Little Change In King's Condition

Heart Weakness Persists But General Strength is Maintained—Rise in Temperature Not Considered Serious.

(Canadian Press)
LONDON, Dec. 5.—The condition of the King tonight was not very reassuring. His physicians in the usual evening bulletin said that his temperature had risen in the last 24 hours, indicating increased activity of the lung infection. The uneven nature of the fight which His Majesty is waging against the disease was shown by the two official reports issued today. Two factors however, stand out as important. The King has been able to get good periods of sleep and it was announced in an otherwise less favorable bulletin this evening, that his strength is maintained. On the other hand his temperature has risen to a point higher than yesterday's which was 100.2, indicating as the bulletin phrased it that "the recrudescence of the infection is still active."

It becomes daily more evident that the process of recovery will be slow and the anxiety of the royal physicians was again demonstrated tonight by the fact that the bulletin was signed by four of them. Lord Dawson of Penn, and Sir Stanley Hewett spent considerable time at Buckingham Palace both in the morning and afternoon and this evening they were joined by Sir E. Paget-Bowyer and Sir Humphrey Rolleston.

LATER
It was later explained at the palace that the phrase used in the bulletin to describe the rise in temperature "a point higher" was not intended to mean a rise of one degree or even one tenth of a degree, but only that a slight heightening of the fever had occurred. It was said that relatively that the King had had a good day with plenty of rest and certainly was not worse than he was last night. His heart is still the chief concern of the physicians and importance was attached to the statement in the bulletin that his general strength was maintained. The four physicians remained in consultation for about two hours and again reviewed the entire case. Sir Stanley Hewett will sleep at the Palace tonight as he has the past few nights in order to be at hand should any emergency arise.

Making Progress

LONDON, Dec. 5.—The King apparently was making favorable progress in his illness today. Lord Dawson of Penn, his physician, visited him this afternoon but apparently was satisfied with his condition and did not issue an afternoon bulletin. It was said on good authority that His Majesty's condition was unchanged since morning, when the official bulletin announced that the royal patient had passed a fair night and that "a recrudescence of the infection which caused the late rise in temperature is being moderated."

Another favorable sign that no immediate crisis in the King's illness was feared was seen when the Queen and Princess Mary left Buckingham Palace for an automobile ride at 3 p. m. The latest bulletin on King George's condition was interpreted as satisfactory today by the medical expert of the Evening News. Noting that it failed to mention the King's temperature or the condition of his heart, the writer said: "I regard omissions from the bulletins as

May Purchase Govt. Planes

(Canadian Press)
HALIFAX, Dec. 5.—It was announced today that an aerial navigation company, the Maritime Airways, Ltd., had been incorporated with the backing of a group of Halifax men who, if present plans materialize, may secure the five Fokker planes recently brought back from government exploration work in Hudson Bay and now stored here. The service would link this city with the aerial transportation system of Upper Canada and the United States. The new company, it was said, is now asking the city to provide a landing field on a rental basis, taking over the field at the end of ten years.

ARCHBISHOP OF CANTERBURY ENTHRONED

Elaborate Ceremony in Canterbury Cathedral at the Induction of Rev. Cosmo Gordon Lang.

(Special to The Guardian)
LONDON, Dec. 5.—High Commissioner P. C. Larkin and Sir Arthur Currie were among the congregation in Canterbury Cathedral today when Archbishop Cosmo Gordon Lang was enthroned in the marble chair of St. Augustine. The elaborate ceremonial is becoming popular again and even in medieval days there would not have been more pomp and color than masked the old cathedral town today. The bells pealed merrily all morning and before the ceremony started the streets were full of men in scarlet tunics and silk stockings. All the civic dignitaries wore uniforms or full dress and there was a dazzling variety of costume. Care was taken to have all classes represented in the congregation. There were workmen, artists, poets, musicians, university professors, officers of army, navy and air forces, cabinet ministers, nurses, clergy and prelates of the Church of England and representatives of other religious denominations. There are two thrones, one being the ordinary episcopal throne in the choir. It was here that the new archbishop was installed by the arch-deacon and where he took the oath of office. His grace then came to the second and greater throne, the marble chair of St. Augustine, which stood on a dais in the middle of the nave in full view of the whole congregation. This enthronement was performed by the Dean of Canterbury and all the Bishops grouped around chanted, "Praise be to thee, O Christ."

