TALES TOLD BY MEN
IN THE FIGHTING LINES
ON LAND AND ON SEA

Private Stewart Chisholm of the Black Watch, writes:—"We had had a fiendish week of fighting around A— We had to force our way step by step and I am only telling the honest truth when I say that every inch we marched was colored red with the blood of our own men and the Germans. It was like passing through a grave yard where an earthquake had turned up all the corpses and left them lying above the ground. As we picked our way through the long lane of dead that now seemed to have no turning, we noticed among them now and then wounded men, who begged hard for water or some assistance in doing up their bandages. It was pitiful, and we were so helpless.

We were behind the Royal Irish Fusiliers, who were clearing the enemy out, and it stirred us greatly to watch the way they tackled the enemy. The work they had was terrible, and the Germans suffered awfully all the time. We saw them fighting their way up one long, winding road that seemed as long as the road to Tipperary. At every turn and behind every tree lining the road the Germans were posted, and the Royal Irish had to rush them out. It was slow work, but they never seemed to tire, and after a day of the hardest fighting I have ever seen they cleared the Germans out of the last position, and then the town was carried with a general rush, the Royal Irish being the first to enter.

Probably some other regiment could have got in easier, but because of the hard time they had had the Royal Irish Fusiliers were given the honor of entering in and raising the British flag. We are now working in a different part of the country, and are making good progress. Everywhere we hear that the Germans are wearying of the struggle, and some of these days they are bound to collapse. They appear to have plenty of men, but even that won't enable them to stand against the awful losses they are suffering.

SALISBURY STUNNED HIM.

Gunner C. Weiss, of B. Battery, R. C. H. A., who enlisted with the 35th Peel and transferred to the artillery writes from Salisbury to his brother, and says he has seen the Toronto papers and noticed letters from Canadians about the food, conditions, etc., in this camp. Now, I will admit that the mud is bad. The food is certainly not Delmonico's, but it is plentiful and wholesome. What more do we need? Any one who is enlisted for his scrap and expects a pink tea will be disappointed. But anyone who expected the pink tea had better go back, and climb on his office stool again. I have noticed that those who do the most kicking are those who need to be checked the most—dirty uniforms, shoes on parade, shirking stables, etc. Any duty they happen to be doing you need not pay too much attention to any how you hear. If we make up our minds to stand this mud and rain we can, and what is more to the point, most of us do."

ONE ROUTED TEN.

A wounded private of the Buffs relates how an infantryman got temporarily separated from his regiment at Mons, and lay concealed in a trench while the Germans prowled around. Just when he thought he had left him for good ten troopers left their horses at a distance and came forward on foot to the trench.

The hidden infantryman waited until they were half way up the slope, and then sprang out of his hiding place with a cry of "Now, give us them hell!" Without waiting a second the "lads" the Germans took to their heels.

A SAILOR'S LETTER.

A gunroom officer in a battle cruiser writes:—"The particular ship we were engaged with was a pitiful plight when we had finished with her—her funnels shot away, masts tottering, great gaps of daylight in her sides, smoke and flames gelling from her everywhere. She speedily heeled over and sank like a stone, stern first. So far as is known, none of her crew were saved. She was game to the last, let it be said, her flag flying till she sank, her guns barking till they could bark no more.

Although we ourselves suffered no loss, we had some very narrow escapes. Three torpedoes were observed to pass us, one within a few feet. Four-

BAN "TIPPERARY" IN CAMBRIDGE

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Feb. 10.—"Tipperary" and other songs held to be unneutral in character have been forbidden in the schools of Cambridge by Michael E. Fitzgerald, superintendent, in an order to John B. Whoriskey, supervisor of music. According to the ruling, such songs may not be sung, whistled or played upon any musical instrument, even a phonograph, or about the school premises. Ragtime music also is forbidden.

"For the present," reads Mr. Fitzgerald's order, "do not sing the national airs of the countries that are in the present great conflict."

BROTHER'S PANTS

Now the evening lamp is lit; Now the busy day is done; Round the table now we sit; Study hour has just begun! Mama, with her gentle smile, Sits just where the lamp-light slants Helping us,—but all the while Mending holes in brother's pants.

Now the study hour is past; School books all are put away; Story hour has come at last,— Sweetest hour of all the day! Mama, in her easy chair, Tells us stories sweet and rare,— Mending still on brother's pants.

Story hour has sped away; Bed time now is very near, And we hear our mother say: "Soon the sand man will appear!" So we take the good-night kiss That to mending mother grants, Leaving her in midnight bliss, Mending holes in brother's pants.

WARFARE IN HEAVENS
272 YEARS AGO

King's Investigators Witnessed Ghostly Warfare According to the Legend

LONDON, Feb. 8.—Warfare in the heavens was witnessed by the King's own emissaries 272 years ago in Northamptonshire, when the ghostly battle on high amazed the good people of the land and caused no little uneasiness to the monarch. The recent raids of the German Zeppelins on the coast towns have caused historians to dig through dusty tomes to confirm the wonderful occurrences of 1642.

The brochure printed at the time has been found the strange tale of a ghostly warfare seen by the King's own investigators, in the darkness of the night, when the clash of arms and groans of the dying were heard by the awe-stricken witnesses. It was on Saturday night in the Christmas season of 1642, that the good citizens of Kenilton, in Northamptonshire, first saw the ghostly spectacle and heard the roar of muskets and cannon on high. It was between twelve and one in the morning when there was heard by some shepherds and a few farmers the noise of soldiers giving out their last gasp, and which they were much amazed. Then appeared in the air these incorporeal soldiers that made these clamors, with ensigns displayed, drums beating, muskets going off, cannons discharged.

