RHODESIA WHITES WANT ANNEXTION

JOHANNESBURG, Oct. 26 (CP)—Dr. Carl Poglieter, prominent member of the Witwatersrand Nationalist Party just returned from a visit to Rhodesia, told a conference of representatives of 27 African trades unions and other bodies that both European groups there—English and Afrikaners—are anxious for economic reasons to see Rhodesia incorporated in the Union of South Africa.

Poglieter said he received the impression that Rhodesia's traditional fear of "Beer union" was waning through incorporation of Rhodesia the Union would gain 40,000 English citizens and 20,000 Afrikaners.

In connection with the question of recognition of Africa trades union under the Industrial Conciliation Act the conference passed a resolution asking the deletion of the act's definition of "employee" which excludes native workers.

Search For Uniform In N. Y. Slaying

NEW YORK, Oct. 26 (AP)—The missing uniform of RCAF Airman Wayne Lonergan, 26, was the object of a police search today in the investigation into the blood-gone murder of his estranged wife, pretty 22-year-old Patricia Burton Lonergan.

As New York police left by plane for Toronto to question Lonergan, an American who is held for them by Toronto authorities, investigators here were told by John Frederick Harjes, in whose apartment Lonergan spent Saturday night, that the young flier left a note. The note, police said, told of borrowing one of Harjes' suits because he had met with an accident which destroyed the uniform.

Picked up in Toronto, Lonergan, in civilian clothes, told police his uniform had been stolen, authorities there said.

Directing the investigation is assistant District Attorney Jacob Grumet.

Acting Deputy Inspector Patrick J. Kenny said Toronto police told him Lonergan had "cuts and scratches on his face."

Meanwhile, the District Attorney's office was advised by the medical examiner that Mrs. Lonergan died of strangulation, together with a fracture of the skull and a concussion of the brain. The District Attorney earlier said scrapings of human skin had been found under the fingernails.

Blood stains found on the carpeted staircase leading to the bedroom furnished a clue, and one detective said, "indicated there was a battle royal in which Mrs. Lonergan fought desperately."

Mrs. Lonergan, mother of an 18-month-old son, Wayne Williams Lonergan, was found dead in her bed at 215 E. 75th St. Sunday.

Miss Jeanne Murphy, 22, blond showgirl, told police she spent Saturday evening with Lonergan, and met him again Sunday. He left by plane for Canada at 5 p.m., she said, adding she noted no scratches on his face.

Held as a material witness was Mario Enzo Gabelline, 43, interior decorator, who, police said, escorted Mrs. Lonergan Saturday night.

Canada Seeks Agreement To Preserve Fisheries

OTTAWA, Oct. 26 (CP)—A Canadian delegation in London seeking a convention with the United States to conserve and develop fisheries resources on the North Atlantic banks adjacent to Canada, is expected to return today.

Latest information from this delegation, headed by Dr. Hugh Keenleyside, Assistant Undersecretary of State for External Affairs, is that co-operation and interest shown by the United States in the proposed convention is encouraging.

Dr. Keenleyside was accompanied to London by Dr. M. Pitt, Deputy Minister of Fisheries, and Dr. A. W. H. Needler, director of the Fisheries Experimental Station at St. Andrews, N. B.

They are attending a fisheries conference originally called by Britain to seek agreement among the Allied Governments with a view to conserve and preserve North Atlantic fisheries generally, but particularly those in the North Sea which were being depleted by extensive and uncontrolled operations immediately after the First Great War.

Canada, the United States and Newfoundland have been carrying on joint investigations for five years on the possibility of entering into an international agreement to conserve and preserve the North Atlantic fisheries adjacent to this continent.

When the present fisheries conference was called in London in the interests of the European North Atlantic fisheries, Canada took the first opportunity of sending a delegation empowered to seek and complete a convention which would include the banks fisheries off North America.

The United States is represented by two observers, Newfoundland, which has not now Dominion status, is represented by one. The United States has supported the proposal and would be expected to be a party to any convention reached.

Farewell Party

A very pleasant evening was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Logan, Fort Augustus, when forty or more guests gathered to do honour and bid farewell to their son Russell of the R. C. M. C. who departs in the near future for his camp to resume his duties in the service of his King and Country.

After all had risen from a table well laden with good things to eat, the house was called to order by Mr. Cornelius Gummiskey, who called upon Spr. Charles A. McGuirk of R. C. E. to read the following address. A well filled purse was presented to Russell and in his usual jovial manner, he thanked them all for their thoughtfulness and generosity.

Dear Russell—

We are gathered here this evening to bid you farewell before the expiration of your leave, we hope that you have enjoyed every moment of your stay with us in Fort Augustus. We also hope that in the not too distant future that you will be back among us again, and that this terrible struggle will be ended.
