under a free trade policy; but now after the destruction of her shipping during the war and in the face of the progress of the United States before the war and especially now, competing with and beating Britain in the markets of the world, she has come to the conclusion that there is no chance for her commercially otherwise than by adopting a system of protection. With this object, legislation passed during a recent session of Parliament imposes an ad valorem duty of 33 1/3 per cent on her principal, or as they are described, "key" industries. This embraces some six thousand classes of manufactured products in Great Britain. Not only that, but the legislation is so framed that it may be extended automatically to any new industry that may arise from time to time.

Now I would ask you, in the face of all these facts and the knowledge that every country protects its own industries, is it reasonable to suggest that Canada should take down her tariff and proclaim herself a free trade country? What would it mean? I think you will all agree that it would mean that we should be the slaughter market of the world. The United States, from the surplus of her own markets, could dump her products into Canada and those 600 branch factories would be closed and the goods they make produced in the United States. Would there be, in place of 6 months a factory in Canada producing enough to pay running expenses? This is a serious proposition and one to which you should give the most careful consideration. Our very National autonomy, trembles in the balance. Yet, in the face of this, the Liberal party of Canada are appealing to the electorate on a platform of free trade. On that platform the official leader of that party, Mr. MacKenzie King, was chosen at a convention of the Liberal party from all over Canada held in Ottawa in August, 1919. Without enumerating at length all the articles of that platform, let us consider those that would affect everyone in Canada most seriously. They may be described thus:

First: Reducing the cost of the implements of production in the industries based on the natural resources of the Dominion, and all products of wheat, the principal articles of foods, farm implements and machinery, rough and dressed lumber, gasoline, illuminating and fuel oils, cements and fertilisers, as well as the raw materials entering the same, to be free from Customs duties. And they say: "The Liberal party hereby pledges itself to implement by legislation the provisions of this resolution when returned to power."

Not only the Liberal party but the Agrarian party advocate a policy of free trade. The latter go, if anything, a little further than the Liberal party. They advocate placing on the free list all foodstuffs, all agricultural implements, farm and household machinery, lumber, cement, etc.

In a word, both the Liberal party and the Agrarian party place on record as the platform on which they are prepared to stand or fall, the admission to Canada of all the important products that are manufactured or produced in Canada; that is to say, they declare that if given power they will throw down the barrier between Canada and the United States and allow them to send into this country everything that we now manufacture under the protection system. Let us consider for a moment what we might hope from the United States under the conditions which are pledged to bring about. The best way of judging of the future is by a review of the past. Under the Underwood tariff our wheat and wheat products could go into the United States free. But in the face of this, after agreeing to reciprocity on this article, the Fordney Bill imposed a tariff of 35 cents a bushel on wheat and 20 per cent on flour. Our potatoes, also went in free, but immediately, under the new United States' legislation 25 cents a bushel duty is placed on it. Most other things are in proportion. The barriers are practically shut out from that market. In consequence of this legislation on the United States side about $168,000,000 worth of our exports of farm products have been attacked, at a time when the United States was sending into this country $80,000,000 worth of those other expenditures arising from the war. These expenditures

IS YOUR HOME PROTECTED?

You know it is protected while you live. If the head of your home was removed—would the household routine go on as before?

With the increased cost of living, the amount of insurance you are carrying may not be sufficient protection today. When the provision of your loved ones is at stake you cannot afford to gamble with the future. Think of the numberless widows and children. Life Insurance is saving from poverty, hunger and despair, and giving a chance in life.

Not only is life insurance a strong arm in disaster's dreadful day, but it is a welcome support to the assured in his old age or in event of becoming permanently disabled.

From the standpoint of duty, every person with responsibilities ought to carry Life Insurance.

LONDON, Oct. 25.—Lucille's salons in Hanover square, from the theatre room with its pretty stage and admirable lighting to distant fitting rooms furnished for the city with gilt chairs, were crowded with people, come to see her fashion display.

This season Lucille has gone to India rather than to her favorite Egypt for inspiration, and she has for the moment rediscovered the effectiveness of black. There was a strange frock of gold and black with huge gold-embroidered black lace sleeves that suggested the splendor of the maharajahs, tempered by the drapery of a Dominican nun. There was another black and gold evening gown with a tall Spanish comb made of gold lace.

Among the taffetas, a lavender-blue afternoon frock, with a biscuit fichu collar at the back, had

Painful Sores On Her Ankle

Healed by Hood Preparations

For two years I suffered greatly from blue veins on my leg. They started with a little sore that grew worse, larger, more painful till it extended around my whole ankle. I decided to take Hood's Sarsaparilla to purify my blood, with Hood's Medicated Soap to wash the sore and Hood's Olive Ointment to help heal it. It was soon apparent I was on the right course, for as the result of faithfully taking the Sarsaparilla, the sore diminished and finally disappeared. I heartily recommend these remedies to all suffering from similar troubles. Mrs. John Peterson, Detroit Harbor, Wis.

any one in this audience who would have undone any effort that had been exerted by the government of Canada to sustain and admirably sustain, the part our soldiers and people took in winning the war and preserving our liberties? I should like to say, further, and I say it without fear of contradiction, that no scandals or corrupt practices can be brought home to the government of Canada. During the past four years that I had a seat in Parliament, I happened to be a member of the Public Accounts Committee. I seldom missed a sitting of the Committee and I know that not one of several questions that came up for investigation showed that not one dollar had been misappropriated. So full were the efforts of those members of the Opposition who from time to time proposed the charges that the minority report was never presented to the House from the meetings of that Committee.

I wish to refer briefly to one other question and I shall have concluded for the present. In this election the women of Canada enjoy the Franchise equally with the men. The government of the day considered that the women of Canada well deserved this compliment for the splendid part they took in promoting the success of the war; by every means in their power they admirably supplemented the efforts of the government and of the soldiers on the battlefield. For this reason it was deemed by the government that the least compliment to the women of Canada would be to afford them the privilege of voting for those who might be chosen as representatives in the House of Commons. I am confident that the great majority of Canadian women and those in my presence will regard it as their duty to poll their votes in favour of the government that I accorded them this privilege.

Now ladies and gentlemen, my final word is this: it will be impossible for me, in the time at my disposal between now and polling day to make any extensive canvass. I therefore avail myself of this opportunity to solicit your votes and influence at the coming election.
