

LEAVE MAN TO DIE ON PIER TO FIGHT OVER POCKETBOOK

NEW YORK, July 9.—Domick Fannelli, twenty-nine years old, an ice dealer, of No. 242 East Eighty-ninth street, after being rescued from the East River was allowed to die when a score of his fellow countrymen stopped their work of resuscitation to engage in a free for all fight to gain possession of the leather purse which William Schultz, forty-five years old of No. 189 East Ninety-fourth street, had lost from his pocket while saving Fannelli from drowning. Twenty-five police reserves were called from the East Eighty-eighth street station to restore order.

commodity which had been lifted from the craft by a pair of swinging tongs Fannelli, who had shoved his cart out onto the pier, lost his balance and fell overboard. Those nearest him gave the alarm. "Man overboard! Man overboard!" Scores took up the cry, but no one went to the rescue of Fannelli, who was struggling in the swift current. His countrymen crowded to the water front and shouted words of encouragement to the helpless man. He had gone under twice when Schultz, who also is a dealer in ice, rushed up, the assistance of Fannelli. He brought the man to the end of the pier, whence he was hoisted by the use of an ice tong attached to a rope.

When Fannelli was safe on the pier and some of his comrades were trying to restore him to consciousness the wallet, which had slipped from Schultz's pocket was seen floating in the water within ten yards of the scene of the rescue. Joseph Gassio, of No. 236 East Eighty-ninth street, a brother-in-law of Fannelli, insisted that the wallet was Fannelli's property. He directed Schultz's attention to it and he swam out and recovered it.

After Schultz had been hoisted to the dock Gassio requested that he surrender the wallet. He declined to do so, asserting that it was his own property. Schultz talked loudly, disquarrel attracted the attention of the men who were working over Fannelli. They left him on the barrel, on which he was being rolled, to join in the dispute. Before Policeman Mara and Werner, of the East Eighty-eighth street station, reached the pier, more than a hundred of the ice dealers were engaged in a general fight. Some were using ice picks and tongs, and there were many who left with sore and bruised heads.

Unable to restore order, Policeman Mara sent in a call for the reserve and twenty-five men from East Eighty-eighth street. The policeman confiscated the wallet. Meanwhile Fannelli, who had been forgotten entirely while the quarrel was in progress, had died. Dr. Lee, an ambulance surgeon of the Reception Hospital, said that his life could have been saved had the men continued the work of resuscitation.

At the East Eighty-eighth street police station Schultz told Lieutenant Boyle the wallet contained $165 in bills, a receipt made out in his name and other personal papers. He described the contents correct, and restored the wallet to Schultz. Gassio insisted, however it was the property of his brother-in-law. No arrests were made, and Schultz, who had risked his life to drag Fannelli from the river, was hoisted by Gassio and his companions as the group left the police station.

POLITICAL WEATHER IS THICKENING. OTTAWA, July 12.—With the return of R. L. Borden from the West and Sir Wilfrid Laurier's arrival last night from the Imperial Conference the political weather begins to thicken. Parliament reassembles next week when observers forecast a resumption of the reciprocity storm of such proportions that within a few weeks the country will be flooded with politicians preparing for a general election to be fought on a paramount tariff issue.

FALLING DERRICK KILLS A BOY

BOSTON, July 10.—One boy received injuries which resulted in his death at the Relief Hospital and a half score of others narrowly escaped death shortly after noon yesterday, when a derrick around which they were playing at the new Thordyke school on Spring street, East Cambridge, fell to the ground. Joseph Kearney, 6, of 55 Sixth street, was crushed under the derrick and received a compound fracture of the skull, but despite an operation which was performed shortly after his arrival at the hospital his life could not be saved.

The new school which is in course of construction is in a thickly crowded tenement district and the number of children who have been in the habit of playing around the building necessitated the builders placing a watchman to keep the children out of danger. One of the guy ropes from the derrick was within reach of the children on the ground and yesterday a party of them were swinging on the rope and were driven away by Archie McDonald, the watchman.

While McDonald was chasing a gang of children out of the cellar of the building, the crowd among whom was the Kearney boy entered while McDonald was not looking and started to swing on the guy rope, with the result that the derrick was loosened and fell among them. McDonald picked up the unconscious form of the boy and rushed with it to a drug store and from there it was sent to the hospital, where the boy did not regain consciousness.

WHOLE HAITIAN NAVY HARD AND FAST ASHORE. NEW YORK, July 10.—The whole Haitian navy lies aground off Gonave about 30 miles from Port Au Prince, and has not been for the god ship Allemania, of the Hamburg American line, which came into New York today, the whole Haitian army would be languishing on board the navy. President Antoine Simons of the republic decided he ought to have a navy, so he bought, not long ago, the Italian cruiser Umbria. She was fixed up and named Antoine Simons. On June 30 President Simons decided to take his army out for a spin in the navy. There were no big guns with which to salute the chief executive, but a soldier was detailed to fire two or three rifle shots and the embarkation was made with proper dignity.

