EAST OF BORNEO

LAUREL and HARDY in "HELPMATES"

HERE MONDAY 'FRANKENSTEIN'

Cohens And Kellys At Capitol

A riotous laugh picture showing the inner workings of Hollywood studio and social life.

This aptly describes the "Cohens and Kellys in Hollywood" now at the Capitol Theatre. The picture, produced by its stars George Sidney and Charlie Murray, is the screen's most popular comedy team...

In this hilarious picture Kelly's daughter becomes a featured screen player through a happy chain of circumstances, and when the Cohens follow their Irish friends to the film capital they find the Kellys have "gone Hollywood" with tremendous enthusiasm...

Sensational Jungle Drama At Prince Edward

"East of Borneo" is one of the most remarkable motion pictures ever shown in Charlottetown.

This unusual drama opened an engagement at the Prince Edward Theatre yesterday, and at once impressed as a picture which has something to offer in addition to a highly interesting story. The story is laid in the wild jungle country of the Malay Peninsula...

The story concerns an Oriental rajah, an American woman and her former husband. The latter, ambittered by his unsuccessful marital venture, has chosen literally to bury himself in the Malay jungles where he is the only white man, and where he acts as personal physician to the rajah of the district. The wife, feeling the return of her old love for her former husband, follows him to this tropical outpost, and it is after her arrival that the story takes on an unusual quality of tense drama...

SERIAL and MERRY-MELODY CARTOON

IN MEMORIAM

MRS. WESLEY FOLLAND

Again the angel of death has visited Kensington and on Sept. 2, 1932, took from our midst Mrs. Wesley Folland. She was in maidenhood Margaret Somers, daughter of the late James Pickering Somers and Mrs. Somers.

The deceased lady was fifty-six years of age and leaves a host of friends both here and in the neighboring districts.

On two different occasions she was constrained to enter the Prince County Hospital for treatment for diabetes and gangrene, but all was in vain.

To mourn she leaves her husband, four daughters, Mrs. Arthur B. Warren, Ensham, Sask.; Mrs. D. F. McKay, Clifton; Mrs. Perry Cann, Kensington; Ethel, at home; Ira, Margate; Leigh, Kensington; Edward and Roland at home; two sisters, Mrs. John Cameron, Kensington; Mrs. Wm. Folland, Grandville, and five brothers, James Pleasant Valley; Bruce, Bradalbane; Cleveland, Clinton; Hartie, Charlottetown, and Walter, Bradalbane.

The funeral was largely attended and the services were conducted in the United Church, Kensington, of which she was a devoted member. The date was Sunday, Sept. 4, at 2 p.m. The service was conducted by Rev. George Somers, assisted by Rev. A. F. Baker in the absence of the pastor, Rev. W. S. Loring.

The pall bearers were Messrs. Wm. Proffitt, Wm. Mann, C. C. Baker, J. A. Johnson, Turner Glyndon and Chester Howard. Interment took place in the People's Cemetery, Kensington.

The sympathy of the whole community is extended to the bereaved husband and family, who mourn the loss of a good wife and mother.

May God bless and comfort them, as He surely will in the day of their affliction. Y.

CHARLES WILLIAM RILEY

Passed away at Medicine Hat Hospital, July 25, 1932, Charles W. Riley, aged 38 years, after an illness of five weeks, which was borne with christian resignation. Deceased was born in Winnipeg, Man., and came to Alberta some years ago with his father, where they took up farming. Being of an amiable disposition and cheerful manner, he made many friends who deeply regret his early passing. Besides his sorrowing widow (nee Miss Hazel V. Stead), Wheatley River, P. E. I., and one child Joyce, he leaves to mourn their loss and cherish his memory his father Mr. J. O. Riley, Granville, Alta., one brother Herbert, Memiskom, Alta., and two sisters, Mrs. Iva De Mars, Webb, Sask., and Mrs. Samuel Robinson, Etzikom, Alta.

The funeral was held on July 27th. The remains were taken from Patison and Wilson Funeral Parlors, thence to Etzikom United Church, where the service was conducted by Rev. Mr. Little. Service at the grave was under the auspices of Etzikom Lodge No. 123, I. O. O. F., of which deceased was a valued member. The speaker was Mr. Boiser, formerly of P. E. I.

The floral tributes were numerous and beautiful. Silent tokens of love and respect for the one departed. Interment took place at Etzikom Cemetery.

where the food must stand for hours before being eaten, but become a deadly monotony when interspersed with other simply prepared foods. If I accomplish no other purpose in my whole life than to introduce new dishes into the carried midday meal, I should hope to have the epitaph carved in my tombstone "She did not live in vain; she substituted delightful variety for monotony in the school lunches of Canadian children." An ambitious goal, is it not? If you could gain the habit of using whole wheat bread in your lunches, you would be improving your family's health enormously. Whole wheat bread has bulk and contains all the food elements necessary to life—although not in such perfect proportions as milk. Whole wheat bread must be supplemented with milk, eggs, fresh fruits and vegetables.