equally important with what is actually said."
LONDON, Dec. 5.—A high official court who was present when the council of state constituted yesterday, told the Canadian Press today he was most agreeably surprised with the apparent change in His Majesty's condition since he saw him several days earlier. His Majesty evinced keen interest in the proceedings, his voice being clear and even strong. He signed the commission appointing the council of state with quite a firm hand.
TORONTO, Dec. 5.—Although official bulletins on the King's condition today gave few details, a cable to the Chicago Daily News stated that His Majesty's condition "is considered extremely critical."
"The King is weakening hourly," it added. "From now on human science can do for him very little outside of prolonging the battle against death."

Gloomy Forecast

(Special to The Guardian)
GENEVA, Dec. 5.—With reduction of armaments a live issue challenging attention in both hemispheres, international interest was focused today on a new effort to reach an agreement concerning the control of manufacture of arms and material of war. Gloomy predictions were heard, however, when a special commission began its session at the League of Nations under the presidency of Count Von Bernstorff of Germany. In previous meetings this commission has had unhappy experiences in efforts to reach an understanding. Count Von Bernstorff was optimistic today but many of the delegates were of the opinion that the conference would last only two or three days and that it would be necessary to inform the league council that further sessions of the commission would be necessary.

WILD EFFORTS TO SAVE FACE OF GOVERNMENT

Success of N. B. Potato Exhibit at Royal Winter Fair Drives Patriot Into Frenzied Misrepresentations.

"It appears that the wonderful potato exhibit which our morning contemporaries has lauded so highly and has written several editorials upon, condemning our own Government, now turns out to be a myth. There was no potato exhibit made by New Brunswick at the Royal Winter Fair and so another of The Guardian's bubbles has been burst."
—The Patriot, in leading editorial, Dec. 5th.

Since the Toronto Exhibition leading newspapers throughout Canada have commented favorably on the splendid exhibit of New Brunswick potatoes at the Royal Winter Fair and the beneficial publicity given to that Province through the initiative of the New Brunswick Government. Among others an excellent 3-column photograph of the New Brunswick potato exhibit is reproduced in the Family Herald and Weekly Star on page 3 of its issue of Dec. 5th, showing the inscription over the booth, which reads: "Exhibited by New Brunswick Department of Agriculture."

The Guardian in commending the New Brunswick Government for its action in thus helping to relieve the potato situation, expressed regret that the Government of our own Province had missed such a golden opportunity. Various excuses and misrepresentations of the facts and of The Guardian's attitude have appeared on behalf of the Government, culminating in the above quoted flat denial that there was any exhibition of New Brunswick potatoes at the Winter Fair. For the benefit of any who may be unacquainted with the facts, The Guardian last night sent the following telegram to Mr. J. D. Black, Government Publicity Agent, Fredericton, N. B.:

"Did New Brunswick have a potato exhibit at Toronto Winter Fair? If so wire collect how it succeeded."

The following reply was received and speaks for itself:

Replying to your enquiry, Yes, New Brunswick had a potato exhibit at Royal Winter Fair, Toronto, which, according to public statements by Minister of Agriculture and others, attracted much favorable attention and congratulatory comment. Regarded as an effective means of providing the marketing of New Brunswick potatoes in the Central districts. (Sgd.) J. D. Black.
Comment is unnecessary, but it may be pertinent to ask whose "bubble" has been "burst" or where the "myth" comes in. In the circumstances, well may the Government pray: "Saves us from our friends!"

ARRIVES AT ADEN

LONDON, Dec. 5.—A despatch to the Evening Standard from Aden, Arabia, said that the Prince of Wales arrived there at noon today aboard the Cruiser Enterprise. He appeared to be in excellent health and was much suaver. He stood on the bridge as the cruiser was entering port, attired in shorts and a shirt of which the sleeves were rolled up. He wore a khaki helmet.

