SEARCH FOR GOLDEN CITIES

V. LOOKING FOR THE SHIPS

Twenty-five men, led by Captain Diaz, left the land of Cibola and marched across Arizona to try to find the ships which had come up from Mexico. After going about 400 miles, the Spaniards met Indians who were "tall and strong—like giants." The following was written about these Indians:

On the bare portion words were carved.

"They live in straw cabins, built mostly underground. Only the straw roof is above ground. They go in at one end, and come out at the other. More than a hundred persons sleep in one cabin.

"When they carry anything, they can take a load of more than 300 pounds on their heads. They eat bread cooked in the ashes, as big as the two-pounds loaves of Castile. Because of the great cold, they carry a fire-brand when they go from one place to another. They use the firebrand to warm different parts of the body, and keep changing the place where they hold it."

If those Indians really tried to keep warm, in that way, they must have had a hard time. While one part of the body was getting warm, other parts would be getting cold. More likely, the firebrands were taken to make it easier to build a fire.

The "Firebrand Indians" as they came to be called, lived near a river "more than a mile wide." This river was later named the Colorado, but the Spaniards spoke of it as the Firebrand River for a time.

Diaz learned that white men with boats had been seen some distance down the river. For three days he marched with his men along the eastern bank. Then a soldier caught sight of a tree with the bark scraped off in one place. On the bare portion, these words were carved: "Alarcon reached this place. There are letters at the foot of this tree."

Captain Diaz dug up the letters and found that the ships had sailed back along the coast of Mexico. The letters explained that California was "not an island." Giving up hope of overtaking the ships, the captain ordered his men to commence the march back to Cibola.

THE DUCHESS OF DEVONSHIRE IS HONORED

LONDON England, Nov 7—The Duchess of Devonshire, who was accompanied by the Duke, former Governor-General of Canada, received the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws from Leeds University when she laid the foundation stone of the new buildings which the growth of the University has rendered necessary.

"We present for conspicuous recognition," declared the Vice-Chancellor, Dr. J. B. Baillie, "one who loyally sustains the finest traditions of her native land, and who embodies in herself that ideal of cultured womanhood which the present-day universities strive to uphold and to promote. The daughter and wife of eminent statesmen, both of them honorary graduates of our University, her Grace the Duchess of Devonshire possesses in uncommon degree the wisdom of life which is higher than knowledge, and the serene control of complex circumstance which is the best fruit of education.

"Few women of our time are better acquainted with the Empire at home and overseas; few have had greater opportunity to fill the important sphere peculiar to woman in the central places of government influence. For her labors in the cause of charity her Grace was created a Lady of Justice of St. John of Jerusalem. The numerous county and national organization for philanthropic purposes over which her Grace presides and in which she actively participates, bear witness to her unwearied devotion to the confidence in her powers of judgment."

WOMEN OF SIAM ARE MOST PROGRESSIVE

OXFORD, England, Nov. 7.—A niece of the King of Siam who has come to Oxford University to study the language and manners of England says the modern young woman in Siam is keeping pace with her English sister in the race for freedom and progress. In an interview she intimated that the "new ideas" in Britain about the place which women might fill were not so very new in Siam.

"The women of my country have always been free," she said. "They have always done exactly the same work on the farms as the men have done. And they have never been separated from the men, like the women of India."

A DAY WELL SPENT

If we sit down at set of sun
And count the things that we have done,
And counting find
One self-denying act, one word,
That eased the heart of Him who heard,
One glance most kind
That fell like sunshine where it went,
Then we may count the day well spent.

WEST END APARTMENTS

The building on the corner of Water and Pownal streets, formerly owned by Mr. George H. Toombs, is now in process of remodelling into a modern apartment house. When completed it will be known as the West End Apartments. The contract has been let to Mr. P.H. MacMillan, the architect is Mr. Sterling Blanchard. It is expected that the building will be ready for occupation about the end of April.

The main entrance is from Pownal Street, and there will be a lawn with a garage in rear, affording accommodation for eight cars

The building will be ready for occupation end of April and will contain eight apartments—four with 3 bedrooms, two with two bedrooms, and two with four bedrooms. There is an open fire place in all living rooms. Living rooms are large 12 x 24, and open through double glass doors into dining rooms about 12 x 18 long. Kitchens are equipped with combination set tub and sink and has an outside balcony. All rooms have cupboards.

The four upper apartments are of the duplex type, a small stairway from the living rooms leading up to the bath and bedrooms above.

The building gets full sun from the south and west and commands a view of the East River and the harbour's mouth. It is thoroughly insulated against cold and heat on all outside walls and roof with "Insublathe" and all floors are sound deadened.

There is a separate service stair and dumb waiter to all kitchens and a house telephone system connecting each apartment with the janitor's quarters and the main entrance. Lockers are provided in the basement for storage and coal.

The kitchen walls are panelled in B. C. fir with built-in cabinet and ironing-boards. Bathrooms are likewise panelled and have built-in medicine cabinet with mirror door finished in white enamel. One cupboard in each apartment has a moth-proof cedar lined chest.

There will be complete janitor service.

All apartments are to be wired for electric stoves and hot water heaters and an unusual abundance of base plugs and convenience outlets has been provided.

