BIRTHDAY GREETINGS SENT MONARCH

Governor-General Lord Tweedsmuir and Prime Minister King Send Congratulatory Cables.

OTTAWA, Dec. 14—(Monday)—(CP)—Early today Canada greeted King George VI on the monarch's first birthday anniversary since he took over the duties of Sovereign. Congratulatory cables were sent by the Governor General and Prime Minister Mackenzie King.

The messages sent in connection with the accession and birthday of King George VI are of historical significance as they were framed with careful regard for the constitutional relationship of his Dominion with the Crown. In this relationship the Governor General is the personal representative of the King and the Ministry is His Majesty's Government in Canada. The messages:

From Lord Tweedsmuir to King George VI at Buckingham Palace dated Dec. 12, on the occasion of His Majesty's accession:

"May I be permitted to offer Your Majesty on your accession to the Throne my loyal duty and my most cordial good wishes. I had the honor to enjoy the friendship of His Late Majesty your father, with whom, if I may say so respectfully, Your Majesty has much in common, and I confidently believe that during your reign you will be no less than he did the love and admiration of your people. I would respectfully offer the same good wishes to Her Majesty who long ago won the devotion of the whole Empire.

Tweedsmuir."

heers and cries "God Save the King."

Last winter there was visible mourning for George V, and but a few days ago there may have been sorrow in the hearts of the people as they saw the King's day and he was given all homage.

Everywhere a hush closed her lips in sorrow as Prime Minister Mackenzie King's appeal to continue when Edward's accession became known, and rallied around the second son of Queen Mary.

IN MEMORIAM

MRS. JOSEPH RYAN
Her many friends in this city will regret to hear of the death in Halifax, N. S., of Mrs. (Captain) Joseph Ryan, who was formerly a resident of Charlottetown. The sad event took place early Saturday morning at the residence of her son with whom she resided.

Mrs. Ryan was formerly Annie Gill and a native of Belfast, P. E. I., and leaves to mourn her husband, Capt. Joseph Ryan, late Harbor Master at Charlottetown, also one son, Capt. Frank V. Ryan of the C. G. S. Acadia of the Geodetic Survey Dept. of Public Works survey ship, Capt. and Mrs. Ryan always resided in Charlottetown until two years ago, when life's twilight was approaching, both having passed the 80 year span of life they acceded to the wishes of their only child and decided to move to Halifax where their son resides and spend the remainder of their days with him and his family.

During the past year Mrs. Ryan had not enjoyed her usual health, and recently a decided change took place, which, notwithstanding all the tender care and attention so willingly given her, death was the result. She was a woman of very high and charitable disposition, always very pleasant to meet and talk with and possessed a sense of humor which made a meeting with her always enjoyable. The sympathy of all with whom she was acquainted will go out to the grief-stricken relatives. The funeral will likely be held in Halifax.

ACCESSION

allegiance but to continue their functions as usual until the oath could be administered.

Privy Council Clerk E. J. Lemaire carried these orders at once to Government House for signature of Lord Tweedsmuir, and incidentally to administer the oath of allegiance to Sir Lyman P. Duff, and to be himself sworn by that official. Sir Lyman also administered the oath to Lord Tweedsmuir.

Mr. Mackenzie King, closely following the overseas broadcast of accession ceremonies in St. James Palace and Hyde Park, read the formal order over a Dominion and Empire network of radio stations. Justice Minister Lapointe read a French translation of proclamation.

Then in the privacy of his own office the Prime Minister took the oath of allegiance to King George before Mr. Lemaire. The clerk then proceeded to the Privy Council Chamber and swore in all but two members of the Government. The absentees were Hon. C. G. Power, minister of pensions and national health, recovering from a serious illness, and Hon. Raoul Dandurand minister without portfolio, in Europe.

The Prime Minister paid courtesy calls upon Lord Tweedsmuir and Sir Francis Ford, thanking them for their co-operation in dealing with the unprecedented constitutional questions arising from the accession. Similar calls were paid by all ministers of the Government.

