her, bring her misery. But she cannot be rid of them and she is so made that I doubt she would rid herself of them if she could."

"Are we such poor things then, madame?"

"I'm afraid we are, my child."

"Then—then I cannot, because I madesome lovely image of that one, ever hope to be worthy of the love that Roger offers me? I can never really be given to him because there is some part of me that he can never win?"

"No one can be given completely to another. It is a pity, but there is the truth of it. If you can make him happy, my dear, it will be enough."

"I will try. With all my heart."

"Then you cannot fail, Meridel."

The too-short holidays and the great feast of New Year's passed on into the steady merciless cold of the iron months of January and February. Life went on evenly enough at Philibert. Meridel and the children did not return to the city when vacation ended, and Rudolph spent most of his time at the great house that he had, from long pretense of ownership, come to look upon rather as the place where he belonged. Meridel stayed because madame needed her now and the children could have good schooling from Miss Carrick and the other teachers whom the government had provided.

In Memoriam

WILLIAM A. TOOMBS

In the passing of Wm. A. Toombs on December 14, Kensington has lost one of its most esteemed citizens; born at Mayfield, seventy-nine years ago, the son of the late John and Anne MacDonald Tombs, the deceased, in his early manhood settled on a farm at Long River, where by untiring industry and wise planning, he built for himself a comfortable and commodious home.

Later in life, disposing of his property, he moved with his family to Kensington, and engaged in fox farming, in which venture, he also attained success.

He was a kind and loving husband and father, a good neighbour and a true friend; during his illness of several months, his habitual courage and cheerfulness, made it a pleasure for friends to visit him, and when at last he neared the valley of the shadow death had no terrors for him, for his trust was firm in the merits of his Lord and Saviour—and peacefully he fell asleep.

There are left to mourn his passing his sorrowing widow, (nee Jennie Gillespie,) one son Preston and four daughters, Lulu, Minnie (Mrs. Delaney), Lena, (Mrs. Monkley), Wilna, (Mrs. Milligan); also two brothers, John of Bedeque and Kenneth of Kensington; two sisters Mrs. Bryenton of Mayfield and Mrs. A. Muttart of Carleton, besides a host of relatives and friends who will long cherish the memory of one whose integrity of purpose and whose sterling worth, became evident to all with whom he came in contact.

The funeral took place on Wednesday, December 16th from the Presbyterian Church of which the deceased was a member, the service being conducted by his Pastor, Rev. J. MacGowan assisted by Rev A. D. Stirling. The many and beautiful floral offerings bore silent testimony to the esteem in which the deceased was held.

The pall bearers were:—W. B. MacArthur, Robert Humphrey, Alex. Hiltz, Layton Rogers, George Brookins and Myron MacArthur. Interment Kensington cemetery.

Address And Presentation At Falconwood

Captain H. D. MacLean of Beach Grove Training Centre spent the evening of December 26th at Falconwood Hospital where he entertained the patients and staff by showing the motion picture "One Foot in Heaven." This service which is much appreciated has been given without renumeration by Captain MacLean many times during the year.

At the close of the picture Captain and Mrs. MacLean were called to the platform where they were presented with a gift by Mrs. L. A. Dignan on behalf of the staff of Falconwood Hospital.

The following address was read by Dr. R.D. MacLaughlan:

To Captain and Mrs. H.D. MacLean:

Dear Friends:

We have appreciated your kindness in the past year very much in entertaining the patients of this Institution with the excellent motion pictures you have shown in the auditorium on various occasions. They have certainly added a great deal to the pleasure of those whose source of entertainment is limited.

Please accept this small gift as a token of our appreciation for all you have done.

We sincerely thank you both and wish you a very happy and successful New Year.

Signed on behalf of the Staff of FALCONWOOD HOSPITAL

December 25, 1942.

OUR BOARDING HOUSE WITH MAJOR HOOPI

Company Sergeant-Major Thomas James of Osgoode Station, Ont., and Montreal has so many ribbons on the breast of his Canadian Army tunic that he has to carry a letter from Canadian Military Headquarters in London to show suspicious Provosts that he is not a phoney. At the end of the Great War he was an acting colonel in the Imperial Army. In 1940 he enlisted in the Royal Canadian Army Service Corps as a private and later transferred to the Veterans' Guard of Canada. Canadian Army Photo.
