

ABEGWEITS WIN FROM CRYSTALS

Sprang a Surprise on the Fans Winning out By 3-2 Last night

Congratulations to Capt. Wm. Gillispie and his band of youthful followers on their victory of last night. Reference is made to the first hockey match in the P. E. I. hockey league in the Arena last night when the Abegweit seven put it over the Crystals to the tune of 3-2, winning the first lap in the three cornered race for Championship honors.

The result was a surprise to even the most hopeful Abegweit—the winning team's light weight and junior pretensions holding out little hope for victory against the veterans composing, for the most part, the western capital's seven. One of the factors tending to the Crystals' defeat might be the poor ice, the mild weather making it heavy and not conducive to good hockey. They had been practicing on fast ice and were not accustomed to stickhandling or skating on ice like that of last night.

Their men were well chosen, evenly balanced, of average weight and in good trim. They appeared unable to break away from the Abbies forwards seemed to lack their old time and broke up practically every attempt at combination and with but few exceptions effectually frustrated individual performances. The Abbies defence was in fine mettle and deserved equal praise with the forwards for their victory. The Crystal forwards seemed to lack their old time snap and in team work were ineffective. Their defence was good, Grady and Adams often getting away but only to be met by the sturdy youngsters on the opposing defence. Doucette in goals was as good as ever but was not troubled by many hot ones.

The Abegweit forwards, despite their youth and inexperience in senior company played well together, were good in following up, exhibiting no fear of their older and formidable looking opponents and received their knocks like men. They came off the ice without experiencing any great degree of fatigue.

The game opened at 8.32 with a rush to the Abegweit end, then to the Crystals by Duggan, who shot but failed to connect. The rubber came back and Earl Grady in two minutes slammed in No. 1 for the Crystals on a pass from the side to centre ice just in front of the goal.

Eighteen minutes had passed when Lou Campbell, the shining light of the Abegweit forwards, made a magnificent run on the side, passed three opponents, made an accurate shot at a difficult angle and scored.

The hockey improved here from the somewhat ragged sort which characterized the first few moments of play to good earnest work. Here there was a delay of two minutes on account of an accident to R. McDonald, and later seven minutes more delay occurred while Capt. Gillispie procured new skates. Re-suming play L. Campbell figured on another pretty dash followed three minutes before time was up by a shot from centre ice by S. Phillips which eluded Vanderstine.

Two minutes more play and the half ended. On the opening of the second period the Abbies started out with the game getting brisker. Adams and Duggan were penalized and the play was in Abegweit territory till their return, afterwards it became of the end to end variety. Grady was penalized for upsetting Nash and after McTague and Gillispie combined for a length of the rink the latter drove the puck home fourteen minutes after play amid resounding applause. After 24 minutes play Lou Campbell started behind his nets, evaded the entire Crystal seven and in a magnificent run and with a trappy exhibition of stickhandling, placed the puck carefully behind Doucette's heel for the winning goal. The rink rang with cheers and Campbell's piece of work made him the idol of the fans for Death Followed Worry and Operations. Had Been A Prominent Politician.

(Canadian Press) TORONTO, Jan. 19.—A cable from London announces the death of G. R. Cockburn, following three serious surgical operations which he had undergone since leaving Toronto eleven months ago.

The failure of the Ontario Bank of which Cockburn was president and the largest shareholder, was a severe blow to him financially.

Although he was wholly exonerated from any responsibility for the failure the worry is believed to have undermined his once rugged constitution.

Cockburn was a public man of considerable eminence. In 1887 he won the riding of Centre Toronto from the Liberal party and he held it until 1896.

He was one of the "noble 13" who voted against the principle of the Jesuit Estate Act in 1893.

He represented Canada at the World's Fair in Chicago in 1893 as Chief Commissioner.

CARDINAL WELCOMED

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—Illumination tonight of St. Patrick's Cathedral with 50,000 electric lights strung to the very tips of the two great spires, ended a memorable day of ovation for John, Cardinal Farley on his return to America as a newly created prince of the church.

