LEVANTED.—Among the cases fixed for hearing at the City Police Court on Monday was one of a character unusual to this town and likely in consequence to be of considerable interest in its trial. Marshall Cameron issued a summons against a woman named Mary Myers, whose husband it is stated is on a hand on some steamship, alleging against her the keeping of a disorderly house. But the defendant did not put in her appearance when the case was called, and as it was stated to the magistrate that there was a strong probability that the woman was trying to evade the prosecution, a Bench warrant was immediately issued for her arrest, the case being adjourned to Monday next. The warrant is now in the hands of the Marshal and his men for execution, but it is understood that the woman has left the Island; the police being unable up to the present to trace her whereabouts in this province. It is believed that she has crossed over to Nova Scotia, in which case the authorities are not likely to put themselves to much trouble in regard to effecting the execution of the warrant; the island being well rid of such an undesirable character as this woman is alleged to be.

They were in their gasoline boat when the boat parted amidships and almost immediately sank.
