Cambridge, Harvard-Yale meet at Harvard track in 4.12 3-5, meets Bonthron. Princeton's sensational half a mile runner and Magan of Cornell, at the Oxford-Cambridge, Princeton-Cornell games today.

The Jack Lovelock referred to above is a native of New Zealand and holds the world's record for three-quarters of a mile 3.922 and the British record for one mile 4.12. It is expected that he will during his present invasion of America, break the world's record for a mile of 4.09.2 held by Jules Ladoumergue of France.

Jack McAuliffe who retired from the ring the undefeated lightweight champion of the world and now makes a living writing as an authority on pugilism, predicts that Primo Camera will hold the world's heavyweight championship for a "long time, five years anyway." "I am willing to go on record as saying he will be able to take any man in the world for that period," says Jack.

He does not, however, class Primo with the "Boston Strong Boy" John L. Sullivan, nor even with Jack Dempsey.

Re the famous John L. now that he is dead and gone for many years magazines frequently contain writeups and anecdotes of the "Strong Boy." It is interesting to know that at Saint Peters there is living a woman who for many years catered to the stomach necessities of the great John L. and he had a large appetite too.

Gienna Collette Vare, the woman who five times won the women's United States Golf Championship, will not be a competitor for that honor this year. Instead she will be totting around in her arms a dear little infant daughter born on the 20th of June.

Morris B. McKinnon who has been in the audit department of the T. Eaton Co. Winnipeg the past four years, won the President R. Y. Eaton cup for the store golf championship at Winnipeg last week with a score of 78.

At the Rifle Range yesterday morning Miss Muriel Archibald, daughter of Dr. C. C. Archibald, Charlottetown, put on a score of 33 out of 35 at the 500 yard range. Although there were quite a number of marksmen shooting, there was only one that equalled this score. Miss Archibald was shooting for the first time on an outdoor range, which makes the shoot all the more remarkable.

The Provincial Rifle Association matches start Monday morning at 8.30 and will be completed, weather permitting, on Tuesday afternoon. It is expected that the Ladies Challenge Match will be fired about four o'clock on Tuesday.

at Campbellton, N. B. who, with his family are at present visiting in the city, and five sisters, Mrs. Frank McKee, Mrs. Samuel Craig, Mrs. Harry Stewart, Mrs. W. G. Hogg and Mrs. James Gesner, all of this city.

To the bereaved family The Guardian joins in extending the deepest sympathy.

BRIDAL SHOWER—A miscellaneous shower was tendered Miss May LeClerc in honor of her approaching marriage at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund D. Gallant, North Rustico on July 5th. After seating the bride-to-be in a beautiful decorated chair, in yellow and white, for the occasion, a large carriage was wheeled in and also decorated. Mrs. Frank Gallant untied the packages, and Mrs. Edmund D. Gallant read the accompanying verses which caused much laughter. The beautiful and useful gifts testified to the popularity of Miss LeClerc in the community. Miss LeClerc although taken by surprise thanked the assembled friends for their lovely gifts and kind wishes. A delicious luncheon was then served by Mrs. Edmund D. Gallant. Mrs. Frank Gallant assisted by Mrs. George Gallant, Mrs. John L. Dolron and Mrs. R. G. Fleming. The remainder of the evening was spent in music, after bouncing the bride-to-be, all departed to their respective homes having enjoyed a very pleasant evening.

"We are going slow in the direction toward an increase in price values," this informant said. "America is going fast in wildcat fashion. But you can't combine the two. A slow motion wildcat would be most unimpressive."

"We have done everything Washington has done except the bellyhug," he continued. "After all you must consider that when a man like Neville Chamberlain (Chancellor of the Exchequer) says whoopee there is a long pause between whoopee and he and both Chamberlain and Walter Runciman (President of the Board of Trade) are congenitally opposed to whoopee, so what chance have you?"

Satisfactory Policy
"Despite some rather loud voices raised in criticism of the policy of the present British Government there has been ample indication, satisfactory to its members, in recent bye-elections that it is generally acceptable," the Associated Press informant said.