All rooms are to be lighted by bronze side-brackets bearing candle-lights in the modern fashion. The Brown Electric Co. are doing this work.

The heating will be done by an oil burning furnace, and tenders for it and the plumbing are now being called.

She wore the conventional veil and orange blossoms, and carried a beautiful bouquet of roses, carnations and fern. As she was led into the parlor by her father, who gave her away in marriage, Miss Miriam Profitt, sweetly rendered Mendelsshon's Wedding March. The bride and groom stood under a beautiful arch of flowers and evergreens. After the ceremony about fifty invited guests sat down to a sumptuous repast. The bride was the recipient of a large number of magnificent and costly presents, including a substantial cheque from her parents. The groom's gift to the bride was a beautiful diamond pendent. 25TH. WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

On Nov., 3rd., 1928, the friends of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Leard, Bedeque, called at their home to surprise them on their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary. Miss Ila Collett R. N. played several selections on the piano, Mr. Horace Wright, M. P. read the following address in verse composed by Rev. A. J. Reynolds, Bedeque, to Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Leard, on the twenty-fifth anniversary of their wedding.

Five-and-twenty years you've travelled
Through both calm and stormy weather;
Five-and-twenty years unravelled
The tangled threads of life together.

Five-and-twenty years your burdens
Jointly each has bravely borne;
Mingling tears and snarling guerdons
Ever since your wedding morn.

Memories, memories, how they're flitting
O'er your hearts and minds tonight;
Thoughts and moods and feelings fitting
Halowed with a hidden light.

With what haste the years do beat it;
Since your wedding vows were plighted
How swift the time! Who can defeat it
Whether full of joy or blighted.

From your cooking, building, tillage
You have taken time for serving
In the Church and in the village
Every cause that is deserving.

We express appreciation
For your gifts of heart and head;
Ere you reach your Destination
May you be a long time wed.

Choice gifts in silver were presented by Mrs. Reynolds and Mrs. Orville Johnson. After singing "For they are Jolly Good Fellows" and wishing Mr. and Mrs. Leard many more years of wedded happiness the company left for their homes.

STUDENTS INTERESTED IN DENTAL WORK

(By Canadian Press)

TORONTO, Ont. Nov. 7—Children in the rural districts of Northern Ontario visited this past summer by Dr. W. J. Carson, travelling dentist for the Ontario Department of Health, not only showed a keen interest in the dental work done for them—chiefly in the schools during the summer vacation—but they seemed to enjoy it. The district covered by the dentist took in small settlements in sections of the province far distant from the centres of population, the ages of the young people treated being from 4 to 17.

"The children help carry things in from the car bring water, put on a fire and are always anxious to do something," Dr. Carson, said. "When it comes time to start work they are so anxious to get their teeth fixed that I have to send them all out of school. To obtain the confidence of the pupils it is necessary to humor them at times and a good method, I found, was to carry a softball and bat, and in that way show them that a dentist is human. When we got started to work in the chair it seemed to be a lot of fun for them. The dental equipment I carried was all strange to them and they wanted to know all about everything. By keeping a child's mind on the instrument, I often had a cavity filled before he knew it. Then we would have more fun letting them all look at it.

"Sometimes when a boy had an anterior deciduous tooth to be extracted, I let him do it himself, after I put the forceps on, and the other children would have a great laugh. Sometimes the patient would not be strong enough, but he would never give up until he had to.

"There were always a few mothers present with pre-school children and doing dental work for tots of two to four years is of a different character entirely. They are never frightened but just shy, and have to be won over by a little coaxing."

Competing in the annual deep sea angling contest for women at Deal, England, recently, a miss hooked and landed a canvas kitbag that had been lost from the pier several days before.

MUCH FEED GRAIN IS USED FOR SEED

Amount of Weed Seed Sown Deplorable, says Advisory Board Member

It was deplorable the amount of weed seeds sown in seed grain last spring, M. P. Mountain, of Solsgirth, Manitoba, told the members of the Seed Advisory Board at the annual meeting of that body in Ottawa recently. A neighbor of Mr. Mountain's, it was asserted, had his farm practically ruined through sowing weedy oats shipped into Manitoba this Spring.

Under the present system of grain distribution there is little to prevent feed grain being used as seed. Cars of ungraded oats, for instance can be purchased in one Province, moved into another, and without cleaning or grading can be sold without mentioning the word seed. Undoubtedly this condition is responsible for the steady spread of weeds in many districts of the country, according to observers in close touch with the seed situation.

Methods of preventing this sort of thing were discussed at the Ottawa meeting and it was suggested that in the case of grain not consigned to the terminal ports for export as grain, some control should be exercised by the authorities. One member outlined a plan whereby it would be made compulsory for the shipper of such grain to send along a certificate stating that the same was for use as feed only and the government inspectors would be given a record of such shipments.

Members of the Advisory Board expressed themselves in full sympathy with any method which would give the proper authorities control over interior grain shipments, Mr. Mountain stating that he would gladly support anything that could be done to prevent the distribution of uncleaned and weedy grain in the West. His statement was also endorsed by D. H. Galbraith of Vulcan, Alberta, another member of the Advisory Board.
