of coral and beach. It was for the control of the eastward approaches to the island. The Japanese base at Surabaya on Java lying 120 miles from the scene of action—the last such major base short of the Australian mainland.
Successive communications from the Indies high command and from the headquarters of Gen. Sir Archibald Wavell, supreme allied commander in the Pacific, made plain that late in the day the enemy was suffering great and bloody losses but his troops still swarmed ashore.

Damage To Enemy
By that time, at least four of the fighter planes seeking to shelter the enemy's invasion craft from allied fire had been knocked down, one or more enemy cruisers had been sunk and repeatedly hit, two direct hits had been scored on enemy transports, lighter bombs had found their targets on the enemy cruiser and transport, and eight near misses had rocked and possibly put out of action an enemy destroyer.

There was no report of a single allied loss aloft or on the surface or underside.
From Ball itself, where for generations the worst tourists had strolled amidst the tropical sweetness, there arose the acrid smoke left by the Netherlands' torches in destroying the island's few vital plants.

Naturally strong action, the Indies command remarked, with its characteristic restraint, "is being taken against landings which the enemy is carrying out."
This newest of the enemy's invasion—this push to get at Java, the last great Indies position remaining wholly in allied hands, and perhaps to move on down upon Australia—apparently had been developing for days but only yesterday did it begin to shape up.

Remember When
(By The Canadian Press)
Montreal baseball hopes were given a boost two years ago today with the announcement that Brooklyn Dodgers had purchased a "substantial interest" in Montreal's International League entry, Royals finished the 1940 season in seventh place but last season won the Governor's Cup in the League playoffs.

The Mardi Gras festivities were terminated rather suddenly by the blustery appearance of the weather man, who also put a halt to the much enjoyed period of excellent winter roads.

$31,372,000 for old age pensions; $13,700,000 for care of returned soldiers; $13,700,000 as subsidies for the provinces; and $230,000 paid under the maritime freight rates act.

The agriculture department made provision for continuation of the prairie farm assistance act and the prairie farm rehabilitation act. Of the amount of $35,000,000 provided in 1941-42 for wheat acreage reduction, $5,225,000 will be required in 1942-43, resulting in a decrease of $29,775,000.

The National Revenue Department, in charge of tax collection, raised its estimate of requirements for administration of district offices under the income tax division from $3,142,000 to $3,717,000, mainly because of additional duties in connection with the Excise profits tax and national defence tax.

With Canadian representation abroad costing more, the external affairs department estimates were increased $10,705 to $2,943,165.

The finance department estimates showed $226,564,358 required against $233,651,730 in 1941-42, without provision for the amounts to be paid the provinces in return for taxes they surrender to the Federal Government.

Fisheries Cut Also

The Fisheries Department will ask for $1,892,620 against $2,229,480 in 1941-42, with economies in various fields and an increase of $49,120 to $215,120 for fisheries inspection and protection services.

The public works department estimates showed that amounts paid in various provinces for construction and repair of dominion buildings would be stabilized at the same level as in 1941-42. The department placed its total requirements at $12,372,551, a drop of $924,828 from 1942-42.

Police and Mounted Police estimates were higher at $6,353,073 and $5,335,350 respectively.

The Secretary of State's department submitted estimates up $31,589 at $268,214, with the major increase in the amount required in the bureau of translation where $336,419 was asked against $323,980 last year.

Relief of First War
A relic of the First Great War, the estimates showed $591,858 will be required for the soldier settlement of Canada plan, a decrease of $6,907.

National Defence Department estimates, apart from war appropriations, totalled $444,250 against $241,825 in the current fiscal year. The vote for cadet services was raised from $17,500 to $658,000, this will flow for the training of up to 60,000 senior cadets in camps this summer. Further instructors for the cadets will be made available.

The Labor Department estimates at $18,325,380 showed an increase of $289,309 over expenditures in 1941-42.

Government-owned enterprises, under which the Canadian National Railway deficit used to be provided for, will require $1,406,799 in 1942-43, a decrease of $126,211.

The Canadian Travel Bureau which encourages tourists to visit Canada, will receive its former grant of $500,000, while the National Film Board had its appropriation increased $38,000 to $737,000.

Mines and Resources Department estimates were trimmed $247,938 to $11,653,837, with economies anticipated in administration and development undertakings.

Aged N. B. Doctor Called by death

CAMPBELLTON, N. B., Feb. 20—(CP)—Dr. Henry Lunam, 84, beloved physician and "family doctor" type, died today in this town where he settled after graduating from McGill University in 1881. For more than half a century he practised in Resigouche County, New Brunswick, and Bonaventure County, Quebec.

The Canadian Medical Association, at its annual meeting in Vancouver in 1931, made him a life member of the association in recognition of 56 years of service. Failing health forced his retirement a few years ago.