"There is a tremendous amount of money released every month in the dole alone. Just consider that $50,000,000 goes every month just to meet rents. This money is spent in villages and towns. There can't be much dissatisfaction over here as long as this is the case."

On Right Road
"In the United States and Canada and elsewhere there has been no dole and the unemployed and dissatisfied moved to cities with resulting disturbances," he asserted. "Here the dole has kept them in their home towns. And family influences—fear of what Aunt Molly is going to say—have kept them quiet. So long as they are quiet and settled, the policy which we feel is accomplishing much without the inherent danger of America's policies is likely to hold here."

"Meanwhile since the first of the year we have increased the index of our commodity prices by eight percent. That is not so spectacular as the increase in the States—16 percent in gold prices, I believe—but it is satisfactory to us and we believe we are on the right road."

Evening Service
The Friday evening session of the centennial was led by the pastor, Rev. H. R. Bell. A solo was necessary for the women to leave

LIBRARIES IN MEDIEVAL PERIOD

The illustrated lecture given in Prince of Wales College last night dealt with the development of libraries in medieval times. Dr. G. R. Lomer explained how the library originated in a small cupboard in the cloisters near the transept door of the cathedrals, where were kept the books required in the services, both for use on the altar and in the choir.

Later on when other manuscripts were obtained they were kept first in a small room near the chapter-house and later in the chapter-house itself. There they were given out to the monks for private study after the titles had been noted down and they had to be returned at stated intervals. This began in reality a system having all the essentials of a lending library.

The medieval system of education was briefly explained and reference was made to the text books used. The curriculum consisted of two groups of subjects—the trivium, consisting of grammar, rhetoric and logic; and the quadrivium, consisting of mathematics, music, geometry and astronomy. Besides these there were the great subjects of theology, medicine and law, which were at the basis of the learned professions.

As education progressed, colleges were established—communities having their food, instruction and books in common—and each having a dormitory, a refectory, study rooms and a library.

Perhaps the most interesting feature of these early libraries was the system they had of chaining books to the bookcases, and there was exhibited an original example of one of these chained books, showing the staple fixed to the binding and several links of the original wrought iron chain.

Other features of early bindings were the clasps to keep the thick vellum volumes closed and the bosses which were originally intended to allow air to pass between the volume and the shelf on which it lay and thus prevent mould from dampness.

Fine views of the interior of early libraries were shown, of particular interest being those of the Bodleian library at Oxford and the library of the Vatican, which not long ago was badly damaged by the roof falling in.

On Monday night Colonel Bovey will begin a week's lectures with "The North-west and the Arctic Islands" as his first subject.

The pioneers, their vivid sense of the reality of God, their deep and earnest religious feelings. Then there were at the time those in the church whose devotion never ceased. He noted Deacon Alexander Scott, Sr., and his daughter Anna, and other faithful souls who kept the altar fires burning. When Mr. MacDonald came the field was ripe for the harvest. He was a sweet singer and preached the plain gospel truths with wonderful power. Old and young alike yielded to his appeals. The effects of that revival have never ceased to exert their influence in the church and community.

Dr. Mellick spoke with deep emotion of what that revival brought to his own life and appealed to those who had not yet given themselves to Jesus Christ to yield to his call to follow Him and enter his service.

The congregation at the evening services crowded the building. Many visitors from nearly all over the island and some from the mainland are in attendance, among whom is Rev. Mr. Ford's daughter from Spokane, U. S. A.

rendered by Rev. John Wakeling. The speaker of the evening was Dr. E. S. Mason, Superintendent of Home Missions, who gave a stirring message on personality. His texts were "In the beginning God created man," "What is man that we are mindful of him?" and "Lord, what shall this man do?"

How much, asked the speaker, is man worth, and what can he do? Personality counts in the realm of the church. Nothing is great without personality and it cannot be great unless it has been touched by Christ.

