Famed "Strad" Is Recovered

(C.P. by Guardian's Special Wire)
NEW YORK, Nov. 15—From a Brazilian jungle where, carefully boxed, it had lain buried for 40 years a famous "Strad"—the "Baillet-Latour" violin—came back to life today.

The violin was made for an ancestor of the French violinist, Rene Baillet, Antonio Stradivarius made it but after he had cut his famous "F" on the left side of the "face" he turned it over to his son, Francesco, and the latter made the other "F".

For this reason, Mischel Piastro, concert-master of the New York Philharmonic orchestra and soloist, will today, it is known as the "Father to Son" violin.

From Baillet it went to a wealthy Italian woman. She sold it secretly and it reappeared in possession of a continental dealer.

A year ago the wealthy Enrico Marques Valli died on his Brazilian plantation. His will said "I would like to have my friend, S. Karpilowsky, have the first chance to buy the violin."

Karpilowsky went to Brazil from Holland. Kriesler was in Rio de Janeiro at the time and together they went to the estate where a sealed lead "coffin" was open to reveal the instrument.

Crew Rescued As Fire Rakes Ship

QUEBEC, Nov. 15—The flame-swept hulk of the motor schooner Marie Amable lay ashore some 80 miles below Quebec tonight while her captain and crew of four were jubilant in this provincial capital at their escape from the burning vessel.

The men, Captain David Tremblay, his three sons, Philippe, Laureat and Alberic and Maurice Degagne, landed here Saturday after being picked up in the lower St. Lawrence by the coastwise schooner Metis.

Their lifeboat was riding the waves precariously when the Metis came through Saturday's early-morning darkness, sighted them rowing about in the flare of the burning Marie Amable and took the five seamen aboard.

RELIGIOUS SERVICES

CENTRAL CHRISTIAN CHURCH

The services at the Central Christian Church yesterday were conducted by the pastor, Rev. S.C. Cooper, Th.M.

Mr. Cooper selected for his sermon at the morning service the subject Paul and the Romans, taking as his text Romans 1:14. He said in part, Paul felt a special obligation as he had received a Divine call but was stating a principle which is true of our stewardship. Roman public life was founded upon Law, Law, to a state, to the Emperor. The Christian obligation is to a higher law which is Christ's.

At the evening service Mr. Cooper preached on the subject, "The young man who missed the highest," taking as his text Matthew 19:22. Some have said that this young man referred to was Saul of Tarsus, but others think this story is a picture of a true soul's tragedy. He was a gifted young man with great attainments and capacities. He heard of Jesus, the new Rabbi, and thought he would come with his problems to the new teacher, expecting some new teachings such as Hillel's negative form of the Golden Rule. Jesus faced him with his one sin. He held on to his riches and lost the Christ.

Mr. Cooper in his forceful and appealing way appealed to his audience to make sure their sins did not make them lose the Christ and everlasting life.

The music for the day was a choir number, Mr. V. L. Dingwell taking the solo part; and a solo, "Nearer Still Nearer" sung by V.L. Dingwell. At the evening service the choir sang the anthem "Sun of My Soul" by Turner.

TRINITY UNITED CHURCH

Large congregations were present at both services to greet the guest preacher, the Rev. J. H. Free tone of Brunswick Street United Church, Halifax and to commemorate the seventy-second anniversary of the Church. Mr. Freestone is serving his ninth year in his present charge, where his ministry is noted especially in social service and practical application of the gospel.

The morning service was based on the parable of the Vine. The main divisions were: First, the beauty of the story, secondly, the significance of last words as Jesus related the parable a few hours before He was betrayed, thirdly, the richness and teaching of the symbolism. Jesus' use of symbolism was illustrated in the reference of Jesus' claims "I am the water of life," "I am the light of the world," and "I am the life," from the use of symbolism in the services of the synagogue. Finally the richness and meaning of symbolism of the Vine, teaching the necessary relation of Christ and the believer, necessitating discipline and chastening that our lives may be rich in the fruits of the spirit.

The theme of the evening service was Christian Growth. The greatest gift God has given to mankind is not the gift of life, or of the freewill marvellous as these are. There is a greater yet, the gift of freedom to grow. Look where you will everything moves in its orbit only to start again, but man moves in the highest part of his being not in an orbit but straight on.

It is growth in and not towards an ideal. For example, one gains in wisdom. The great thing to remember is that there is a growing edge to the soul. A man grows not at the bottom but at the top, the growing edge. So with character. The growing edge is the spot of testing—the spot where we feel the strain, the place of temptation.

The third thing in the growth of the soul is to recognize its goal and be content to be satisfied that this is the goal. The goal of all growth in the human sphere is into the stature of the man, Christ Jesus.

