

The Guardian Pictorial Page

Mr. Frank Gray, M.P., of Oxford, refused to give in after a physical collapse, and, taking the road again, succeeded in winning the recent M.P.'s walking match from his opponent, apt. Ainsworth, M.P., of Bury.

Cincinnati believes Miss Olga Emrick is the prettiest girl in America, but there are plenty of other places willing to contest the point.

A false step by Miss Verona Lee means a ducking in four feet of cold water, for she is doing this "dance on the water" on a three-foot table just beneath the surface of the pool.

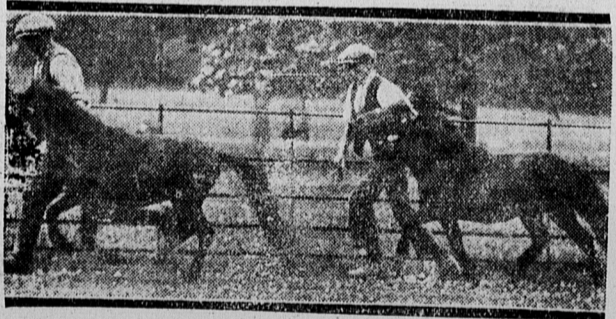

Lady stage managers are few and far between, but England has a real high-class one in the person of Maude T. Howell of the St. James Theatre, London.

When royalty goes a-calling, in the centre are King Ferdinand and Queen Marie of Rumania. On the King's left are his children, Princess Elizabeth and Prince Nicolai, and an attache of the Polish embassy. On the Queen's right are Marshall Pilsudski, Crown Prince Carrol and Princess Eleano, his wife, of Poland.

Here's a big one that failed to "get away." It's a 10-lb salmon and was landed by Lord Woolavington near his Scottish seat at Knockando, Moravshire.

Lady E. Hope and Lady D. Hope, famous Shetland ponies, are out having a frolic on the grass at South Farm, Bodiam, Sussex.

Miss Irene Knight is a Buffalo beauty who is trying for national honors at Atlantic City.

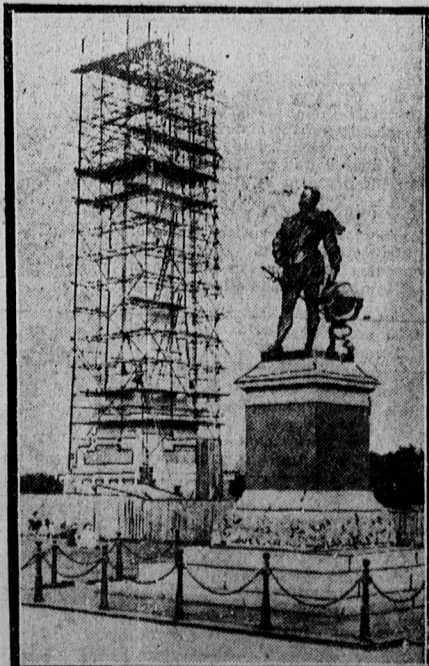

Meet Miss Joyce Lindsay, the charming daughter of the Hon. Mrs. Robert Lindsay and the late Major the Hon. Robert Lindsay, who was a son of the 26th Earl of Crawford.

A party of Greek soldiers taking it easy on the Island of Corfu, which is one of the bones of contention in the present Greco-Italian squabble.

Fleet footed Zev is expected to be Papyrus' opponent in the pending race between the Derby winner and an American horse at Belmont Park, U.S.A., on October 20. The winner will take £40,000.

The naval war memorial at Plymouth will be one of the finest in England when completed. It is to be reared to a height of 200 feet. In the foreground is the celebrated Drake Statue.

This weird looking bit of concrete statuary is three stories high. It is the work of J. P. Dinsmoor, an 82-year-old sculptor of Kansas, and represents the "Goddess of Liberty."

Water skiing is the latest sport craze on the Thames. The finish of an exciting championship race is pictured.