

TRUST THE WOMEN of NOVA SCOTIA

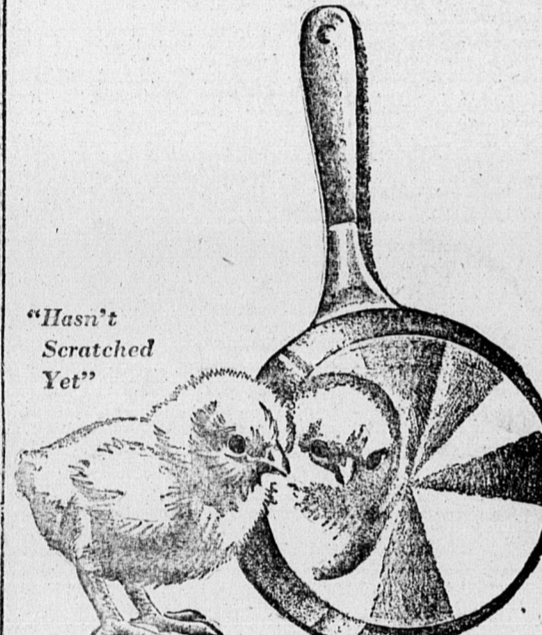

Such good cooks... such able housekeepers... can weigh the quality and value of a tea by the first sip.

This is why they buy thousands and thousands of pounds of delicious GOLDEN Orange Pekoe Tea every year. They know!

In full-weight 1/2 and 1 lb. sealed lead packets with the orange and black label.

RAKWANA

GOLDEN ORANGE PEKOE Tea

"Hasn't Scratched Yet?"

There's a bright side to this story...

And two bright sides to this pan—for it's a Bon Ami-cleaned pan. Which means a clean pan, a polished pan and an unscratched pan. Bon Ami gets things clean in a jiffy—without scratching and injuring what it cleans (remember, scratches make cleaning harder the next time). And Bon Ami won't make your hands get red or "smart." (You know how important nice hands are today).

Use whichever form you prefer—the soft, snow-white Powder in its convenient, sifter-top can or the handy, compact Cake. Both forms are made of the same, scratchless ingredients—both are utterly odorless.

Sold at grocery stores everywhere.

WESTERN GUARDIAN

—RESERVE FRIDAY, SEPT. 11th for Rink Concert in Birch Grove Hall, Freetown, Summerside, Kensington and other excellent talent. 8359-9-7-mw731.

—FINED $25 AND COSTS—A man from Indian River appeared before Mr. J. E. Campbell, J. P., on Saturday afternoon at the Court House Summerside, on a charge of reckless driving. He was found guilty and fined $25 and costs or thirty days in jail. A case against a man for driving while under the influence of liquor was not proven and therefore dismissed.—S.

—RETURNED HOME.—Ven. Archdeacon White and Mrs. White and son, Master Thomas have returned home. The Archdeacon is very much improved in health and will be able to take the services in his parish next Sunday. His son, Rev. Charles de Wolfe White, who had charge during his father's absence, left on Monday to take over his duties at Windsor, N. S. He was accompanied by his wife. Both Rev. and Mrs. White have made many new friends during their stay in Summerside.—S.

—RT. REV. W. G. BROWN AT SUMMERSIDE—In spite of the downpour of rain a large congregation attended the Presbyterian Church on Sunday evening to hear Rt. Rev. W. G. Brown of Red Deer, Sask., Moderator of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Canada. Rev. Mr. Brown has a striking personality and his message to the people offered much food for thought. Preaching from the text, Colossians 1:16, the speaker gave striking illustrations why Jesus is preeminent; how Christian people can live up to what is expected of them by their Creator and where the message of Christianity can be carried. There is no place on earth so remote where God's message cannot reach, or any race so low that cannot be taught to know God. In speaking of worship, Rev. Mr. Brown, stated most emphatically that every one should have the right to worship God according to the dictates of their conscience, and in the manner in which they have been taught. He appealed very strongly for church workers for the frontier settlements of North West Canada, where pioneer men and women are willing to do anything in their power so that they may have ministers for themselves and their children. A special program of music was offered by the choir. Mrs. Jack McLeod rendering a solo and Mrs. (Rev.) C. J. Jeans and Mrs. Roy Tanton a duet. Rev. Mr. Jeans conducted the devotional period. The flowers in the church were in memory of the late Percy Enman of Summerside.—S.

LARGEST YACHT ENDS TRAIL

HAMBURG, Sept. 8. (U. P.)—The yacht "Savarona," whose 5,000 tons rank her as the largest personally owned yacht in the world, has returned here after a trial voyage which lasted two weeks. She is being overhauled preparatory to her trip across the Atlantic.

