SUPERIOR SPEED, CONDITION AND COMBINATION WON TITLE

Canadiens Smothered World Champions—Play Was Rough But Not Dirty and Canuck Defence Was Not Penalized — Ottawa Fans Good Sports.

By REDVERS MACKENZIE

Gloom and darkness have been dispelled, the spell has been broken. Leo Dandurand led his Canadiens into Ottawa last night, the home of the mighty Senators, champions of the world and before a tremendous crowd of twelve thousand his warriors tore big holes in the ranks of the enemy and when the smoke of battle had lifted the players from the metropolis had four big round goals to their credit while the best of the defending forces could do was to collect a pair. Added to the one goal lead that they had established in Montreal in the first of the play-off games, Canadiens won the championship of the National Hockey League and the right to play for the Stanley Cup by a margin of three goals. The series (total being—Canadiens, 5; Ottawa, 2.

When the times watches had tolled out the entire sixty minutes of playing time, a large majority of the great crowd present jumped to their feet and gave Canadiens a great ovation. It was a great tribute to a great team and even the most rabid Ottawa supporters could be heard saying "Wall the better team won tonight."

We have been watching Canadiens all year. They have had their good and bad nights, but the display they gave in the Ottawa Auditorium last night was nothing short of marvellous and unlike anything we have ever seen dished up by any team. Add tremendous speed and ferocious back-checking to machine-like teamwork plus hockey brains and you have it. Canadiens were unbeatable last night and it is not to the discredit of the Senators that they were forced to bow in defeat. And that Ottawa team was glorious in defeat. Facing a deficit of three goals on the round going into the last period, they stuck to their guns and played the game even though they could see the words "World's Champions" disappearing from their sweaters.

There is little doubt that it was the greatest hockey match ever played in Canada. The terrific speed, the severe checking, the

WON MUCH MONEY ON CANADIENS

Montrealers Bet Lively and Had Lots of Ready Takers to Cover.

MONTREAL, March 14.—There was all kinds of Ottawa money at the auditorium and although there were many of those among the fans who feared that they had a slim chance, there were plenty of takers. The result was that the Montreal gambling contingent—which apparently was considerably more than home happy while the citizens of the capital paid for the former's trip to the seat of Canada's Government.

Not only was there plenty of money bet by the supporters of the Montreal team to cover down town, but there were those who followed their odds at the auditorium, while the game was going on, and with the spirit of Montreal within them the fans from Canada's metropolis were ready to put up or shut up. As a result, ask any Montrealer who was at the game and at the same time had a few dollars to spare, how he came out. He will answer that he had his trip for nothing and "then some."

Following the game here, it was interesting to note the expression of the fan who had bet nothing and the fan who had bet nothing and put up. "What a fool you were to lead," one hard-boiled individual said to another.

"That's all right, but don't you think I was justified, was the answer, everybody thought a one-goal margin was nothing."

When the game was finished, there was naturally a derisive snort from the questioner. But the better was right. Very few could have predicted the result as it was.

It is understood that the Ottawa "Bookies" made a nice thing out of the affair. There are several of these individuals in the capital and naturally most of the money was on the Senators. The scalpers made their share too, although the auditorium people did all in their power to prevent speculation. Many of the customers at the auditorium paid ten dollars for their seat and there were many others who paid fifteen dollars for two.

Got It Straight

A camper purchased some eggs at a grocery store, and found one a little "off." Returning to the store, he told the grocer that the eggs were a little "ripe."

"How do you know?" asked the grocer.

"A little bird told me," replied the camper.

There's many a slip "twixt the cup and lip" and once again we are compelled to, but none the less pleased by way of correction to inform our Island hockey fans, that in the Crystal standing of goals scored, "for" and "against," etc., the Mount A.-Crystal game was inadvertently overlooked. As the western sextet won said fixture by a score of 11 to 2 and by virtue of this the standing takes on a decided change. For instance, instead of 29 goals scored in the aggregate, by adding the above 11 it makes the total read 40 "for," "against" 56 instead of 29 and 54 respectively. To be more explicit the full standing now says:—Cahill, 29; McQuarrie, 9; Silliphant, 5; Gauthier, 2; Morris, 2; Johnson, 1; Rogers, 1; Wright, 0; D. Cahill, 0;—THE TEAM STANDING—P.—13, L.—7, W.—5, D.—1, F.—40, A.—56, P. C.—386.