Old Santa Gains Army Of Aides in Santa Pals

Once again the Christmas season finds Santa Claus with more work than he can attend to, personally. So, rather than allow a child to be missed, the Charlottetown Guardian is organizing all of Santa's Pals to help the good work along. Already The Guardian has the names of many youngsters who are not on San

HAPPY ANTICIPATION

This little tot, pictured above is only one of the many hundreds eagerly looking forward to the coming of Santa Claus and all the good things he brings with him. See the expression of happy anticipation on the wistful little face, as if were picturing old Santa with his reindeer joyously speeding over the land bringing happiness and content to her little heart and the hearts of others. This child will need a Santa Pal this Christmas as will also those noted in the list published elsewhere on this page. Last year the response was wonderful, and this year an even greater number of Santa Pals is anticipated.

APPOINTMENT OF FOURTH JUDGE URGED

Hon. Ernest Lapointe Promises Careful Consideration of Delegation's Request.

(Canadian Press)
OTTAWA, Dec. 5.—Careful consideration of representations for the appointment of a fourth judge on the Supreme Court bench of Prince Edward Island, was promised by Hon. Ernest Lapointe, minister of justice this morning. The declaration of the minister of justice was made at the conclusion of the hearing of a deputation from Prince Edward Island, headed by Premier A. C. Saunders and Senator Creelman MacArthur, Summerside. Appointment of an additional member of the judiciary for the supreme court of Prince Edward Island, the delegation told Mr. Lapointe, was essential in the administration of justice for that province. With three judges only on the bench, the Maritime representatives proceeded, an appeal to the appellate division of the supreme court of Prince Edward Island could only be heard by two members of the judiciary by reason of the fact that the judge who had presided as trial judge in the first instance was disqualified from sitting on the appeal. If the two judges hearing the appeal were at variance in their legal opinion on the case, the deputation pointed out, the consequence was a tie decision on the appeal. This condition, the Maritime delegates continued, could be rectified by the appointment of a fourth judge, so as to permit three members of the bench to hear all appeals to the appellate division of the supreme court of Prince Edward Island and would bring about majority decision on all appeals. Legislation for the appointment of an additional member of the supreme court bench, the deputation proceeded, had already been passed by the Prince Edward Island legislature. Further action necessary by way of appointing a fourth judge by the federal government, with provision by the Dominion Parliament for the payment of salary, the Prince Edward Island delegates urged, should be taken with the least possible delay. The deputation will depart on their return trip to Prince Edward Island. Other members of the delegation include: Hon. J. E. Sinclair, M.P. A. E. C. Pyke, who represented the Maritime Association, the warmest appreciation of the people of this Province who have viewed with interest and gratitude the sincere effort which is being made by natives of the Maritimes, now living in Ontario, to improve and extend the volume of trade between Central America and the Provinces by the Sea. Prof. McPhee and his three companions, R. W. E. Burnaby, A. C. Pyke, Secretary of the Canadian Wholesale Grocers Association and E. M. Saunders will meet with the three Maritime Premiers and indus

Suitable Vessel Will Be Provided

(Special to The Guardian)
OTTAWA, Dec. 5.—Members of the P. E. I. delegation met this morning with rather satisfactory results so far as outlook for the great problem of the Canadian National Railways was concerned. Representatives of the delegation are asking for a larger ferry steamer, one of wider beam, not able to grapple with the ice problem, and in a word to more efficiently meet the growing requirements of the Island. The difficulty in the way of satisfying the requirement is that the dock accommodation will not permit of larger vessels docking and further dredging would undermine the present structure. The engineers of the department had the matter under consideration for some time with a view to definite plans being made for a new steamer, but without any definite plan being arrived at. The great problem is to prepare plans that will meet the requirements without the necessity of enlarging the wharf. If this be not

EXTENDING TRADE WITH ONTARIO

Appointment of Trade Commissioner for the Maritimes is Forecast.

HALIFAX, Nov. 5.—The appointment of a Trade Commissioner for the Maritime Provinces in Ontario was forecast in addresses delivered last night at the complimentary dinner at the Lord Nelson Hotel, given by The Halifax Herald in honor of guests representing the Maritime Provinces Association of Toronto. The dinner was attended by two hundred citizens who conveyed to Professor E. D. McPhee, E. M. Saunders, R. W. E. Burnaby and A. C. Pyke, who represented the Maritime Association, the warmest appreciation of the people of this Province who have viewed with interest and gratitude the sincere effort which is being made by natives of the Maritimes, now living in Ontario, to improve and extend the volume of trade between Central America and the Provinces by the Sea.
