Gain Of At Least Ten Constituencies With Other Gains In Central, Northern And Eastern Ontario Predicted As Result Of Government's Ruinous Tariff Policy.

LONDON, Ont., July 2.—It is in the western Ontario peninsula where the political fight is being most strenuously waged. As the result these twenty-six constituencies will decide the political control of the Dominion. Western Ontario is traditionally Liberal while Central Eastern and Northern Ontario are traditionally Conservative. In 1911 for the first time the Conservatives swept Western Ontario again in 1917 and in 1925. But in 1928 many constituencies reverted to their old Liberal allegiance and materially reduced the Ontario Conservative representation. The present sentiment in the western peninsula indicates another Conservative sweep and it is stated by liberal observers there is not a safe Liberal constituency among the twenty-six in this part of Ontario.

In the last parliament these constituencies were represented as follows:
Conservative: Essex south, Essex west, Huron North, London, Middlesex, East Haldimand, Brant, Brantford, Waterloo south.
Liberal: Essex east, Lambton west, Huron South, Bruce South, Bruce North, Kent, Norfolk, Elgin, Elgin west, Oxford South, Oxford north, Middlesex, west, Perth North, Perth south, Grey north, Waterloo north—15.
Progressive: Lambton east, Grey north—East 2.

PILOT HAS NARROW ESCAPE FROM DEATH

Noted Antarctic Flyer Jumps From Burning Plane And Swims Ashore.

(Canadian Press)
WINNIPEG, July 3.—Al Cheesemen noted Antarctic pilot escaped death by a narrow margin when his burning plane crashed in a lake near Millidge in northwest Ontario, according to word reaching here today. Reports indicated that Cheesemen, while flying from Sioux Lookout, Ont., to the Pas in northern Manitoba, was forced to land when his machine took fire suddenly. He was uninjured.
Noted as a north country flier, Cheesemen broke into new prominence last year when he was selected as a pilot for Sir Hubert Wilkins, Antarctic exploration flight. He is now a pilot for Northern Aerial Minerals Exploration Company, Millidge, where the crash occurred in forty miles west of Sioux Lookout on the

Small Want Ad Too Efficient

NEW YORK, July 3.—Five hundred girls might be nice to think about—in the abstract.
But when they showed up today in answer to a want ad in which Dr. Reuben H. Moss, dentist, let it be known that he could use an office assistant, "no experience necessary," other tenants, unable to get through the halls to their own offices, called for help.
The superintendent had to do something, so he got a garden hose, started sprinkling the halls, and 475 pairs of pumps went away from there.
From among the 25 stayers Dr. Moss had not yet picked his assistant at closing time.

Canadian National Railways. Meagre details of the accident indicate that the pilot nosed down to the lake surface in his pontoon equipped machine, when it broke into flames from some unexpected cause. He leaped from the flaming craft and swam to shore while the plane was a wreck with the exception of its engine and pontoons.

Electors Applaud Policy Definite And Substantial

Webster's Corner Meeting Enthusiastically Indorses Conservative Candidates—New Zealand Butter Issue, And Other Phases of Tariff Affecting Agricultural Interests Emphasized By Messrs McLure And Myers.

The Conservative Cyclone reached Webster's Corner last night, where at a joint political meeting which packed the hall to capacity Messrs McLure and Myers were accorded a rousing and enthusiastic reception. Prolonged applause greeted their utterances, particularly when they dealt with the pressing subjects of New Zealand butter importations, old age pensions and federal aid to highways and agriculture, which is specifically provided for in the Conservative platform. Indeed, the outstanding feature of the meeting was the manner in which the Conservative speakers were able to demonstrate that they had a platform and a policy which was definite and substantial. On this subject their opponents had nothing to offer, beyond the vague assurance that they were prepared at any time and on any issues to change with the times.

The meeting was orderly throughout. Mr. J. J. McCarthy capably presiding.
A regrettable feature was the indisposition of Mr. R. H. Jenkins, the opening speaker, which prevented him from finishing his address. Mr. Jenkins spoke for about twenty minutes when he found it necessary to retire. The fresh air outside revived him, and it is hoped that he will be in his usual good health for this evening's meeting.