Perhaps the president had a premonition of trouble, for he ordered his yacht to follow the navy. The admiral had been a tug boat captain, so they could not be expected to know all the fine points of being a navy. A leak was reported and though the pumps were put to work, it was not long before the engine room was difficulty rescued of the admiral. The army stood on the sinking deck and cried loudly for help. The yacht was too small to take the army off. The president and his staff landed at Gonave and made their way with as little fuss as they could to Port Au Prince. The Allemania heard about the sinking and went to the rescue. She and Antoine Simons was found near the wreck and fast aground with her engine room flooded. The rank and file were taken off and saved for future battles and revolutions.

THEIR RUMPUS DID NOT AVOID. PITTSBURGH, Pa., July 9.—Thousands of spectators witnessed the sessions of the "Pentacostal convention of the gift of tongues" sect, which is being held under tents at Homestead Park, with many delegates present from this country, Canada and Mexico. The principal speaker today was the Rev. James Hehden, of Toronto. Interesting scenes featured the meetings. The worshippers, both men and women, rolled about the straw covered floor of the tent. The temperature within was almost suffocating. Many of the worshippers became exhausted and it was necessary to bathe their heads to revive them. As they rolled and scrambled about the floor, they howled, shrieked and groaned for a "manifestation" in the form of the gift of tongues. None received it, however.

REVOLUTION IN PARAGUAY. BUENOS AYRES, July 10.—The local newspapers report another bloodless revolution in Paraguay. The garrison at Asuncion revolted and made a prisoner of President Jara, who forthwith resigned. Congress then selected Liberato Rojas, president of the Senate, for provincial president pending new elections.

FEVER RESTORES MIND OF MAN SIX YEARS A BLANK

ATLANTIC CITY, July 10.—"The case of Benjamin Leeds" may become famous among psychologists. It would seem that of a sudden Leeds's brain, apparently normal, became a blank. He forgot his identity, he forgot his wife and children, of whom he had always taken tender care; he forgot the past.

Then, after six years, Leeds fell ill and the fever stimulated his dormant mind. In his delirium he remembered dimly, and he muttered words that gave to the acute surgeons who listened, the clue that will restore him to his family and may bring him back to himself. In response to a telegram from these surgeons, Mrs Leeds went to Cleveland, O., today. She said happily she will nurse her husband back to mental and physical health, then bring him home.

Leeds, once a well known citizen here, retired from business and went to live at Ocean City about seven years ago. One day in the summer of 1905 he left home to deposit money in a bank here. He did not return. Wide, but vain, search was made for him. His wife, giving him up for lost, became a trained nurse to support herself and their two children. Not a word came from him or of him until the message arrived calling his wife to a hospital in Cleveland. Her husband had been taken there ill and with a very high temperature. Tossing on his fevered cot the light of yesterday's sun, which seemed to have set, dawned on his mind again. He uttered disjointed sentences. "My wife, Lydia"— "Atlantic City." "So long since I have seen them." "What have I, Ben Leeds, done?" "Disgraceful, disgraceful to neglect."

"How they must have suffered." The surgeons intimated the sentences and sent for Mrs Leeds. HOT WAVE ADDS TO THE CONSUMPTION OF WATER IN BOSTON. BOSTON, July 10.—Boston has consumed about 120,000,000 gallons of water each day since the hot wave set in, according to officials of the metropolitan water and sewer commission. This is an increase of 6,000,000 to 10,000,000 gallons a day over the normal consumption.

While these figures are large yet the increase in Boston is not so great as one might expect. According to the metropolitan engineers, the comparative increase in water consumption is greatest in towns where there are farms and large gardens, such towns for instance, as Arlington and Belmont. At these places there is a tremendous increase in the use of water for it has not rained for several days and the hose is turned on flowers and plants at frequent intervals in an attempt to save them from parching. Last week's water consumption in Boston was in the neighborhood of 110,000,000 gallons a day. Just three years ago the daily consumption was 35,000,000 gallons and that without abnormal heat; but one must remember it was before meters were generally installed. These meters have put a stop to much of the water. At all events, Boston is not using anywhere near the amount of water the city formerly consumed in spite of the fact that bath tubs are at the height of their popularity just now.

KILLED CHILD AND HIMSELF. PARKERSBURG, W. Va., July 10.—W. H. Allen killed his two-year-old child with a shot gun today as it slept in its carriage on the porch, and rather than be taken alive by the police, he emptied the other barrel of the gun into his breast. He was taken to the city hospital dying.