Events of the last two weeks, Mr. Mackenzie King said, in an interview, had proved the wisdom of action taken in 1926 to divide the responsibility of representing the British Crown and Parliament in the Governor General and Parliament in the Governor General. Decision was reached in that year to appoint a high commissioner to represent the Government of the day,

YUKONERS' GATHERING PROPOSED

There is yet in Prince Edward Island a considerable number of persons who tracked over the "Trail of Ninety Eight" to Dawson City in the greatest gold stampede the world has ever seen. In fact P. E. I. probably contributed a greater number of Argonauts according to its population than any other political division on earth; with the possible exception of Pictou and Antigonish Counties if they can be construed as political divisions.

Sagas of the Yukon have been written in prose and poem in many languages, but our own "Sour-doughs" can take tales—old if the setting is congenial and convivial, the tongue strings will loosen.

It has been suggested to the writer that the "old timers" meet in Charlottetown. No date was mentioned, but it might be advisable to say tentative some afternoon and evening during Christmas week. It was originally intended that the gathering be held earlier in the fall, thereby facilitating the attendance of many of our Yukon "Billions" from Nova Scotia and New Brunswick, to whom invitations were to be broadcast in press and radio. They were always good friends of the "Islanders" when far from home. They will be welcome as the flowers of May this time, and next year it is planned to give them notice of the gathering in ample time to enable them to be present.

It is proposed to hold the meeting in the banquet room of the Canadian National Hotel. All "old timers" are respectfully requested to communicate with James Pendergast, Kensington, at once in order to form a fairly approximate idea of number of plates required. Suggestions as to menu welcomed.—K.

train journey via Innsbruck in guarded seclusion. Border officials said his car was routed directly to Vienna where it was expected about 10:15 p. m.

The Duke's enquiry, Colonel Piers Legh, said Edward had enjoyed a comfortable trip.

At Salzburg, after a day-long journey through the majestic Alps, Edward left his car for a brisk walk up and down the platform.

He appeared rested and gave a cheery salute to his guard of Austrian detectives.

On the train from Innsbruck to Salzburg he called for Austrian dishes.

At Salzburg, the chef debarked and scurried to the station restaurant loudly bemoaning the appetite of other passengers for fresh trout. He said they had eaten all his fresh trout and now Edward himself had asked for fresh trout and he had none to serve him.

Ear Trouble

Edward seemed slightly troubled by his ear which had fallen required treatment by Professor Heinrich Neumann, famed Vienna specialist. He could be seen covering his ear occasionally.

Skis were in his baggage.

Austrian officials took extraordinary precautions to protect him from the curious.

Throughout the morning His Royal Highness travelled through Switzerland.

The Duke left Boulogne-Sur-Mer last night. Earlier he had departed from the destroyer Fury after an overnight voyage from Portsmouth. Four large trunks and 26 pieces of hand luggage were brought by the party.

CANNES, France, Dec. 13.—Wallis Simpson devoted Sunday to reading and writing letters. The former King Edward sped toward Austria to await the time when he can marry her next April.

Her hosts reiterated she would remain here until after Christmas at least.

There was no comment here on reports quoting Austrian border officials as saying luggage of Mrs. Simpson was aboard the European express bearing Edward. The bor-

Size Limit For Need Of Fixing Young Lobsters Urged

A meeting of the lobster fishermen of East Prince was held in Summerside last week for the purpose of appointing delegates to the Maritime Convention which takes place on Wednesday at Truro, Mr. T.M. Linkletter, M.L.A., was chairman. Mr. J. J. Larrabee, Supervisor of Fisheries; Mr. Shaw, Inspector for Queens, and Mr. Patrick Martin, Inspector for Prince County, were present.

Some important matters were discussed with the idea of conserving the lobster industry.

The consensus of opinion of the delegates was that a size limit should be imposed to conserve the young lobsters. Depletion of the lobster fisheries is coming to pass not because there is a scarcity of lobsters, but because the fishermen do not throw back the young lobsters.