Not a little of the enrichment of the service was due to the choir and director. The special numbers were the anthems: "O Come To My Heart", in which Mr. Harvey McPherson took the solo part, "Lord of All Being", Mr. Roy Smallman, soloist and "Jerusalem

My Glorious Home", the anthem sung at dedication service seventy-two years ago. The organ selection included: "Morning Song" Gillette, "Idyl", Cobey, "Sketch in F. M.", Schumann, "Evening Bells and Cradle Song", Macfarlane, "In Waning Light", Pallett and "March on a theme of Handel", Gullmant. The evening solo "In The Night Shall My Song Be of Him", was sung by Miss Margaret Sterns. Mr. Freestone was the guest of Mrs. A. McNair, 265 Richmond Street.

ST. PAUL'S ANGLICAN CHURCH

At St. Paul's services yesterday morning, the Rector took a "Scout Apple" as a text for his message to the children, commending the Scout and Girl Guide movement. He said their purpose is to make boys and girls better boys and girls. Pointing to the beautiful apple, he told them that they too would attain beauty because of their effort. "Handsome is as handsome does". The apple, he said, had required a combination of many things to make it the perfect fruit it had become. Two of these, "Grafting" and "Spraying" were cited as treatments required for the attaining of character in life—grafting the cutting out of the imperfect and the bad, and replacing it with good. And spraying representing the continual application of such good influences as prayer and Bible and Christian environment.

Addressing the adult congregation, he drew from the Gospel parable a series of incidents each representing individuals seeking Jesus. What was it, the preacher asked, that they were seeking? Analysing the several incidents—John's disciples following Jesus, the night time visit of Nicodemus, the Greek visitors from Asia, &c., he said that peace was their quest. Augustine cried, "O God Thou hast made us for Thyself, and our heart is restless until it rests in Thee." Peace is defined as a condition of agreement between parties, and stressed the necessity of peace in the world. Peace with God—represents an agreement between God and man. God gives and man gives. God gives salvation, freedom, power; and man gives himself without reserve that he might find peace with God.

Every Christian congregation contains people who have found peace, people who are looking for peace, and people who are indifferent to peace. With three "Glads" he welcomed them all; if you have found peace, you are glad you came. If you are seeking peace, we are glad you came, because the Christian message tells you how to find it. If you are indifferent, "we are glad you came," because we want to tell you that Christ is seeking you—and will keep on seeking until He finds. The speaker went on to emphasize the gladness of that peace, the last Will and Testament of Christ to the world, the companion of joy in the letters of St. Paul, and the cause of our assurance. As the Psalmist said, "I will lay me down and take my rest, for it is Thou Lord that makest me dwell in safety."

At the evening service the Rev. Mr. Gillespie spoke on the "Call of Isaiah, taking as his text:—Isaiah 6th Chapter, verse 8. "I heard the voice of the Lord, saying, Whom shall I send, and who will go for us? The said I, "Here am I; send me." The Prophet, he said, were men raised up by God in a time of apostasy in Israel. Isaiah's connection with the Royal House, and his aristocratic birth gave him great prestige among the people. At the death of Uzziah, Isaiah felt the call of God. As he worshipped in the temple, he had a transforming vision, which impelled him to take a fresh stand for God.

There were several outstanding steps in Isaiah's call. First, he felt his utter depravity, and God's holiness. Second, on seeing God's holiness, he repented of his sins, and turned in true faith to God. Third, the cleansing came through the live coal being taken from the Altar by the angel and placed on Isaiah's lips, and the angel's assurance to him that his iniquity was taken away. Then came God's challenge to Isaiah to go forth and tell the people of their iniquity, and lead them back to God. The speaker showed how God was calling to us as individuals, and as a church, to take a fresh stand on the side of Christ, to go forth and tell others of the Christ who died ish Government to Germany's denunciation of the waterways clauses of the Versailles Treaty, informed sources said tonight.

This declaration may be made by Foreign Secretary Eden during question-hour in the House.

It was still uncertain whether London would make representations to Berlin, but political circles here saw no great significance in the long-anticipated gesture from Berlin.

Paris View

PARIS, Nov. 15—(AP)—The beginning of a German campaign against Russia and Eastern Europe was seen by French officials today as one possible development of Germany's renunciation of the Versailles peace treaty navigation clauses.

(Germany yesterday announced resumption of sovereignty over her internal waterways, including the strategic Kiel Canal, heretofore administered by international commissions authorized by the Versailles pact).

Officials here pointed out that Germany now was in a position to cut off Czechoslovakia from the sea and smother her commerce if she wished.

"Germany can make Czechoslovakia choose between her world of commerce and her alliances, especially with Russia," one official said.

"She can demand that Czechoslovakia take a benevolent attitude in the event of a possible Russo-German war, or cut her off from world markets."

