Clark-Sterns Nuptials Yesterday

The wedding of Miss Edith B. Sterns, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Sterns of Charlottetown and J. Artemas Clark, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John C. Clark of Bay View, P. E. I., took place Friday morning at 10 a.m. at the Baptist Parsonage, 158 Fitzroy Street, Charlottetown, Rev. James D. Davison, pastor of the Charlottetown United Baptist Church, officiating.

The bride's costume was a dressmaker suit of shepherd check, with which she wore a grey felt hat with blue ornament in front, a light blue blouse and harmonizing accessories. Her corsage was composed of red roses.

Dr. and Mrs. Clark left by car on the 1 p.m. crossing of the ferry "Abegweit" for an extended trip through New Brunswick, Ontario, and the United States. They plan to visit, among other cities, Montreal, Ottawa, Toronto, Niagara Falls, Chicago and St. Paul on their way to attend the Biennial Convention of the Canadian Hospital Council which meets in Winnipeg, October 16-18th, 1947. Dr. Clark is the Maritime member of the committee on Hospital Accounting and Statistics, which is preparing a Canadian Manual on Hospital Accounting.

DOYLE-MOMANUS WEDDING

The marriage was solemnized quietly at St. Dunstan's Basilica at 8:15 a. m. on September 17th of Josephine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T.H. McManus, and James Alfred Doyle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Doyle, Charlottetown.

Mrs. Joseph Dougan was organist and Miss Frances Hennessey, as soloist, rendered very beautifully "Ave Maria" and other appropriate hymns.

Given in marriage by her youngest brother, Linus, the bride was charming in her wedding dress of cream satin made on princess lines ending in a short train with lace inserts with which she wore a three-quarter length veil of tulle and carried a sheaf bouquet of white gladioli and larkspur. Miss Reta McManus of Halifax was maid of honor dressed in aqua marine taffeta with headdress of pink velvet flowers with shoulder veil. She carried a bouquet of sweet peas and pink roses.

The groomsman was Mr. Stephen Doyle.

The bride's mother was dressed in mauve and black jersey with corsage of sweet peas, while the groom's mother wore turquoise and brown with corsage of snapdragons.

A reception for the immediate families was held after the ceremony in the Victorian room of the Queen Hotel. The toast to the bride was proposed by her brother-in-law, Cpl. M. F. Hagan, R.C.M.P., and responded to by the groom.

Mr. and Mrs. Doyle left later in the day on their honeymoon which will be spent in Montreal and Boston, Mass. For travelling the bride chose a ripple black dove grey suit with black suede accessories and corsage of pink roses. On their return they will reside in Charlottetown where the groom is employed with the Canadian National Railways.

Sunset Lodge

Colonel L. DesBrisay has returned to her home in Montreal after spending a pleasant three weeks' vacation the guest of Major M. Wheeler and Major C. Van Roon, officers in charge of Sunset Lodge, Ch'town. Sept. 18th she addressed the guests of Sunset Lodge at evening prayer.

Twenty members of the S. S. Army Home League and a number of Colonel DesBrisay's friends came to the Lodge Sept. 23rd to say farewell. She addressed this meeting taking for her subject, "Building for Eternity." Colonel DesBrisay gave 60 years of her life to the work of the S. S. Army Social Services in all parts of Canada and Newfoundland. Here in her home town she saw many changes and enjoyed meeting a lot of her old time friends. She has now retired from active service and lives in the large city of Montreal. That city she said gives annually one million dollars not to the S. S. Army but for social service work. The Army carries on caring for the destitute old people and children of all classes. A sing-song led by Mrs. (Major) Victor McLane and a social hour brought a most enjoyable evening to a close. Major Wheeler in behalf of guests and visitors, thanked the Colonel for her message of hope and trust. Lunch was served by the staff of Sunset Lodge.

MENTAL HOSPITALITY

I heard a story the other day of a teacher who asked the pupils of her class to tell in their own words about their reading —what they had read, what books they had enjoyed, and the teacher said that the test was very discouraging; in fact though they were fairly well on in the High School course, the answers were what she might have expected from grade three. They said that they liked reading, that they read to get knowledge, and all in that strain; but had no preferences. Had they been asked to name the hockey stars or those names that are well known in Hollywood, the answers would have been more specific.

