS must dig and deliver coal that we may and convey, power vital war plants, keep our railroads rolling, preserve the nation's health!

The coal mining industry—miners and management alike—have done wonders to provide coal, but they need help. More workers must be provided, or we falter—possibly fall—in this grim hour. Nature has been generous but we must help ourselves. Our mines are rich, but undermanned.

By Proclamation, His Excellency the Governor General in Council has declared that labour supply for coal mines ranks as a national emergency. Further, in order to provide manpower for coal, the Governor in Council has issued an Order in Council aimed at swelling the flow of coal from mine to firepot.

This Order is of vital interest to everyone in Canada. Every Canadian should read and study its provisions, to see whether it demands any action on his part:

- 1 EVERY EMPLOYER, REGARDLESS OF HIS INDUSTRY, must advise his employees of these Regulations, and he must assist in discovering whether any of his employees have had previous experience as coal mine workers.
- 2 EVERY EMPLOYEE, REGARDLESS OF HIS INDUSTRY, who has had previous experience as a coal mine worker, must report that fact to his employer not later than Tuesday, May 25th, 1943.
- 3 A "COAL MINE WORKER" FOR THESE PURPOSES is anyone who, since January 1st, 1935, has worked under provincial certificate or license in or around a coal mine, or who, since the same date, has been employed for a total of at least 24 months in the production of coal (except at office work).
- 4 EVERY EMPLOYER, NOT A COAL MINE OPERATOR, must report in writing to a Selective Service Officer not later than Tuesday, June 1st, 1943, full details on any of his employees who are ex-coal mine workers.
- 5 SELECTIVE SERVICE OFFICERS ARE AUTHORIZED to require ex-coal mine workers to report for interview and to accept work at a coal mine.
- 6 SELECTIVE SERVICE OFFICERS MAY REQUIRE any man in any employment, if subject to Mobilization Regulations but rejected for Military Training, and certain others excused from Military Training, to accept employment at a coal mine.
- 7 NO COAL MINE OPERATOR may terminate the services of any coal mine worker without written permission from a Selective Service Officer.
- 8 NO COAL MINE WORKER may leave employment at a coal mine without written permission from a Selective Service Officer.
- 9 EVERY EX-COAL MINE WORKER, returning to the industry under these Regulations, will be paid wages at the established rate for the job at which he is placed; and the Government will pay wages of 40 cents an hour, 8 hours a day and 48 hours a week, to any ex-coal mine worker required to leave his present employment under these provisions, but not placed immediately at coal mining.
- 10 A BOARD ALLOWANCE of not more than $7.50 a week may be paid an ex-coal mine worker now returning to a coal mine, if required to live away from the residence of his dependents.
- 11 PRESENT AND FUTURE COAL MINE WORKERS will be granted postponement from Military Training to February 1st, 1944, by virtue of their occupation; and no coal mine worker will be accepted for voluntary enlistment in the Armed Forces of Canada, prior to February 1st, 1944, except under permit to enlist from a Selective Service Officer.
- 12 NO EMPLOYER IN CANADA, EXCEPT A COAL MINE OPERATOR, may solicit for employment or hire any ex-coal mine worker.
- 13 REGARDLESS OF ANY DOMINION OR PROVINCIAL LAW, male persons at least 16 years old may be employed as coal mine workers, and female persons at least 18 years old may be employed as surface coal mine workers.
- 14 WAR EMERGENCY TRAINING CLASSES will be available for training men as coal mine workers.

Such is the substance of the new regulations. Full details may be had at any Employment and Selective Service Office. If these provisions require action on your part, you are urged in the national interest to act immediately. Severe penalties are provided for non-compliance, but the Government relies on the co-operation of the citizens of Canada to make prosecution unnecessary by prompt action as required. This is a grave emergency. Assist if you can.

DEPARTMENT OF LABOUR

HUMPHREY MITCHELL
Minister of Labour

A. MacNAMARA
Director, National Selective Service

Mrs. McNutt both gave helpful readings on the power of prayer and its influence on the lives of the soldiers as they face danger and suffering. Secretary read the minutes of last meeting and gave a satisfactory financial report. It was decided to hold an age day, proceeds for the purchase of a new piano for the institute. Members all joined in the closing period of the program and hymn "Peace Perfect Peace" and Mirnah benediction brought the meeting to a close, after which a dainty lunch was served by the hostess.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. John Bassett was the scene of a large and pleasant gathering on Thursday evening under the auspices of the Darnley W. I. The members sold ice cream and cake which all greatly enjoyed. A few of the members from this section of the institute furnished a bazaar table with several attractive and useful articles which were quickly disposed of. A splendid sum was realized from the proceeds which is to be devoted to the purchase of a victory bond. Much credit for the success of this gathering is due Mrs. Bassett for opening her home and doing her bit to bring peace once more.

The fishermen have been getting some fine catches of lobsters on the days they have been able to get out to their traps.

A number of friends from Sea View attended the funeral of the late Mrs. Albert Stewart, which was held from the home of her daughter, Mrs. Everett MacLeod, Friday afternoon.

The Sea View W. I. met at the home of Miss Laura Graham on Thursday evening for their May meeting. President, Mrs. Fannie Hiltz presided and opened the meeting with the Ode and creed in unison. Roll call was answered by 11 members on hints on early rising. Minutes were read and business discussion followed. Sick and school committees gave satisfactory reports and new committees were appointed. Several letters of correspondence were read and a letter of thanks from the family of the late Mr. James Adams for a donation of fruit sent while he was a patient in Prince County Hospital. It was decided to pack boxes the first of the following week for boys overseas from the community, and a committee was appointed to take charge of same. It was also decided to have some of the air force group from Summerside come the following week and put on a program and sale of ice cream. Mr. William Simmons kindly offered to take charge of the conveyance from the air port. Red Cross convener reported sending a box during the past month containing a quilt and several pairs of socks and gloves to the head office in Charlottetown. She had a quantity of yarn which she would be glad to distribute. As the topic was mother's day an interesting paper was read also a humorous reading by Mrs. James E. Murphy, followed by a contest. Mrs. Earl McKay winning the first prize. The singing of the National Anthem brought the meeting to a close. A delicious lunch was served by the hostess assisted by Miss Millie Cousins and Mrs. James Murphy. Mrs. John Coulson and Miss E. C. Harris are hostesses for the next meeting.

Mrs. Roy Adams was a business visitor to Charlottetown on Friday.

Mrs. Maynard Bryenton and the daughter, Anna, spent a few days in Sea View the guest of Mrs. Fannie Hiltz.

Mrs. William Colley, Granville, spent a few days in Sea View owing to the illness and death of her brother, the late James Adams.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Coulson spent the week end in Darnley the guest of Mrs. Coulson's daughter, Mrs. E. C. Harris.

Mr. and Mrs. John Bassett are in town in quest of their new victory bond. Darnley the guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Bassett.

Mrs. W. J. Donald is spending a pleasant visit in New Glasgow in quest of her daughter, Mrs. Michael Dickson and Mr. Dickson.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Sherry are recent visitors to Darnley and gave a pleasant visit with friends Mrs. E. C. Harris.

The Kenyon Government is adopting a program of measures that a protection system should be introduced into the colony, applying to all races and to children, female and adult offenders.