Until after three in the morning the dreadful fight on high continued—the clattering of arms, noise of cannons, cries of soldiers so amazing and terrifying the poor men that they could not believe they were mortal or give credit to their ears and eyes.

"Run away they durst not, for fear of being made a prey to these infernal soldiers; and so they, with much fear and affright, stayed to behold the success of the business. When the uproar ceased the poor men, glad they were gone, knocking up Mr. Wood, a justice of the peace, who called up his neighbor, Mr. Marshall, the minister, they gave them an account of the whole passage, and averred it upon their oaths to be true."

"Suspending their judgment till the next night about the same hour, they, with the same men, and all the substantial men of that and the neighboring parishes, drew thither; arrived, about half an hour after their arrival, on Sunday, with the same tumult, appeared in the same tumultuous warlike manner the same two adverse armies, fighting with as much spite and spleen as formerly. The next night they appeared not, nor all that week. But on the ensuing Saturday night, in the same place and at the same hour, they were again seen with far greater tumult, fighting in the manner above mentioned for four hours, or very near, and then vanished, appearing again on Sunday night and performing the same antics of the ghostly and bloodshed. Successively on the next Saturday and Sunday the same tumults and prodigious sights and actions were observed.

"The rumor whereof, coming to His Majesty at Oxford, he immediately dispatched thither Colonel Lewis Kirke, Captain Waltham, and three other gentlemen of credit, to take full view and notice of the said business; who, first hearing the relation of Mr. Marshall and others, stayed there till Saturday night following, wherein they saw and heard the mentioned prodigies, and so on Sunday, distinctly knowing divers of the apparitions by their faces, as that of Sir Edmund Varney and others that were slain; of which, upon oath, they made testimony to His Majesty."

Their report to the King, the investigators proclaimed the unusual occurrence as a ghostly reproduction of the battle that had taken place two months before on the adjacent fields at Edgehill between the forces of the King and those of Parliament.

NFLD. TAKES STEPS TO MAINTAIN HER BATTALION AT FULL STRENGTH IN FIELD

ST. JOHNS, Nfld., Feb. 9.—The colonial government has decided that the first Newfoundland regiment originally recruited 500 strong and subsequently increased to 1,000 all of whom have now been enlisted, shall be further augmented to 1,300, the enlistment for which now begins. The first contingent of 500 is now at Fort George Scotland, and the second contingent is being equipped for despatch in the early spring. This will enable the colony to maintain a full battalion, 1,000 strong in the field, and give 30 per cent. reinforcements.

REPORTED DEAD, IS VERY MUCH ALIVE.

LONDON, Ont., Feb. 8.—Private Frank Oram, a British reservist, who left her for the front on the outbreak of hostilities, has been killed in action, according to the British War Office, but Oram writes to his wife in this city denying the report, and saying he is "very much alive."

He explains the discrepancy by saying that his identification papers got into the possession of a fellow soldier who later fell in the fighting.

Cured Fifteen Years Ago of Piles and Eczema

By Using Dr. Chase's Ointment—Certifies That the Cure Was Permanent.

Some people have tried so many doctors and so many treatments in their search for cure for piles and eczema that they find it difficult to believe there is an actual cure.

The strong point about Dr. Chase's Ointment is that it not only brings relief promptly, but brings about actual and lasting cure.

In 1897 Mr. Ketcheson, 88 Douro street, Peterboro', Ont., wrote as follows:—"I was troubled for thirty years with itching piles and eczema. I could not sleep at night, and when I got warm the itching was terrible. Eczema covered my legs down to the knees perfectly raw. I have tried every preparation I could hear of. Seeing Dr. Chase's Ointment advertised, I procured a box, and this Ointment effected a complete cure."

On Sept. 28, 1912, Mr. Ketcheson wrote as follows:—"I received a letter from you to-day, saying that you found on file a statement made by me 15 years ago. I have always given Dr. Chase's Ointment a good name since it cured me, and shall tell you how I came to use it."

"I had suffered for many years from eczema and piles, and had tried doctors and everything I could hear of in vain. Reading about Dr. Chase's Ointment, I purchased it at once, and was soon completely cured. That was fifteen years ago, so there can be no doubt of the cure being a permanent one. I have met a great many people who have been cured by Dr. Chase's Ointment."

Dr. Chase's Ointment, 60 cents a box, all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

TWILIGHT SLEEP ASSOCIATION NOW.

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—The National Twilight Sleep Association, just organized with offices in New York, is the latest move to extend the easy child birth propaganda all over the nation. Its organizers are women of Manhattan and Brooklyn and their immediate objects are to send lectures into all large cities to organize branch associations and to found a twilight sleep clinic in Brooklyn.

"It is our ambition," said Mrs. Francis Carmody, of Brooklyn, one of the promoters of the movement, "to maintain a clinic similar to that at Frieburg in connection with the post-graduate course at Caledonian Hospital of Brooklyn."

The managers of the Caledonian Hospital have agreed to give the land for the proposed clinic. Mrs. C. Temple Emmet is the president of the association.