The teacher wished to know in what circle of thought the pupils moved, what was in short their mental world and she got a shock. Apart from the few facts picked up in the school course they seemed to know little. Francis Thompson writes about the "clay shuttered doors." There may be shutters up in the door of the mind.

When we think in terms of mental hospitality we view the mind as a sort of house, and that we receive guests there. Whom do we entertain? We have seen dwellings that had the outside well painted, but the inside was a bit disappointing; and so there are people who are very careful of the style of hat they wear and the cut of the clothes—all very well and necessary in their own place, but the mind has its claims.

This is how Browning rebukes the man who neglects the mind —whose interests are purely mundane:

"But shop each day and all day long!
Friend, your good angel slept, your star
Suffered eclipse, fate did you wrong!
From where these sorts of treasures are
There should our hearts be—Christ how far!"

Think of the man presumably well educated from the position he held, who after hearing a man repeat the Psalm, known by every one as the Twenty Third Psalm, asked the speaker after the meeting. "Who wrote that very beautiful poem?" Surely his good angel slept.

We have various words which we are in the habit of attaching to the word "mind." We speak of an open mind—one accessible to ideas. Prejudice has not got control of the door in this case. We speak, too, of a vacant mind. Some one has said (was it not Cowper) that "a mind quite vacant is a mind distressed." Empty vessels make most sound, and this is related to the statement that "a fool is known by the multitude of words." Then there is the well-furnished mind, where the idea of the house comes in again. The mind which is well-organized and logical in its thinking, and more or less familiar with the best that has been said and thought in the world is an illustration of mental hospitality.

The really hospitable mind is one in which there is a sort of temple of truth, and worship is conducted there. Nothing that defileth or maketh a lie can gain entrance there.

These two statements from two masters of the human heart are worth remembering: They deal with mind and its hospitality: "The mind is its own place, and in itself can make a heaven of hell, a hell of heaven." and "There's nothing either good or bad, but thinking makes it so."

Paul's advice is of the best: "Whatsoever things are true, whatsoever things are honest, whatsoever things are just, whatsoever things are pure, whatsoever things are lovely, whatsoever things are of good report, and if there be any virtue, and if there be any praise—think on these things."

What company that would be!

NEW WEAPON?

HIGH RIVER, Alta. — (CP)— Customers enjoying sodas at a drugstore here the other day were interrupted momentarily when an explosion rocked the store. A surprised clerk informed them that an ice cream scoop with a vacuum handle had exploded and hit a fluorescent light bulb on the ceiling, causing it to disintegrate.

Soiled Clothespins

Pick up the clothespins that have fallen to the ground and when you have a number of them, put them into sudsy water in the washing machine and run the machine for a few minutes. Then set the pins out in the sun to dry and they will be like new.

Buttons on Fine Fabrics

If you are sewing large buttons on fine material, for fastenings, use a small flat button on the inside of the material to prevent tearing a hole.

Odors on Hands

To remove unpleasant odors from the hands, dash a spoonful of sugar on a hot stove and hold the hands over the fumes. Ground coffee answers the same purpose.

Honored Prior To Leaving For College

Miss Leeta White was guest of honor at a farewell party which was arranged as a complete surprise at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Austin Graham, Malpeque Road, on Thursday evening. A large number of friends were awaiting Leeta's arrival from an evening dinner to extend to her their best wishes for her success as she leaves to take up studies at "The Alberta Bible College", Calgary, Alberta, early in October. The evening was spent in games and gaiety.

On Tuesday evening Leeta was the guest of honor at a farewell party held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dunbar, Kent Street, at which time the Young People's Society of Central Christian Church, of which she was president, presented her with a beautiful framed Island scene, following an address read by Miss Vida Stewart. The presentation of the gift was made by Miss June Moore, after which Leeta, in her usual pleasing and grateful manner thanked the Young People and Mr. and Mrs. Dunbar for the beautiful picture, and the love that was contained therein, and expressed the pleasure and fellowship with which she has experienced while working and being associated with the society for the past years, and assured them that she would be thinking of them and their work as she takes up residence studies in Western Canada.