Sporting Comment

Alfred Goulet earns from $25,000 to $35,000 a year, according to report. This rather obscure bicycle rider whose name only appears at infrequent intervals on the sport page, and whose exploits are familiar only to the dwindling populace that follows the never ceasing round of the sixday anking circuit receives more money than Babe Ruth or any other figure in baseball. For those who rate athletes by their earning capacity and by their faculty of appearing in the public prints the news will come as a shock. Oscar Egg is also another who makes around twenty thousand a year pushing an iron steed around an oval. The team of "Goulash and Egg," as the bike maniacs call them, are certainly financial geniuses if they can drag out that sum for their little appreciated activities.

GREAT FIGURE PASSES.

When kindly Pat Moran passed away several days ago a clean and wholesome figure passed off the athletic stage and left the plaudits of the multitude for the stillness of the tomb. Moran, a great leader, was again on the verge of greatness. The sunlight fields of success again beckoned to the Miracle Man of the Reds whose tactical manoeuvring did so much to bring about the downfall of the White Sox in 1919. Moran, a veteran of baseball with his hair silvered in the service of the game that he loved and cherished, was a credit to baseball, one of the new era of managers who led by the courtesy of their manner, the example of their behavior and the thorough knowledge of men and strategy. Pat Moran will be missed in the game that he has adorned.

ADORN THE GAME.

Hockey, which is challenging the attention of the greater cities of the United States, and the interest of thousands of fans unthought of some years ago has been enriched by the presence of Frank Nighbor. In awarding the Hart Hockey Trophy, which is given to the most useful player in the league, the jury of newspaper writers showed a judgement reflective of the general opinion of fandom that Nighbor is the "stand out" player of the league.

CREDIT TO CLEGHORN.

Clean hockey pays. Example after example could be cited on the strong influence that the clean hockey player exerts not only over the game but also among those who follow it. Take the case of Sprague Cleghorn. His recent behavior on the ice has challenged the admiration of fandom and brought praise on him such as his skill and ice strategy merit. Cleghorn is a great hockey player, one of the best, but his reputation has been clouded by his too frequent use of the implements which are intended solely for the purpose of play. Game after game Cleghorn has gone through without a lapse. Because Ottawa fans are the fairest, and most reasonable on the circuit and because they know that Cleghorn can play hockey that thrills and entertains they will give him that fair and orderly reception which is such an outstanding characteristic of fans here as compared with other cities. In that first play-off game with Ottawa, when numerous other players were killing time in the penalty box, Cleghorn was out there doing his bit to the entire satisfaction of all the fans. And furthermore he gained the admiration of the vast throng present by the exhibition of self control which the fans thought he never had—Cleghorn the "bad man" and terror to all opponents, took his "bumps" and never once came back—he played the game, and to him goes no little credit for the Canadian triumph.

A DECIDED CHANGE.

According to the above Cahill now leads "Wackey" by one counter, while McQuarrie ties R. Prowse on the defence with nine. The Abegweits played 19 games and the Crystals 13, therefore the difference of 6 games gives McQuarrie a logical edge.

The P. W. C. Sextet with R. McDonald abutting for White their exhibition games will take place in ular goals, and playing under the name of "Creos" were blanketed last night by the Madisons in an exhibition game by a score of 2 to 0.

The fixture was won in the first period, when Welsh, two minutes after the opening whistle, trimmed McDonald for the first. Toward the end of the canto, Purcell scored the second and last counter on a splendid piece of stickhandling, after going the length of the surface.

The losers showed good hockey in the middle and last period, but Kelly who played a whale of a game in the six foot space for the Madisons, was a stonewall and their efforts were in vain.

It is to be hoped that no more exhibition games will take place in this league until the regular season is getting late now and every night game so get to it fellows as the fans no doubt would like to be in on the finish.