A DEFINITE POLICY

Mr. McLure held the rapt attention of his hearers from the moment he began his speech.
"We come before you on a definite policy, laid down by our leader and the Conservative party," he announced in his opening remarks.
"Our opponents have not yet defined their policy although they told us they had a program. We have a definite trade policy, namely to protect the agricultural and industrial activities of the country."
Failure of the King Government to fund the debt of Canada which would have enabled us to pay off the war debt in fifty years, was scored by Mr. McLure in a searching review of the whole question of post-war taxation increase, amounting to $188,000,000, and subsequent debt reduction.
With the fallacious Liberal argument that New Zealand butter found entry into Canada because we were not producing enough for our market demands, Mr. McLure dealt fully and convincingly. He showed that the present time butter quotations in central United States, marks are four cents a pound higher than in Canada. If tariff protection was detrimental to agricultural prices, how could the Liberal candidates explain this situation? (Applause.)

Old Age Pensions

The history of the passage through Parliament of the Old Age Pensions Act of 1927, the unfairness of this legislation to such a province as Prince Edward Island and the policy of the Conservative party whereby the federal Government assumes the full cost of these pensions, were reviewed concisely but clearly.

With regard to soldiers' pensions Mr. McLure asked: Why did not the King Government take into consideration the remedial legislation asked for by Hon. R. B. Bennett in the Session of 1927? In face of the fact that this legislation was indorsed by war veterans including Sir Arthur Currie, the Liberal members voted against it.

Under this remedial legislation proposed by Mr. Bennett the soldier would be given the benefit of the doubt even if he had been discharged as physically fit and later applied for pension by reason of war disability. Mr. McLure explained.
"If you look over the record of Mr. Bennett's proposal I think you will find that the Conservative policy is one that will do justice to war veterans and their dependants." (Applause.)

The Better Way

"Would it not be better to formulate a trade policy to hold Canadians in Canada, rather than spend millions of dollars in immigration schemes. If that money had been loaned to our own young men at a low rate of interest wouldn't it be a much better method of building up Canada?" he asked, and was again answered by enthusiastic applause.

The consequence to Canadian sheep breeders of the entry practically duty free of spun wool was emphasized. Wool today is hardly saleable even at 8 to 10 cts. a pound. "We charge the Government with being lax in its duty with respect to this important industry, just as it has been lax with respect to the interests of the dairy industry," Mr. McLure declared. He referred also to the egg and poultry industry and the tariff disadvantages under which it has labored and concluded with a rousing appeal for a return of Hon. R. B. Bennett and the Conservative party.

THE FARMER'S VIEWPOINT

Scoring the Liberal candidates for the fact that they seemed to be ashamed of the protective features in the Dunning Budget, Hon. J. H. Myers launched into his stride on the New Zealand butter issue and the agricultural situation generally.

"When it comes to buying and selling," he said, "are not we farmers after all—I am not making an apology, I am stating a fact—are we not the most helpless class of citizens in the country? We have to take whatever price we are offered for the stuff we sell and we have to pay what is asked for the stuff we buy."

Dr. Macmillan says I misquoted him last night at Pownal when I made the statement that he said we asked New Zealand to send in butter. I humbly apologize if I quoted him wrongly, but he did defend, as he defended tonight, the Australasian and New Zealand trade arrangement. Didn't they ask them to send it in? If lowering the duty from five cents to one cent is not inviting New Zealand to send butter in here then I will leave this platform. (Loud applause.)

"A few nights ago we were told that Canada had reached the point where we were not producing enough butter for our own consumption. We were told that in Charlottetown by no less a personage than Mr. MacKenzie King. He said there was a time when butter became so scarce that the children had to use gravy on their bread. I will venture the assertion that the children of Johnston's River, Fort Augustus, Webster's Corner and the surrounding country have always had as much butter on their bread as Mr. MacKenzie King." (Applause.)

The Great Betrayal

"When this treaty was extended to New Zealand in the year 1925 we were exporting 24,502,000 pounds of butter. That was the amount exported after Canada buttered her own bread. Now was there any need of allowing all this New Zealand butter to come in? We were getting along very well. It is true that the consumption of butter was increasing, but we had twenty-four million pounds of it to fall back on, and we had something else. We had the dairy farmers of Canada to fall back on.