The fishermen are alone responsible for the present state of the lobster industry. Lobsters grow very fast and if fishermen were made to throw back the small lobster, the number of large lobsters would increase rapidly.

Another matter to come up for discussion was the changing of the season from the early to the late season for the lobster fishing grounds stretching from West Cape to North Cape.

There were several reasons given for the change that were felt to be advantageous to the fishermen of that district.

Another matter brought up was that the season on the south side should be advanced to August 5th and to cut off the last two weeks, as the general opinion was that the weather was as a rule so rough that fishing was only destroyed the lobster gear and the amount of lobsters caught did not make up for the damage done.

Mr. Linkletter who is well known as a lobster packer, gave some very good advice to the fishermen and declared that with proper conservation the Island lobster fisheries should bring in a large income to the fishermen.

Mr. Larrabee, Mr. Shaw and Mr. Martin also spoke.

Mr. Linkletter was appointed the delegate representing East Prince and at a similar meeting in Tignish Mr. Clarence Morrissey was chosen to represent West Prince at Truro.—S.

ARCHBISHOP PAYS TRIBUTE TO BALDWIN

(A. P. by Guardian's Special Wire)
LONDON, Dec. 13.—The Archbishop of Canterbury tonight castigated "the social circle" in which former King Edward VIII moved, in a broadcast to Britain bidding farewell to the old King and welcome to the new King George VI. "Strange and sad it must be," said the Archbishop, "that for such a motive, however strongly it was pressed upon his heart, he (Edward) should have disappointed hopes so high and abandoned a trust so great.

"Even more strange and sad it is that he should have sought his happiness in a manner inconsistent with the Christian principles of marriage, and within a social circle whose standards and ways of life are alien to all the best instincts and traditions of his people."

The Archbishop in his broadcast said he would deliver another "a fortnight hence as a somewhat solemn recall to religion."

"We are all rallying to our new King," he said. "Will there not be a rally also to the King of Kings?"

The Primate's castigation of Edward's social circle was interpreted as a reference to the so-called "fast international set." It includes several wealthy American women who have wed members of the nobility.

Of those who belong to this circle know that today they stand rebuked by the judgment of a nation which had loved King Edward," the Archbishop continued. "I have shrunk from saying these words, but I have felt compelled for the sake of sincerity and truth to say them."

The Archbishop lauded the steadiness "with which the nation stood the test," and praised Queen Mary and Prime Minister Baldwin for leaving launching into an eulogy of the new King.

Of the Prime Minister he said: "History will record that he was the pilot who, by God's help, steered the ship of state through difficult currents, through dangerous rocks and shoals into the harbor where now it safely rests."

In praising King George VI the Archbishop took occasion to explain the monarch's impediment of speech which now he has largely overcome.

"In manner and speech, he (George) is more quiet and reserved than his brother (Edward), and here I may add a parenthesis which may not be unhelpful. When his people listen to him they will note an occasional and momentary hesitation in his speech.

"But he has brought it into full control, and to those who hear, it need cause no sort of embarrassment for it causes none to him who speaks."

The Archbishop concluded: "A King has gone. God be with him. A King has come. God bless him, keep him, guide him now and ever."

The Bishop of Portsmouth, Rt. Rev. Frank Partridge, said: "We shall not say, shall we, when we think of that solitary figure looking back in darkness on the white cliffs of England, that we have no forgiveness? For assuredly, to him, as to any other, is the promise which was made aforetime to the prodigal son."

The Bishop of Bradford, whose speech on Dec. 1 precipitated the crisis, said today:

"We shall all feel deep regret that a King who had so many great qualities for his position has taken the position which he has taken."

The Dean of Exeter, Dr. S. C. Carpenter, said:

"The Church is relieved and happy at the passing of scandal which would have cheapened the coronation, and which would have robbed city and village of the simple happiness with which they were prepared to greet it."

der officials further were quoted as saying Mrs. Simpson might already be a passenger on the train.

