IN MEMORIAM

MRS. E. H. GILL.

The death occurred at Rockland, Mass., on Aug. 26th of Maggie (Ross) Gill, wife of Mr. E. H. Gill. She leaves to mourn besides her husband a son and daughter, E. Ross Gill and Mrs. John Henry, an aged mother, Mrs. John Ross, Grafton St., Charlottetown, and five sisters, Mrs. G. A. Aitkin, Georgetown; Mrs. A. C. MacLeod, French River, Mrs. C. H. Nash, Washington, and Misses Sadie and Mary Ross at home to all of whom is extended sincerest sympathy.

MR. PETER E. BURGE.

Again the angel of death visited Saint Peter's Parish and called from its midst on Tuesday, the 18th instant, one of the most popular young men of that place, Mr. Peter E. Burge. Deceased had been in failing health for about four years and although not apparently seriously ill yet the thread of life was gradually wearing away and at the end of the allotted time at the early age of twenty-seven years, death laid its icy hands on the dear and frail form and claimed it for his own. He was a graduate of the U. C. College in the year 1908 and in the fall of the same year he moved to Western Canada where he resided for five years and was very successful in his business career, but owing to delicate health he was obliged to return to his loving home. Deceased was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Burge, and besides his parents he leaves to mourn three sisters and three brothers: Mrs. W. A. McKinnon, of St. George's; James, of London, R. I.; Edward, of Winnipeg, Manitoba; Anselm, operator, P. E. I. Railway, Laura and Louis at home. A large number of friends and relatives followed his remains to Saint Peter's Church where the last rites of his church were performed by Rev. A. A. Anslay, parish priest, after which his body was interred in the adjoining cemetery while his soul, clear of this transitory and ungrateful world, his friends trust, found a resting place in heaven.

DR. S. A. NICHOLSON.

The people of Dundas and vicinity were fairly shocked when word came by phone last Tuesday morning that Dr. S. A. Nicholson had suddenly died, of heart failure, at his home in Haverhill, Mass., on the evening before his 47th birthday. In the prime of life, being only forty years of age, and in the midst of a very successful practice he was cut down without a moments warning. He had been away with his horse and had just come home and unhitched and was leading him into the stable when he fell dead. His wife (who is herself a medical student of the fourth year) wondering that he was not coming in, sent the little boy to see what was keeping him, he came in and said that papa was lying down in the stable. She rushed out and found, to her horror, that her husband was dead. She sent out for other doctors, but nothing could be done, life had departed.

He was a man who had worked himself up against many difficulties to the high position which he occupied. He received his early education in the common school in the district, and was fairly advanced in years before he took up the study of medicine, but became a very successful practitioner and surgeon. He was a broad minded and large hearted man, full of kindness and sympathy and always stood for what is best in religion and in moral character, a loving, indulgent husband and father, and greatly attached to the old home and to every member of that home. He will be greatly missed, both in Haverhill where he practiced and in Dundas where he was brought up.

His remains arrived at Dundas on Friday, accompanied by the widow and by Capt. W. W. Rosswell, sent by the Waldemar Company, U. R. K. P., of which the deceased was a member, to relieve the widow of all care. The funeral took place on the following Saturday and was very largely attended by both Protestants and Catholics, with whom the doctor was very popular, and who expressed their sincere regret at his untimely death. The services at the house were conducted by the Pastor M. N. MacLeod, assisted by Rev. Mr. Macintosh of Souris, and Rev. Mr. Rand of the Baptist church, Dundas, after which the Masonic Order took charge of the remains and buried them with Masonic honors in the family lot in the cemetery in the Presbyterian Church, Dundas. He leaves to mourn, besides a sorrowing widow and little boy, father, brother, and three sisters, who have the sincere sympathy of a large circle of friends, relatives and acquaintances in their deep sorrow.

The esteem in which the late Doctor was held is amply attested by the following article copied from the Haverhill Gazette of the 19th instant. "Escorted by the Waldemar Company, U. R. K. P., the body of Dr. Samuel A. Nicholson was borne from the late home by Main Street, Bradford district, to the Boston and Main depot, from which point it was taken by train to Dundas, Prince Edward Island, for burial."

"Rev. James L. McLaughlin, pastor of the Advent Christian Church, officiated at the services at the home at 2 o'clock. In attendance were relatives and friends of the departed physician from many places. The body reposed in a massive solid quartered oak half casket which was all but buried beneath the wealth of floral tokens received."

"People of every station called to pay their respects to the deceased man, who ministered to rich and poor alike. A guard of honor was placed about the bier by Waldemar Company, composed of Sir Knight J. H. Schofield, Captain William Thompson, Captain Henry Higgins and Sir Knight Nory Doucette."

"Waldemar Company turned out in a body for the services, about fifty members acting as escort to the body to the railroad station. The organization was accompanied by the Haverhill brass band, played as the cortege made its way slowly through the streets to the depot. The bearers were selected from the seven different organizations with which Dr. Nicholson was affiliated. These were the Masonic fraternity, Plymouth Rock Company, Pilgrim Father, Palestine Lodge K. P., Waldemar Company, U. R. K. P., W. C. Douglas, D. S. C., Passaquoi Tribe, Red Men and Haverhill Lodge, L. O. U."

"Captain William W. Rosswell, of Waldemar Company, accompanied the body to Dundas, P. E. I. The place of the dead Doctor, where the remains will be placed at rest in the family lot with full Masonic rites."

ARCHDEACON REAGH

Archdeacon Reagh passed peacefully away at 7 o'clock Wednesday evening. Personally the Archdeacon was one of the most popular and warmly beloved clergymen in this Province. Born at Victoriavale, Annapolis County, Nova Scotia, in 1848 he came here when quite a young man and established the Charlottetown Business College, of which his brother-in-law, Councillor L. B. Miller has been Principal since the former gentleman decided to take Holy Orders in the Church of England. After his ordination in 1880 he was rector of New London and Kensington, Port Hill and Milton and was appointed Archdeacon of Prince Edward Island about the year 1894. An earnest and versatile preacher, and an indefatigable worker, he exercised great influence over the members of his congregation. His many labors probably caused the early breakdown of his health and the partial blindness of recent years which compelled his retirement and his early death at the age of sixty-six years. Besides his devoted wife, Mrs. Reagh, he leaves six daughters to cherish the memory of a loving husband and father, Mrs. Hammond Hooper and Mrs. Pop. Hooper, (Milton) the Misses Sadie, Eva and Bertie Reagh; trained nurses in Regina and Miss Blanche Reagh at home.

BRITISH LOSSES CAUSE ANXIETY. LONDON, Aug. 27.—Since the withdrawal of the allied armies from the defenses of the French frontier there has been virtually no news received of the military operations in Southern Belgium. Owing to the difficulty of compiling a correct list along such an extended front no details of British casualties, which Premier Asquith estimated yesterday at 2,000, have yet been received. This delay has increased the distress of anxious relatives of men at the front. The losses seem to have intensified British patriotism, judging by the extra work being performed by the recruiting officers to-day. This tenacity of purpose is further evidenced by Premier Asquith in the House this afternoon in making the announcement that he proposed to ask King George to convey to the King of the Belgians the admiration with which the British regarded "the heroic resistance of his army and people to the wanton invasion of their territory and an assurance of the determination of this country to support in every way Belgium to vindicate her own independence and the international law of Europe." The Premier declared further the Belgian Government was taking steps to get the established facts of German atrocities as related in the statement given out yesterday. The German forces led in the attack on the French Southern frontier on Tuesday. They were repulsed and retired all along the line.