There is the foundation for our school lunches.

The Lunch Box Itself

Your son or daughter should be proud of his or her lunch box. It should be of metal and easily washable. The perfect lunch box will contain both a vacuum bottle and a moisture proof container for such things as salads, stewed fruits, custards, gelatin mixtures, pork and beans or other moist ingredients. This could quite easily be a screw top jelly jar.

In homes where lunches have to be packed daily, two pound rolls of heavily waxed paper should be provided and used generously.

I hope to impress another point on you by telling you a story with a rather obscure connection with lunch boxes. A friend of mine has a little girl five years of age who yet has to be dressed and undressed by either her mother or some helper. She had never been taught, because the immediate present was always too precious to sacrifice to the long and result-producing future.

This same friend visited another friend of mine who has a little girl two years and four months old. This little mite toddled downstairs one afternoon after her nap completely clothed with help from no one. She had gone to her own little clothes press, lifted down a clean dress and bloomers to match which were on the same hanger; had taken clean pants, shirt and sock from her drawer (even if the heels were on top of her instep, the object lesson still holds), and had donned them all and had only to ask her mother to comb her hair and button her slippers (she had been bathed before her nap). This usefulness had been learned by the constant following of her mother in her one year old stage, and constant chatting of the wise mother to impress her where things were kept and how easily they slipped on.

All this leads up to allowing your kiddies to pack their own lunch boxes. Can you not readily see how much prouder they will be to open it at five minutes after twelve when they can display their own handiwork, and boast why they had such and such an ingredient today, and which food contains which vitamin? Teach the kiddies to pack their own lunches by first stocking the larder with the required foods, and providing them with the following menus for guides, day by day.

LUNCH BOX MENU

- No. 1—Whole wheat bread sandwiches of chopped egg and celery. Little sponge cakes. Dates, Milk. No. 2—Chopped chicken or veal whole wheat sandwiches. Fresh tomato. Gingerbread. Milk. Apple. No. 3—Home made nut bread spread with peanut butter. Baked cup custard. Milk. Pear.

CANADIAN COOKERY

- No. 4—Cream of Tomato Soup in vacuum. Whole wheat raisin muffins. Cottage cheese. Orange. No. 5—Pimiento cheese and olive sandwich on whole wheat bread. Leaves of head lettuce. Raisins. Nut cookie. Cocoa in vacuum. No. 6—Cream of carrot soup in vacuum. Cottage cheese, and water-cress sandwich on whole wheat bread. Fresh fruit such as apple, orange, pear, peach, plum, etc. No. 7—Hard cooked egg, Brown bread and butter. Celery, orange. Date or Raisin bread, Milk. No. 8—Cream of potato soup. Buttered crackers. Cabbage and pineapple salad in moisture proof container. Figs. Cookie.

Soups and those that must be served hot of a necessity can be reheated just before school time and carried in the vacuum. Would not steaming hot spaghetti in tomato sauce look good to the kiddies when poured out on their little paper plates at noon when they are ravenously hungry?

The following lunch box menus are entirely different types because they have been planned with a little forethought the day before, by the cook.

When foods such as stews, soups, rice or nourishing milk puddings of all kinds, macaroni dishes, or other casserole combinations, pork and beans, etc., are being prepared, enough extra should be made for the lunch box.

School Lunch Containing Home Cooked Foods

- No. 1—Vegetable chowder in vacuum. Lettuce in whole wheat sandwiches. Apple sauce in moisture proof jar, cocoa. No. 2—Spam rice with bacon in vacuum. Raw vegetable salad in moisture proof jar. Milk. Figs and nuts. No. 3—Creamed cod fish with hard cooked egg, in vacuum. Cold slaw in moisture proof jar. Rye bread, cookies, cocoa. No. 4—Split pea soup with diced bacon in vacuum. Celery, bran muffins, stewed pears in moisture proof jar. Milk. No. 5—Scalloped vegetables reheated and poured into vacuum. Raisin bread. Milk. Orange. No. 6—Cream of carrot soup in vacuum. Fruit salad in moisture proof jar. Brown bread. Nuts, cocoa. No. 7—Spaghetti in tomato sauce in vacuum. Crisp whole wheat unsweetened biscuits generously spread with butter. Cup custard. Figs, dates or raisins. Cocoa. If any of our readers desire further information for incorporating foods which they have on hand into school lunches, Mrs. Moore will be glad to hear from them. Address her in care of this paper.