No man in Resigouche County was considered more admired and respected than Dr. Lunam, whose kindness and generosity to patients of all classes and creeds appeared unlimited. During a smallpox epidemic in 1906 he worked night and day, and later the provincial government frequently called upon him to investigate suspected cases of the then dreaded disease. Prominent Canadian surgeons became his intimate friends.

He was born at Campbell's Bay, Fontaine County, Que. His wife, formerly Elsie Harper, of Bale Verte, N. B., died last July. He is survived by one son, Captain James B. Lunam, of the Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps, now in England, and three daughters: Edith, a registered nurse, and Mrs. Marion Hutton, both of Campbellton, and Mrs. Robert J. McGillis, Toronto. William Lunam, Ottawa, is a brother.

The firm of R. T. Holman, Ltd., has subscribed $25,000 to the Victory Loan campaign, according to word received at Loan headquarters in Summerside. This is in keeping with the firm's policy in previous years. The firm subscribed $30,000, for instance, to the first Victory Loan.

West Coast still Holiday ground
MONTON, N. B., Feb. 20—Visitors are still enjoying fine weather in Canada's Pacific Coast a happy holiday ground despite war conditions, according to a letter from the government Travel Bureau of British Columbia signed by E. G. Rowbottom, Deputy Minister of Trade and Industry of British Columbia, Victoria, and received by M. F. Tompkins, regional traffic manager of the Canadian National Railways here. The letter goes on to state that apart from the fact that industries on the Pacific coast, practically without exception, are engaged to capacity on war work, nothing is doing to disturb normal routine and the people find life very pleasant and continue to enjoy outdoor recreations which their mild winter and early spring affords. For some weeks past the letter goes on to state, a large number of enquiries have been received for winter and spring accommodation and enquiries about the annual March golf tournament in Victoria, it is expected, will be in excess of last year.

Special Activities

Week-end activity focusing public attention on the Victory Loan will be featured by a "Victory Day" demonstration by war industry on the west coast.

Three shipyards in Vancouver and one in Victoria will be launched four of the big standard type freighters that Canada is producing as part of the nation's war effort. And at west coast ports, six naval minesweepers will be christened.

To avoid interruption of construction of other ships at the yards involved, the public will not be admitted to the freighter launchings or the christening of the naval craft.

Sunday has been designated as Victory Loan Sunday. It will bring to the knowledge of the support of the churches of all communions for the fundamental purpose of the second Victory Loan—to strengthen the fight for freedom. Archbishops and other heads of the leading denominations across Canada are supporting Victory Loan Sunday and have written letters to their clergy and congregations asking them to take steps to focus attention on the import of the loan.

Flyers And Pats Battle To 3-3 Tie

CORNWALL, Feb. 20—(CP)—Cornwall Flyers and Montreal Pats battled to a 3-3 overtime draw in a rugged Quebec Senior Hockey League game played here tonight. The Flyers, who were leading 3-1 at stake, battled from behind a 3-1 deficit in the third frame to tie the count and 10 minutes of overtime failed to break the deadlock. The result left the standing of the league unchanged.

Queen's Fund Album for Her Majesty

An album of clippings and pictures showing the progress of the Queen's Canadian Fund was prepared for Her Majesty, by order of the Hon. Hector Perrier, Provincial Secretary for Quebec, at the Ecole Technique and the Beaux-Arts School in Montreal. The album is now on its way to London. Here are Monsieur H. F. Beaupre (left), Principal of the Ecole Technique, and Monsieur Charles Maillard, Principal of the Beaux-Arts, giving the album a last check-over. The cover was designed by Fernand Leduc, Beaux-Arts student, winner of a competition for the best design.

Tells N. S. People Not doing utmost

HALIFAX, Feb. 20—(CP)—Premier A. S. MacMillan, addressing the legislature today, challenged Nova Scotians to give "100 per cent of their time and talents" toward the winning of the war. While Nova Scotia's war effort has been as great proportionately as that of any other province, he said the people had not been doing their utmost.

"Many do not realize that the Hun is at our gates," the Premier declared. "Enemy submarines are right around our coasts and we may not be surprised if there is a direct attack. I, for one, expect some attack will be made."

He explained that he did not mean an invasion, but some sort of raid or foray.

"Let us give until it hurts to the second war loan, he said, asking 'what will our money be worth to us if we are overrun by the savage hordes...'"

"Let us put the might and power of this old province behind the war effort...let our young men enter the military services. If they are not physically fit, let them get into industry and, if they are not fit for that, let them get on the 'a' and 'b' production lines."

"Let us give our last dollar and sacrifice again and again that our heritage may be saved."

The Premier was the last of three speakers in today's debate on the address in reply to the speech from the throne and he moved adjournment until 8 p. m. Monday night. The other speakers were Conservative house leader Blois and Douglas Macdonald (CCF-Cape Breton Centre).