Lord Brownlow, into whose care former King Edward entrusted Mrs. Simpson, said he would see her last night, but denied he would see her former master.

He left the Riviera villa where the American-born divorcee took refuge after the term of a British constitutional crisis was averted in Paris, and returned to Paris.

The former Gentleman-in-Waiting to the abdicated monarch insisted he was not going to London possibly stopping off enroute for a holiday, and asserted he would not meet Edward.

LANTERN LECTURE ON CENTRAL AFRICA

A lantern lecture on Central Africa was held in St. Mary's Hall on Friday evening under the auspices of the W. A. O. church. Ven. Archbishop White presided and in a few remarks introduced the subject of the evening speaking of the work of the Church of England missionaries in that interesting country. Mr. E. J. Hallett read the description of the scenes as they were thrown on the screen. Mr. Brun Brennan manipulated the lantern with great satisfaction. The lecture gave a very good idea of general conditions in Central Africa and the customs of the people and work of the missionaries.—S.

BENEFIT CONCERT BY THE BAND

Complimentary remarks were heard on every side on the very fine performance put on in the High School Auditorium by the Summerside Citizens Band. Considering these forty musicians have only been practicing together for so short a period their performance is nothing short of marvelous. Mr. B. E. Robinson, under whose direction the boys have risen to such a high state of perfection is to be congratulated on the success of his undertaking. The boys are also to be commended for the main purpose of the concert, that the proceeds go to the fund provided for children, and it is all the more to be commended that it was on their own initiative that the concert was put on. Mr. Lowell Hancock spoke very highly of the bandmen and their leader, Mr. R. Bryenton expressed his thanks to all who assisted with the program and especially to the School Board for the use of the Auditorium. Assisting in the program was Miss Beatrice Gallant, noted child pianist; Miss Amanda Cannon, and Mr. Lowell Hancock; also as a quartette, Messrs. Bonness, Albert Huestis, Archie Sharp and Jack Wright. The pianists were Mrs. Cliff Whalton, and Miss Sue Meadows.

The program which opened with "Silent Night" sung by Miss Amanda Cannon accompanied by the band, is as follows: "Silent Night", "Colonel Bogey" March; Songs by quartette; March, "Washington Post" by Band; Saxophone solo by Sten Jamieson; "Nights of Gladness", by the Band; "Holy Night" by trumpeter Alphonse Gacon; the piano selections by Miss Callant were a delightful feature. Her numbers were "Salut a Peaslie", by Kewaltee and a Minuet waltz by Chopin. "Our Director" and other selections by the Band. Solos by Mr. Hancock, "I am the bow" and "Empty Saddles" were also very pleasing features. Stan Jamieson gave a further exhibition of his skill on the saxophone and the concert ended with the well known piece, "Interregnum" and the King.—S.

BROTHERS PRESENT

The King's brothers the Dukes of Gloucester and Kent, were with him inside, and after the proclamation of his accession he received the greetings and expressions of loyalty from representatives of the Dominion, including Hon. Vincent Massey, Canadian High Commissioner.

At the conclusion of the council meeting, King George VI walked down the grand staircase, out the palace door and to the cheers of the crowd departed for Buckingham Palace.

The representatives of the Irish Free State were not among the Dominion envoys presented to the new King, because of the Irish parliament's delay in enacting legislation accepting the succession.

Downtown London was jammed as the proclamations of king-om were read at St. James's Charing Cross, Temple Bar and the Royal Exchange.

ACKNOWLEDGE CHEERS

The little Princesses, Elizabeth and Margaret Rose, who are next in line for succession to the throne, made their first public appearance in the afternoon in a drive with their father down Constitution Hill. They were cheered enthusiastically. The King lifted his hat and the little girls waved excited greetings.

Only during the day was there disorder, and that only because of the crowds' exuberance. Several thousand watchers at St. James's park police cordons. Mounted police reinforcements rushed up to clear the roadway.

Briefly, in the House of Commons, members assembled to take the oath of allegiance. Likewise the House of Lords pledged fealty for the second time within a year.