In reviewing history of any community Dr. Mason continued, it is man himself that counts most. The most sacred institution God created is the Christian home. Creed counts as it issues itself in Christian character. We owe much to our fathers and we cannot be worthy of them unless we build character into the lives of our posterity. We owe much to our fathers and we cannot be worthy of them if we fall in this.

"If we do 'em in the next 100 years," added Dr. Mason feelingly, "our sons and daughters will build a greater history than our sires did, and may the shadow of East Point Church never grow less."

The centennial services will close with the evening service on Sunday. There has been a large attendance during the week and much spiritual help and inspiration have been derived by all present. (Patriot please copy) portance of unity was also stressed. The third attribute necessary was humility. The C. W. L. was working for God and Country. The Pontiff had singled one woman out for special honours.

Presentation
His Excellency then presented Mrs. MacIntyre with the medal, remarking that the medal had on the front of it, "Leo XIII," who had first conferred the medal on a woman, on the back, among the inscriptions was "Pro Ecclesia et Pontifice." If there was any woman whom he knew who deserved the honour, it was Mrs. MacIntyre, His Excellency stated. In presenting the medal he quoted the text from the last chapter of Romans: "Salute Mary for she hath laboured much among you."

Acknowledgement
Mrs. MacIntyre in reply stated that the position was a trying one to be in, and also a joyful one. The honour was not for her personally. She was the sixth woman who had been President of the C. W. L. in Canada and had received the honour. On the C. W. L. was dependent the carrying on of the programme of Catholic Action. She rejoiced for the C. W. L. of Canada, for the Diocese, and for the Sub-division of Charlottetown, in the receipt of the honour. The reports presented at the session indicated a spirit of unity in service.

Mrs. MacIntyre urged all Catholic women to enter the work of the League. She expressed to His Excellency the devotion of the C. W. L. which must be a united body. In closing, she thanked His Excellency for his kind words, and thanked the friends who were in attendance.

Congratulations Extended
Rev. Monsignor MacDonald congratulated Mrs. MacIntyre on receipt of the honour. She had received one of the greatest honours titles possible. It was a great distinction for a woman of the Diocese. The early history of the C. W. L. was not always sunshine. Mrs. MacIntyre had worked well for many organizations other than the C. W. L. She was always a loyal supporter of every project for good. He was glad that there were two C. W. L. units in his parish.

The President announced that Rev. Dr. MacLellan had just been appointed Vicar General. Called upon Father MacLellan spoke briefly and paid a high tribute to Mrs. MacIntyre in offering congratulations. He was a strong believer in the C. W. L.

Mrs. Katherine Creamer, Diocesan President, offered her congratulations to Mrs. MacIntyre, whose association with other organizations was proof of her zeal. She read a telegram of congratulation from the National President, Mrs. J. C. Keenan and a message from Montreal sub-division. Mrs. Frank Murray on behalf of the C. W. L., and Miss Rose Gaudet of the Junior C. W. L. presented Mrs. MacIntyre with beautiful bouquets.

the home when the men lacked the spirit for the fight. Nothing but the ideal was quite safe. There were low ideals abroad in the world today. It was necessary to call into action the voice of conscience. Civilization was at present in the doldrums, and the speaker looked upon the C. W. L. as the regenerating and leading light.

It should wage the battle against things which tended for degradation. He looked hopefully at Mussolini and even at Hitler who had some ideas of right and wrong. All the statesmen of the world listened for a word from Mussolini, Mussolini and Hitler might make mistakes, but they were so fundamentally right that hope might be based upon them.

There were many things to be combated. It was quite within the sphere of the ladies to have a say as regards the theatres. It would be well to look to the school text books. There was a strain of materialism present during the last twenty years. The early remembrances of the child were very important. There was a horrible lot of materialistic gossiping about the domestic affairs of plants. It was pointed out in texts that the only purpose of a plant was to produce seed. There were two English poets who could be read with great profit, Alfred Tennyson and William Shakespeare. Many had read "Lockley Hall," few had read "Lockley Hall Sixty Years." Shakespeare's thought was drawn from the ancient Christian culture, Dr. Campbell stated. While home was the place for woman, it was necessary for women to come forth to defend the outworks.