Mrs. Richard M. Cadwalor, of Philadelphia, the owner, is very reticent as to the purpose of the big craft. She refuses to allow any inspection of the ship, claiming that former news stories on the use to which she would put it have greatly harmed her reputation in the United States. The statement, made by many papers, that she intended to use the yacht as a sort of a floating restaurant, she describes as having injured her name at home and in foreign lands. The "Savarona" has a personnel of 78 men, of whom the captain and the four officers are American. The other members of the crew are German.

Inscription On Tombstone Help Historians

PARIS, Sept. 8.—An inscription on a cemetery tombstone at Pere-Lachaise has enabled historians to trace the living descendants of Napoleon.

Only a half dozen persons survive, who can claim him as their ancestor, but none of them bears his name. All are descendants of his illegitimate son, Count Leon, gambler, duellist, philosopher and Bohemian.

The chronology of these people may be partially found on the tombstone of the family vault in Pere-Lachaise. Starting from the bottom and reading upwards, it runs:

Eleanore Denuelle de la Plaigne
Countess of Luxembourg
Died Jan. 30, 1868, at 79 years
Count Leon Fernand Leon
1861—1918
Daniel Napoleon Jean Fernand
Mesnard-Leon
of the 17th Regiment Chasseurs
Died for France

Romance Revived

History students saw the inscription and recalled the forgotten romance of Napoleon and Eleanore Denuelle de la Plaigne, coquettish wife of a captain of dragoons.

Napoleon met her at his sister's in 1806. She was 17. Shortly after meeting the Emperor she obtained a divorce. A few months later a son was born to her and was named Leon.

Napoleon heard of the birth of his son just before the battle of Pultusk, Poland. He immediately provided for the infant's future.

Even after his downfall, Napoleon provided for the boy, and in his will he wrote:

"I would not mind if little Leon became a magistrate, if that is his own desire."

Son Was Gambler

But Leon never showed any inclination toward such a respectable calling. He gambled and lost his money and was imprisoned for debt.

His liberty was secured by men who still cherished the memory of his father. Then Leon, who had assumed the title of count, became involved in several duels. In one of them he killed an aide-de-camp of the Duke of Wellington, thus avenging to his own satisfaction the defeat of his father at Waterloo.

By a natural marriage with a working girl, Francoise Jonet, Count Leon had three sons and a daughter named Charlotte.

Latest Styles In Men's Suits

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—With the feminine fashions harking back to the picturesque periods Fifth Avenue tailors expect men to pay more attention to their wardrobes.

For fall and winter suits broad shoulders tapering to the waist, full, worked in chest effects and trousers more or less peg topped are new notes.

The two button suit will be the most popular. The waistline will be fitted slightly. The shoulders will be broad, but without padding. Coat lapels will be notched or peaked. Trousers will be wider at the knee, narrower at the cuff and will have extension waist bands. The cuffs will be one and three fourths inches high. Vests have six buttons, the sixth to be left unfastened, and sleeves have four buttons. Double breasted models will also be good.

Materials will be plain or self striped, blue grey, oxford grey dark blue or brown tones—in flannels, unfinished worsteds and Sax-onites.

Hand woven or hand spun tweeds soft but rough looking will still be used for topcoats in raglan style with no belt. Formal coats will be of plain dark grey or black melton cloth, dark grey vicuna or soft chevrot with silk linings and perhaps, silk faced lapels. Silk top hats will be generally worn and the dress suit will be a double-breasted tuxedo, square shouldered and with gros grained lapel facings.

Shirts in solid colors or pin striped will have matching ties, handkerchiefs and socks to carry out a meticulous ensemble idea. Blue tan, rich red and new shades of green are shown.

This daughter is living. After the death of Count Leon in 1881, she became a teacher and later married a M. Mesnard, taking the name of Mesnard-Leon.

The three sons of Count Leon led adventurous lives. Charles became a builder of railways and died in Caracas, Venezuela, in 1894. Fernand travelled widely and died in 1918. He was the "Count Leon" planned here to provide food for needy families during the winter. The Lancaster Committee sponsored the plan to convert surplus

COUNTY PLANS CANNING BEE. LANCASTER, Pa., Sept. 8. (U. P.)—A community canning bee is planned here to provide food for needy families during the winter. The Lancaster Committee sponsored the plan to convert surplus vegetables and fruit, ordinarily wasted, into emergency supplies. Under the plan, farmers will donate surplus crops. Unsold produce at the city markets will be collected. The fruits, produce and vegetables will be collected in a large warehouse, from which distribution will be made to those who volunteer to can the products. Canning will be done in church kitchens, in community centers, and among neighborhood groups. Jars will be provided by donations.