It is estimated that three-quarters of a million people saw his eminence driven from the Battery, where he landed from an ocean liner, up Broadway and Fifth avenue to the Cathedral. So unbounded was the enthusiasm of many who sought to kiss his ring that the mounted police were obliged to charge throngs repeatedly.

Dressed in his scarlet robes the cardinal rode in an open carriage through a lane of his people and friends for more than four miles, chilled by the cold weather, but warmed by the plaudits of hundreds of thousands and the papal colors displayed along the entire route.

As he reached the Cathedral he found a throng of such numbers that it was only by force that way was made for him into the edifice. Six thousand children's voices were raised in the "Te Deum" as he entered. In thanks for the welcome he received, his eminence spoke with great feeling and delivered the blessing of Pope Pius X.

"Coming now from his sacred presence," he said, "and after several private audiences in which he opened his fatherly heart as to a living son, and after hearing that voice, which seemed to speak in tones of inspiration, in public consensus proclaiming the world's readiness to accept of the schemes of the church's enemies, I have returned with a confidence more full than ever before that God has placed in the chair of Peter a man after Christ's own heart to meet the needs of the time.

"Not only is that feeble old man calm and untroubled but one sees that his placid insistence is founded on the profound faith of the saints strong as adamant in the belief that God is with him and his church as he had promised he would ever be. At this conclusion of his address the cardinal descended from his throne and kneeling took reverend part in the benediction of the blessed sacrament, the "Tantum Ergo" being sung by the thousands of children assisted by priests and seminarians banked on the left side of the altar. Cardinal Farley then gave the benediction to the congregation and the organ pealed forth "Holy God, We Praise Thy Name."

ELOPEMENT STORY TOLD IN COURT

TORONTO, Jan. 17.—A romantic story of a midnight elopement is recited by Mr. Justice Lachford in his finding of fact in the dispute between the brothers and sisters of the late Captain William A. Forbes of Windsor. The point necessary to establish the widow's claim to the deceased's property was the proof of his finding of fact in the dispute between the brothers and sisters of the late Captain William A. Forbes of Windsor, and his widow and children. The point necessary to establish the widow's claim to the deceased's property was the proof of his finding of fact in the dispute between the brothers and sisters of the late Captain William A. Forbes of Windsor, and his widow and children. The point necessary to establish the widow's claim to the deceased's property was the proof of his finding of fact in the dispute between the brothers and sisters of the late Captain William A. Forbes of Windsor, and his widow and children.

His Lordship finds that the marriage was a fact, however, and tells the story of what he believes happened. The story of what he believes happened is that a man and woman were known every where as man and wife, and she was called Mrs. Forbes. "Even if a doubt existed as to the legality of the marriage, I should feel bound to declare in favor of the alleged marriage," he says. "All the laws, all the morality, sanction this view of a doubtful case." The widow and children will, therefore, get the estate.

While McManigal was being kept secretly in a room at the home of a detective in Chicago last April, plans were laid to see what McNamara would do if he heard the dynamiter was in trouble. Mrs. McManigal accordingly was sent to visit McNamara at the office of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers in Indianapolis, and to ask him for financial aid for her husband. AT THE END OF THE DAY.

How is it with you at the end of the day? Is pride in your heart and is peace in your breast? Can you sit in the darkness and honestly say That in all of your acts you have tried for the best— That if profits have come to you, little or great, No wronged one may think of you, treasuring hate? Can you turn at the end of the day and be glad That no one is poorer for aught you have done— That no one has reason to curse or be sad

The building which is entirely of marble, is opposite the famous Cathedral and adjacent to the leaning tower. Two watchmen, in making their rounds, noticed smoke coming from under the door of the baptistry. An investigation followed, and a burning fuse was discovered attached to a contrivance on the door panels. The inside of this contrivance, as a subsequent investigation showed, was filled with gunpowder, and the outside had been soaked in kerosene. The watchmen acted quickly and turned on a stream of water, which extinguished the burning fuse. This averted not only the probable destruction of the baptistry but disaster to the marble cathedral and the leaning tower.