New Additions To British Fleet

LONDON, Feb. 19—(CP Cable)—British naval observers tonight expressed the hope that the fleet soon would have its prewar capital ship strength restored by new completions which would overcome the handicap suffered in the loss of such vessels as the Hood, Prince of Wales and the Bismarck.

The public, still annoyed by the flight of the German battleships Scharnhorst and Gneisenau and the cruiser Prinz Eugen from Brest to Heligoland, took some cheer from Prime Minister Churchill's statement in the House of Commons Tuesday that high quality units will reinforce the Royal Navy before the German vessels can be put to sea.

"This was taken to mean that the battleships Anson and Howe—originally named Jellicoe and Beatty—are ready or almost ready to take their place in service with others of their class, the George V and Duke of York."

Britain had 15 capital ships at the outbreak of the war, but that number is probably insufficient now that the fleet is involved in so many theatres spread over such a vast area. Five capital ships have been sunk, including the Royal Oak which was torpedoed inside the boom at Scapa Flow, but four more besides the Anson and Howe are known to be under construction. These are vessels of the 40,000-ton Lion class—the Lion, the Temeraire and two others still to be named. All are believed rapidly nearing completion.

They were laid down in 1939 and at that time were scheduled for trials in 1943 or 1944. However, it is generally believed that work on that class was speeded greatly and it would not surprise observers if they were ready for trials this year.

Naval experts expect the Lion class ships to be armed with nine 16-inch guns and to have speeds similar to those of the George V class—believed to be more than 30 knots.

It is also believed the Lion class ships as well as the Anson and Howe will be more heavily armored than the George V or the Duke of York.

Future construction is expected to incorporate improvements developed from lessons learned by loss of the Repulse and the Prince of Wales to Japanese air attack.

Future battleships, it is believed, will have heavier armor protection against both air and undersea attack.

Construction of cruisers and destroyers has been proceeding steadily through the number commissioned since the start of the war has not been disclosed. At that time there were being built at least 23 cruisers—12 of the same class as the Fiji which was lost and 10 of the Dido class.

Your Orchard In 1942

(Experimental Farms News)
Farm orchards in Prince Edward Island have been seriously neglected in recent years. At one time these orchards received the care due to an important farm crop but due to neglect, the production of fruit from insect injury and disease multiplied they received less and less attention. Finally, at the period when foxes and potatoes were scarce, fruit was imported. During this time the fruit trees received very little care and very little marketable fruit was produced. The fruit was imported from the States of O. C. Warren, Dominion Experimental Station, Charlottetown. Plums, cherries and pears became almost a forgotten luxury. This neglect was climaxed by the severe winter of 1933-34 when over 50 per cent of the trees in the already depleted orchards were killed or badly injured. Farmers were brought to realize at this time that an acute shortage of fruit was imminent. Sales of fruit by nursery agents showed tremendous increases but too little care was exercised in their selection. When planted, these young trees were generally neglected and many hundreds were damaged or destroyed by mice.

It is time that it was realized that fruit cannot be grown in Prince Edward Island without adequate attention. The application of mulch and fertilizer, removal or grafting over of undesirable but otherwise sound trees, moderate pruning and the application of suitable sprays would bring some of these orchards back into profitable condition. In many cases, however, it would be best to set out new orchards, using suitable new varieties.

The Experimental Station has two very useful bulletins dealing with fruit growing in the province and these will be mailed at once on request. Why not visit your station and let matters over with those in charge.

GREY HAIR KEY TO NEW BEAUTY

Grey hair demands utmost care—and that's the key to mature beauty. Take it in hand as you edge into 30, and you'll probably be a more attractive woman than you were a girl. You won't even think of trying to get a long on freshness and simplicity alone. Charm will be your forte, and it will shine in your manner, your sympathetic understanding, your meticulous grooming.

Shining, healthy grey hair is beautiful. But if you make up your mind not to dye your silver tresses, then make up your mind to keep them silky and never colorless. Brush, massage and shampoo make conscientiously than ever before in your life.

Former French Leaders charge Evidence concealed

RIOM, Unoccupied France, Feb. 20—(AP)—Counsel for former Premier Leon Blum and Edouard Daladier, led by Blum himself, today accused the special tribunal trying them and three other leaders of the third French republic of concealing a record of secret testimony bearing on the charge that they were responsible for the fall of France.

The tribunal, a supreme court moved as allied commander in chief just before the collapse of France; former air minister Guy La Cambre; and Pierre Jacquet, former administrator of national defence industries, continued their argument that the court has no basic right to try them.

The chief prosecutor admitted that the court holds two sets of secret documents one of which, he said, does not concern the defence since it related to so-called Communist activities in which they were not involved and the other set consisting of testimony for the personal enlightenment of the judges.

Most of today's session, second of the trial, was taken up with technical arguments, enlightened only by Blum's impassioned defence of his popular front government and a verbal tilt between presiding Judge Pierre Casca and Daladier's attorney, Maurice Ribet.