Five Cent Piece Prem. Scored By Hon. Mr. Bennett

(Canadian Press)
HALIFAX, N. S., July 3.—(By Thomas Green, Canadian Press Staff Correspondent.) Charging that the King Government had "played politics" and had failed to carry out the recommendations of the Duncan Report as made on Maritime Rights, Hon. R. B. Bennett, addressed a massed rally in the Forum here tonight. "Why," he demanded, "has the Government at Ottawa not carried out the recommendations of the Duncan Commission as made?" Because Mr. King did not want to carry out the recommendations as made. Because you have a Conservative Government in Nova Scotia. Because you have a five cent piece Prime Minister, who wants to play politics. "Mr. Bennett went on. "Although the judgement of the Duncan Commission was made in June 1926 no effort was made by the Government to deal with two of the most important items, iron and steel. The report recommended immediate action, but only in 1930 on the eve of an election is any effort made in the matter by this Government at Ottawa. I cannot tell you what the result will be, because there has not been sufficient time. But this I do know. I said in my place in Parliament to the Minister from this Province, Hon. J. L. Ralston, why have you not seen that this judgement is put into effect? Where was the Minister from New Brunswick, Hon. Peter Veniot, to see that this report was implemented." Again he went on, the Duncan Report is not based upon a sectional grievance. It is based upon a recognition of the justice of compensatory adjustment being made to the Maritimes by reason of uniform benefits not accruing to every part of the country. It was recognized as a matter of justice. The commission, Mr. Bennett stated, had only been established as a consequence of the constant persistence of Maritime Conservatives, backed by fellow members of this party. But, he continued, even after appointment of the commission, no effort was made by any Liberal public man to present the facts for the Maritime Provinces. This task, the leader continued, was performed by the Conservative Nova Scotia and New Brunswick Administrations. When the report was presented to Parliament, the Opposition chieftain exclaimed, every Conservative, Liberal, N. F. A., Progressive and Independent member voted for it. Why, then were the recommendations of the Duncan Report, as made, not carried out. Addressing Liberals in the audience, Mr. Bennett put the question "do you think there would have been any action taken on Maritime claims had it not been for the Conservative members from this Province?" He recalled in those days that Maritime Conservative members had been jeered and scoffed at from the Liberal benches and a member of the

Gets 6 Months

(Canadian Press)
LONDON, July 3.—Mrs. Kate Meyrick, celebrated as London's "night club queen," whose two sons-in-law are peers, today was sentenced in Bow Street Court to six months imprisonment and fined heavily for selling intoxicants without a license. The term will be Mrs. Meyrick's third. Many fashionably gowned society women were in court when sentence was imposed.

The local Liberal organ is wroth at an alleged attempt to "misrepresent" the meaning of countervailing duties, contending that they cannot be used as a weapon by the United States to dump the surplus products of that country into Canada. Hon. J. H. Myers disposed of this argument last night when he quoted the following election manifesto of Mr. A. E. MacLean, Liberal candidate for Prince, which is being mailed to electors in that constituency:

"They (the Government) have put into effect now countervailing duties against the United States on agricultural products so that when that or any other country increases their duty against Canada, we immediately raise ours to the same level OR IF THEY ARE WILLING TO DECREASE THEIR DUTY AGAINST US, WE WILL REDUCE OURS TO THE SAME EXTENT."

If there is any "misrepresentation" in the above statement, the responsibility lies upon Mr. MacLean. But does our contemporary profess to know more about the Dunning budget than its party candidate who represented Prince County in the last three Parliaments?

The Patriot's Volte Face

In a frantic endeavor to "get from under" its own statement that the cost of Old Age Pensions to the Government of this Province would be at least $300,000 a year—a statement which is being quoted by the Conservative candidates to show that Hon. R. B. Bennett's policy in this respect alone would benefit Prince Edward Island to that extent—the local Liberal organ swallows its own figures and comes out with a brand new calculation based on alleged "further investigation." As the Saunders-Lea Government never made any attempt to investigate the cost of old age pensions in this Province, the insincerity of the Patriot's attitude must be obvious to all. When its purpose was to defend the provincial
