THE MORNING GUARDIAN

THURSDAY, JULY 4, 1901.

Mr. Carnegie's movements while visiting the land of his birth were watched and criticized. The story is told that when Mr. Carnegie discovered that an old school mate of his was the engineer of the train which was carrying him from Edinburgh to London, Carnegie climbed on to the engine, made himself known, and heartily shook the grimy hand of his former Scotch playmate.

Comparatively little is heard in this Province now a-days of the vast fortunes achieved in the gold fields of the Klondyke. In the days when the gold fever was at its height, those who left this Province were watched and from time to time stories of the wealth of the country almost unbalanced the minds of those compelled to remain at home. Reports now coming from the Klondyke regions as to the winter clean up of gold and the prospect for the summer are encouraging. A complete estimate has not been made of the amount already extracted, but it will be some millions in advance of the previous season. The region will probably prove to be as profitable as the old miners and experts predicted. The increase in facilities for transportation and the application of improved methods of extracting the ore will naturally increase the output. Just now the Klondyke region, in spite of the hardships to be encountered, offers strong inducements to miners. Since the war in South Africa began nearly two years ago, operations there have amounted to but little in the way of mining. The loss to the world's supply of gold from the shutdown there will amount to millions of dollars. In Colorado and other gold-producing states the yield is increasing steadily, so that the American operators both in the states and Alaska are reaping the best profits of any in the extraction of gold ores. But little is heard now about the disputes as to the boundary line between the United States and Canada in the gold fields. It is more profitable to mine ore than to go to law about claims. The season for working is about to begin in the Klondyke, and great activity may be expected. The United States paid Russia $7,000,000 for Alaska. In one season five or six times as much gold as the land cost has been taken out, and it is believed hardly a beginning has been made.

Dodd & Rogers,

Yesterday was the Glorious Fourth the longest day of the year for young America. Today the re-action will set in after the boisterous event given to pent up patriotism.

A correspondent writes asking what the consequence would be if "these several new and distinct systems of wireless telegraphy ever get their wireless wires crossed?" As the question is not new and as it appeared in the Boston Herald of last month the writer was of the opinion when he read it that wireless telegraphy in this regard would be a distinct improvement.

Public Works.

Some go to church just for a walk;
Some go to stare to laugh and talk;
Some go there to meet a friend;
Some their idle time to spend,
Some for general conversation,
Some for private speculation;
Some to seek or find a lover;
Some a courtship to discover;
Some go there to use their eyes;
And new fashions criticize;
Some to show their own smart dress;
Some their neighbors to assess;
Some to scan a robe or bonnet;
Some to prize the trimming on it;
Some to learn the latest news—
That friends at home they may amuse;
Some to gossip false and true
Safe hid within the sheltering pew!
Some to lounge and some to yawn;
Some because its thought genteel;
Some to vaunt their pious zeal;
Some to show how sweet they sing;
Some how loud their voices ring;
Some the preacher go to hear
His style of voice to praise or jeer;
Some forgiveness to implore;
Some their sins to varnish o'er;
Some to sit and dose or nod;
But few to kneel and worship God.
