WORK FOR OUR GIRLS

How to Swell the Family Purse.

OUR CORRESPONDENT

Thinks That all Ch'Town Women Should Read the Suggestions.

When circumstances compel a young girl or woman to seek work outside her home there is usually a period of depression when she finds how little she really knows of practical things, and how lamentably she is hampered by her lack of training. The positions which require no technical ability all seem to be filled, and the money or time with which to take a special course in any department is not to be had. What shall I do? What can I do? are questions to which she cannot reply. It is to answer just such questions as these that this article has been contributed by Francis E. Lanigan to the "Ladies' Home Journal."

HELPING WITH CHILDREN'S LESSONS.
 Many mothers are distressed at the careless way in which their children study their lessons and do their practicing. To such mothers a conscientious young woman well grounded in the English branches and music, with a slight knowledge of Latin, French, and German, who would devote herself a couple of hours each day to assisting the children in the preparation of their lessons, and intelligently directing their practice hours, would prove invaluable.

COOKING DAINTIES.
 An occupation that should come quite readily to all women is that of cooking. Any woman who can make unusual things is sure of a market. People who board or live in apartments are only too ready to avail themselves of delicacies of any sort or, indeed, of even substantial. Cracking nuts and extracting the meats is another industry which may be followed. The work must be done daintily and quickly to be acceptable. The nut expert may still further add to her income by salting peanuts and almonds and by stoning raisins.

THE MARKETER.
 Akin to the woman caterer of special delicacies is the woman marketer, who arranges for a stipulated sum per week or month to do the marketing for a certain number of families. The work is pleasant, and the girl who succeeds at it is quite sure to make herself valuable to her patrons.

CHAPERONING GIRLS.
 Another pleasant way for a young woman to earn money is to undertake the place of "mothers' helper," and arrange to accompany young girls to art galleries, concerts, to the weekly dancing chasses, gymnasium, &c. She may also accompany them to and from school, and be with them in their afternoon walks. A young woman who could do all these things and also fill the place of the nurse on her afternoon out, by amusing and looking after the very little ones, would soon make herself indispensable.

MENDING AND LAUNDERING.

A bright young girl, who was suddenly compelled to assist in adding to the family finances sent little notes to her friends and also to her acquaintances, notifying them of her desire to undertake the charge of their skirts—to keep them free from spots and dust, and to attend to the facings and bindings. It was not long before she was able to keep two women at work under her supervision and the financial result from her plucky venture was entirely satisfactory. Another young girl appraised her friends of the fact that she was prepared to do fine ironing, such as centres, vice, table and doyleys, children's fine dresses, &c. She provided herself, by selling a fur coat which she felt did not suit her fallen fortunes with the latest improvement in the way of irons, boards &c., and soon had three young women doing the work, while she attended to making and sending out the bills. Neither of these young girls charged exorbitant prices. Both of them succeeded not only in earning money, but in holding the respect of their friends as well as of their patrons.

THE TABLE DECORATOR.

The girl artist, in these days of much illustration, does not generally lack for occupation, and one of them who recently turned her attention to drawing designs for dinner-table decoration has been quite successful in selling her work. She arranges on paper several designs for a dinner table for a party of eight or ten, as the case may be, and submits them to the woman who is to give the dinner. When one is selected she is engaged to arrange the real table according to her idea.

READING TO INVALIDS.

Temporary invalids—and permanent ones, too, for that matter,—have an intense horror of dropping out of the knowledge of contemporary things. For them are provided attendants who visit them for an hour or two each day, reading them the brightest news in the daily papers, the new magazines, the new books, and keeping them posted as to outside affairs. These attendants also answer letters.

DESIGNING BOOK COVERS.

Work that requires much artistic skill is that of designing book covers. A girl who feels that she has any talent in that direction may find a field by applying to one of the large publishing houses for permission to compete in the work of designing a cover for some new book.

DUSTING BOOKS AND CURIOS.

When the day comes for the sweeping of the drawing room or library, the mistress, unwilling to trust her valued possessions to the care of ordinary servants, arranges the room herself. This takes time, and she would be only too glad to relegate this duty to hands which she could feel would appreciate the value of rare bric-a-brac and costly editions. Here, then, is another field for a young woman, who might arrange to come on sweeping days, dust and put away the bric-a-brac, carefully fold and but away the draperies after they have been taken down and shaken, cover up the furniture, and prepare everything for the person who is to sweep.

AMUSING INVALID CHILDREN.

Any young woman who is willing to devote herself to invalid children is sure of an occupation. There are many children who may not be trusted in the hands of the average nursemaid, yet who are not ill enough to require the trained attendant. For such children the personal care of a sympathetic, intelligent young girl is invaluable. One girl has four invalid children to care for, to whom in turn she devotes her entire working day. The hours she spends with them are almost the brightest in their little lives. She massages them, superintends their baths, reads to them, plays with them, plays and sings for them and in fine weather takes them out either walking or driving.

CARING FOR PETS.

A vocation that should recommend itself to the lover of birds and animals is the caring for pets. The caretaker travels from house to house, cleaning and caring for the birds, seeing that the pet dog and cat are in good condition, and that any little ailment is attended to and any serious one reported. If the caretaker is clever she may have a "pet hospital," where house pets of all sorts may receive tender care.

and classes are being formed every day to teach the small girl how to utilise her thread, needle, and thimble. One young girl has a class of 20 little girls who meet three times a week, and who are busily engaged in learning to make garments for poor children.

VOICE CULTURE.

The young woman who can teach voice culture has a dignified and lucrative occupation open to her. To a class of young children she gives lessons in reading, teaching them how to read slowly and correctly, explaining difficult words as they come along, carefully watching pronunciation, and correcting any lapses of grammatical form which may occur.

EVA BOOTH REPORTED DEAD.

TORONTO, May 23.—A rumor was current through North Toronto yesterday that Eva Booth field commissioner of the Salvation Army had died at her residence Eglinton on Sunday and in fact the announcement was made at the evening service of the Eglinton Methodist church. Enquiry at the residence however did not confirm the report but it was stated that Miss Booth had been seriously ill for about two months past. She had returned from the city about a week ago and is now making rapid progress towards recovery.

Great Victory.

BARNABY RIVER, N. B. Mar.—Few cases of illness and recovery have excited the interest in this community, as has the kidney trouble of Mr. Cornelius Crottie. Mr. Crottie's treatment by the doctors at home and in the hospital, and the fact that they absolutely gave him up as a case beyond all hope, is well known. His subsequent restoration by the use of Dodd's Kidney Pills reads like a miracle. "For five years I have suffered off and on with kidney trouble. Last fall I had an attack, for which the doctors had little hope of my recovery. I was obliged to go to the hospital for treatment, but it did me no good, so I came home given up by the doctors. A friend suggested Dodd's Kidney Pills. From the first box I improved. Now I am at my work every day."

Gentlemen,—My neighbor's boy age 4 years old, fell into a tub of boiling water, and got scalded fearfully. A few days later his legs swelled to three times their natural and broke out in running sores. His parents could get nothing to help him till I recommended MINARD'S LINIMENT, which after using two bottles, completely cured him and I know of several cases around here almost as remarkable, cured by the same Liniment, and I can truly say I never handled a medicine which has had as good a sale or given such universal satisfaction.
