AN 1,800 DOLLAR HOUSE.

For $2,000 a Bath Room, with Full Plumbing Fixtures, Was Introduced.

Copyright, 1899, by Charles Willard Leighton, Architect, N. Y. City.

(This is the sixth in the series of ten Illustrated Architectural Articles now running in our daily edition, prepared especially for us by the well-known Architect, Mr. Charles Willard Leighton, who will be glad to furnish our readers any further information desired about architecture in general, or the designs illustrating these articles in particular. Address him at his office, 203 Broadway, N. Y. City.)

Colonial Architecture is a style which the ordinary builder or the average architect should leave severely alone if he values his reputation and does not care to be the laughing stock of the local community. A severe "box" ef-are carefully examined but the semi-colonial veranda and the panelling of exterior on second story not only relieves the severity of the design but modifies it into a pleasing sketch.

PERSPECTIVE.

The foundation may be either of brick or stone, the latter being cheaper in many localities. The cellar extends under the whole house thereby providing against dampness. The first story is planned in a fashion mentioned in one of our former articles for a direct passage from the kitchen to the front door. The entrance hall and staircase on first story including the platform, has never been designed the same as the first floor plan shows on original treatment. Carefully study the

A good modification for the second story plan in the front room would be that if the linen closet in the hall was not absolutely required, it could be used for a closet for the front bed room, door being planned for access to same, and the larger closet shown in the plan could be made into a cosy corner with a couch seat around two sides with window opening on the right side of the house. A bath room may be introduced in the second story dividing up the bed room marked 11'-6" x 9' and the space marked closet into two rooms, one for bath room and the other for a smaller sleeping chamber. In this case the plumbing would come right over the laundry tubs in the kitchen.

The exterior of the first story is finished with shingles laid on hemlock boarding filled in between with one thickness of building paper, well lapped and nailed. The panelling on the second story is plaster or cement which when soft may have pebbles, clam shells, or the ends and bottoms of brook-bottles set in at random. This cement is put on the same as plaster, on laths, and the inside is to receive a coat of clear on joists interiorly as a protection against cold weather. The stiles may be made from various kinds of woods of oak plank roughly hewn and well oiled. These are the best and should receive a good coat of outside spar varnish giving an antique effect.

In order to stain the styles to a darker color, as the first coat applied gives a light brown color, the stain should remain a few days without being touched and a second coat applied which after 40 hours will turn dark. Then vanish with spar varnish as stated above. This stain is composed of one quarter ounce permanganate of potash to one quart of water thoroughly mixed and application should be made at once after mixing. We give herewith a technical description of this design. General Dimensions: Width, 25 ft.; depth, 30 ft. 6 ins., no no: including veranda. Heights of Stories: Cellar, 7 ft.; first story, shingles; second story, cement panels; roof shingles. Interior Finish Hard white plaster: Trim, N. C. pine, stained. Flooring, N. C. pine. Staircase, N. C. pine, with ash rail. Colors: First story, light gray. Woodwork in second story, dark brown. Roof, moss green. Cost, $1,800, complete. The estimate is based on New York prices for material and labor. In many sections of the country the cost should be less.

To be idle is the hardest of all tasks. Our grandmothers understood this and even in their leisure moments were never found without some little task in their hands, if it were only knitting, tatting or crocheting. There was a reason for this that does not appear upon the surface. Our grandmothers were healthy women, imbued with a spirit of ambition and activity that would not permit them to be idle.

If many modern women are much less active and more given to idleness than the stately dames of yore, it is because they enjoy a smaller measure of good health. A woman who suffers from weakness and disease of the distinctly feminine organs, who is racked with pain, and tortured with headaches and nervousness, cannot be active and helpful. Idleness and invalidism are the natural results of suffering of this description. The poor invalid woman is not at fault, save in her ignorance of her own physical make-up or neglect of her womanly health. Thousands of women are neglectful in this way because they shrink from the embarrassing examinations and local treatment insisted upon by the majority of obscure physicians. Dr. R. V. Pierce, for thirty years chief consulting physician to the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, at Buffalo, N. Y., has discovered a wonderful medicine that cures all diseases peculiar to women, in the privacy of the home, without the necessity of these embarrassing ordeals. This great medicine is known as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It acts directly on the delicate and important organs that bear the burdens of wifehood and motherhood. It makes them strong, healthy and vigorous. It heals internal ulceration and inflammation and stops debilitating drains. It transforms weak, nervous invalids into healthy women. ## A Vancouver Policeman

—Permanently Cured of Catarrh—
—After 12 Years' Suffering.

JAPANESE CATARRH CURE CURES.

Mr. Thos. Crawford, Sergeant Vancouver Police Force, writes: "I have been a great sufferer from catarrh, which I contracted over 12 years ago in Winnipeg. I tried many so-called catarrh cures, consulted physicians, catarrh specialists, and not one of them gave me more than a little temporary relief. About two years ago I tried Japanese Catarrh Cure, and since completing this treatment I have been permanently cured. I can highly recommend it—the first application relieved."

Sold by all druggists. 50 cents. Six boxes, guaranteed to cure any case of nasal catarrh, for $2.50. A free sample sent to any person suffering from catarrh. Enclose 5 cent stamp. Address, The Griffiths & Macpherson Co., 121 Church Street, Toronto.