Hon. Dr. W. J. P. MacMillan, Acting Premier, spoke briefly, congratulating Mrs. MacIntyre on the honour which she had received. It was an extra compliment to hear her acknowledgement. He bore testimony of work done by Mrs. MacIntyre in societies other than the C. W. L. He stated that there was a great amount of work for the C. W. L. to do. Nobody could say that all was well with the present generation. At present there was a tide of worldly wise foolishness, the combating of which was of great importance.

Mr. A. A. Hennessey, representing the City Council, congratulated Mrs. MacIntyre on the honour she had received, and commented on her record of service. Rev. Fr. Enright and Rev. Fr. Flemming of the Holy Redeemer Parish, also extended congratulations to Mrs. MacIntyre.

The Corpus Christi Choir rendered very acceptably "The Bells of St. Mary's" and "The Lost Chord." Two much appreciated violin solos were rendered by Mr. Alfred McKearney.

Morning Session
At the morning session following the disposal of routine business, a most instructive address was given by Miss Nora Bateson, Director of the Carnegie Library Demonstration.

Afternoon Session
The afternoon session opened with a discussion on organization and social service. An address was given by Miss Anne MacIntyre, Social Service Nurse at the Charlottetown Hospital.

A splendid luncheon was served under the auspices of the C. W. L. of Charlottetown.

The Conference leaders are determined to leave the way clear for reconvening the World Congress at a later date, but some of them admitted that they thought reassembling of the entire gathering unlikely. It was explained that the work may continue on separate problems in separate international meetings.

SUCCESSFUL DAIRY FIELD DAY HELD

A very successful dairy field day was held on the premises of Mr. Thomas McGrath, manager and owner of the Morrell Factory. Mr. McGrath was in charge of proceedings and had arranged for judging classes of dairy cattle, a number of which had been brought to the grounds by farmers of nearby districts. After calling the meeting to order, Mr. W. R. Shaw, Live Stock Superintendent, gave a clear and concise description of the nature of the meeting, pointed out the value of stock raising, the need of consistency in breeding, and the benefits of careful selection.

Hon. Thos. MacNutt, Minister of Agriculture; Mr. W. R. Brenion, Dairy Superintendent; Mr. H. W. Clay of the Federal Livestock Branch, and Mr. J. W. Boulter, Deputy Minister of Agriculture. A demonstration in judging of cattle was given. Fifteen boys took part in the competition.

The Women's Institute served refreshments, and a very pleasant afternoon was spent. Mr. McGrath reported that the past few weeks have shown heavy receipts in cream, and an increase over former years.

Popular C. N. R. Official Passes Suddenly Away

A well known and highly esteemed citizen passed suddenly away yesterday in the person of Mr. Louis Parker Ritchie, C. N. R. ticket agent at Charlottetown. The deceased, who was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Ritchie, Charlottetown, attended to his duties at the office yesterday morning previous to the departure of the Borden train at 7 o'clock. Returning to his home he partook of breakfast, and while conversing with his wife about 9.15 slumped in the chair, and passed away immediately. A physician was immediately sent for but when he arrived, pronounced him dead.

On Thursday evening the deceased complained of a pain in his chest, but did not consider it serious. Yesterday morning, although still slightly troubled, he was in apparently good health, motoring to and from his office.

The late Mr. Ritchie was a man of fine moral character and was held in the highest esteem by all with whom he came in contact. Entering the services of the C. N. R. as clerk and operator on March 25th, 1907, Mr. Ritchie received his first promotion as freight clerk on Nov. 1st, 1911. On Sept. 1st, 1916, he was appointed assistant freight agent, and during his tenure of office was at different times acting freight agent. On May 26th, 1925, he received the appointment of ticket agent.

He leaves to mourn besides a sorrowing widow (nee Amy Lower) two brothers, George, of Western Canada and Harry, Manager of the branch of the Bank of Nova Scotia deepest sympathy.