One official said it "is hard to see how energetic protest can be made after violation of military clauses of the treaty were allowed to go unpunished."

(France protested vigorously to the League of Nations when Germany marched troops into the Rhineland early this year).

Premier Blum's Government awaited replies today from interested governments in his move for a collective protest to Berlin. A final decision would await their answers, it was said here.

(Resumption of control of the Kiel Canal gives Germany control of the waterway linking the North and Baltic Seas. Authoritative Berlin sources yesterday said Czechoslovakia's rights to free ports at Hamburg and Stettin, a 99-year grant under the Versailles Treaty, would not be affected.

Demand for territorial changes, also covered by the Versailles pact, was seen as the next step by one French authority, who said: "Everything else now is swept away. The next time Hitler wishes to give his country a stimulant to its pride he will have to go to war."

Conversations will be started with Britain with a view to preparing a protest to Germany against the present renunciation, officials said.

Amnesia Victim Was All Three Persons

GRIMSBY, Ont., Nov. 15—(CP)—Grimsby's amnesia victim is all three persons he was thought to be. He is Fred Peacock, Windsor, John Jeffrey, Port Stanley, and George Knight, Smith's Falls. He is believed to have suffered a head injury which caused loss of memory but is suffering from a broken nose. Physicians suggest an operation might restore his memory.

Identification was positively established by officials of the Barnardo Home, Toronto, who say his correct name is Knight. He left the Home in 1931. He told Grimsby police early last week that he had lost his memory and has since been in hospital.

After leaving the Home Knight worked for a man named Jeffrey in Smith's Falls, at Windsor he purchased a car using the name Fred Peacock. At Port Stanley he worked for Fred Jones, garageman, under the name John Jeffrey.

to save them from their sins. God wants us to take our stand on the side of Christ, then He will grant us His peace and power, and commission us to go forth and tell what great things He hath done for you.

Death Of Pair

VANCOUVER, Nov. 15—(CP)—An investigation has been opened into the death of Major John C. Hartley, who with Commander Edward M. Geake, his partner on a mining expedition, was murdered in Mexico by bandits, it was announced tonight by W.E. Williams, Hartley's solicitor here.

Williams said the British Consular Service was also to be asked to investigate the circumstances of the sightless Major's death, believed to have occurred in the desert country of the State of Durango.

ectly for government troop concentration in University City in the northwest section of Madrid.

The bombers spread their cargo over the whole northwestern section, including Arguelles and Vallehermosa districts.

Six bombers returned in the afternoon and killed and injured many in bombardment of Cuatro Caminos suburb. Most of the projectiles fell near the evacuated British-American nursing home.

Seven were killed and 100 injured in the morning raid. The number of dead in the later attack was not determined immediately.

An official bulletin said Government pilots in swift retaliation destroyed 20 insurgent planes.

The Fascist airdromes at Avilla, Toledo, Torreses and Navalmaral were bombed heavily, the Air Ministry announced, and many planes burned.

The Military Governor, General Jose Miaja, said his forces were consolidating their positions preparatory to launching a "big push" against the besiegers.

A War Ministry announcement said an insurgent attack at Frenchmen's Bridge near the El-lago Natatorium on the highway to Corunna had been halted, and three enemy tanks captured.

The reported capture of a quantity of gas masks and munitions in fighting at Casa De Campo led the Government to believe the enemy might resort to the use of gas.

Claim Success

SALAMANCA, Spain, Nov. 16—(Monday)—TCP-Havas—Insurgent troops have occupied University City, the Parque Del Oeste and the Paseo de Rosales in the northwest sector of Madrid and are advancing into the heart of the capital, a communique issued by insurgent headquarters early today claimed.

The communique, signed by General Francisco Franco, announced three of General Varela's columns crossed the Manzanares river routing forces defending the western section of the capital.

"We have broken the most desperate resistance of the enemy," General Franco asserted.

Government forces blew up three bridges to prevent the advance of the Insurgents into the city by way of the open "western" gardens between the Royal Palace and the North-Station.

The Insurgent troops continued to advance, the communique said, occupying Government fortifications, capturing tanks and dispersing Government outposts with hand grenades.

Wedding Will Unite Two Noted Families

WILMINGTON, Del., Nov. 15—(AP)—A romance between Miss Ethel Dupont and Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., fourth son of the United States President, which began three years ago when they were students in New England schools, will be climaxed with their marriage in June.

Mr. and Mrs. Dupont announced their daughter's engagement.

Miss Dupont is the eldest of their four children. Dupont is a member of the board of E. I. Dupont de Nemours and Company.

The announcement that marriage would unite two families decidedly at odds in activities leading up to the recent national election, created a flurry of excitement in social Washington.