PINEAU—MORRIS NUPTIALS

The Holy Redeemer Church, Charlottetown, was the scene of a pretty Autumn wedding on Wednesday morning, Sept. 7, 1932, when Miss Alice Pineau was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Mr. Patrick F. Morris, both of this city. The wedding ceremony was performed by Rev. Father McGreel, C.S.S.R. in the presence of a large assemblage of relatives and friends. The bride was given in marriage by her stepfather, and looked beautiful in her wedding tulle veil, which formed a train, was pinned in silver and arranged in a cap effect with sude pearls. She carried a magnificent shower bouquet of snapdragon, pink roses, and maiden hair fern. The happy couple were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Alan J. McDonald, Mrs. McDonald being a sister of the bride. She was attractively gowned in an ensemble of ping georgette and black picture hat. She carried a corsage bouquet of briarcliff roses and delphiniums. The wedding gifts shone forth in all the brilliancy of a varied and luxurious assortment, testified to the popularity of the contracting parties. After the ceremony the bridal party motored to Beach Grove Inn, where justice was done to the fine delicacies that adorned the breakfast table. Brief eulogistic speeches were made by Rev. J. B. MacIntyre, Rev. James Murphy, Rev. Joseph McGreel and Mr. Henry Hughes. About 11:30 o'clock the happy couple left by motor amid showers of confetti and good wishes enroute to St. John, N. B., Sydney, N.S., and other Maritime cities on a honeymoon trip. The Guardian joins with numerous friends in congratulating Mr. Morris and in wishing him and his estimable partner, many years of happy useful wedded life, as together they walk in the path made out for them by the Divine Guide.

Strict Bathing Rules Enforced

LONDON, Sept. 8.—(C.P.)—London in a heat wave of more than 80 degrees found ice too rare for comfort. Many who demanded ice drinks had to go without. A new freedom was apparent in the way family parties made ready in public, scattered over on the grass to take the water. Some of the babies, even those who were not paddling, wore trunks held up by knitted shoulder-straps; a fashion seen frequently about London in these last few days.

To an innocent spectator the scene in this part of Hyde Park a charming one. But the law had its eye open for possible breaches of propriety. A policeman was on patrol duty near the water, and she had something to say to a girl of about 12 who arrived in a bathing costume. It was a "university" costume, but she had with her several younger children whose garments reached only as high as the waist. The reproval was apparently collective, for the children sorrowfully took pinafores out of the perambulator which the oldest girl was pushing, and put them on as they walked along the crowded path. Another policeman was on duty at the entrance to the small boys' bathing-place, and was careful to see that each carried a bathing suit as he went in.

A new bathing-pool on the roof of a hotel had many visitors for swimming and sun-bathing. The enterprise had a Continental flavor, for one may sit beside the pool, under a striped umbrella, to take tea or cocktails, and can bathe there till midnight, the roof is now being equipped with artificial sunlight, for use at night.

Address And Presentation

On September the first, the employees of the Car Department of the C. N. R. met in their shop for the purpose of bidding farewell to one of the Department's oldest employees. An address was read by Mr. C. J. McLean, Car Foreman and a presentation of a smoking set by the next oldest employee in the service, Mr. Lambert Spencer. Although being taken by surprise, Mr. McKenna thanked the employees in his usually easy unassuming manner for their generous gift and expression on the eve of his retirement and related a few incidents in his early days of railroad. The following is the address:

Mr. Patrick McKenna, Carman, C. N. R. Charlottetown. Dear Sir:— On the eve of your departure from active service in the C. N. R., we your fellow employees beg leave to express our appreciation of the courtesy and kindness always extended to us, and to offer you our sincere wishes that you may long be spared to enjoy the calm and glory of the twilight after your strenuous duties of over thirty-five years.

It is the privilege of few to serve for such a lengthy period, and it is the privilege of none to serve more faithfully the duties entrusted to your care, for in you the Railway had an employee, whose reputation for giving service is hard to excel. By your constant devotion to the principles of truth and justice—principles on which stand the foundation of human society—you have won the confidence and respect of your associates. It is not necessary to recount here the many ways in which we shall miss you. It is sufficient to say that your name will ever remain untarnished on our hearts as a gem in the golden crown of memory. We ask you to accept this little gift as a remembrance of us, as accompanied as it is by our very best wishes that you may long enjoy your well deserved superannuation. On behalf of the employees, Charlottetown. Sept. 2nd, 1932.

CHICAGO, Ill., Sept. 9.—(By The Canadian Press)—The Herald and Examiner is making a strong drive against the "wreckage of education" in the city. With millions of dollars in cash paid in by taxpayers, lying idle, the unpaid teachers, to whom millions are due, are expected to go to work once more when schools open. The paper declares that it has assisted a delegation of teachers in going to Washington to present the plea for the public schools to Congress, it has helped to institute a new procedure for bringing the mayor's proxy from Europe by telephoto in order to expedite the payment of teachers and it has urged taxpayers to pay their taxes. All this was done with the object of restoring the City of Chicago to prompt payment of salaries and orderly methods of business, and not of building up bank balances.
