Volunteer Blood Donors To Mobilize

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11—(AP)—The Red Cross is calling on volunteer donors to furnish blood plasma to Great Britain's war wounded was announced today by the American Red Cross.

The donors will be New York City residents and the project will be conducted in cooperation with the blood transfusion department of the American Red Cross. The Red Cross will mobilize the donors and ship the expected thousands of litres of solution to the British Red Cross.

Red Cross officials said that to date no requests have been received from Germany for blood plasma.

Recently the Red Cross perfected experimental plans for the possible organization of a national-wide corps of donors in the United States to make a supply available to the army medical corps in case of emergency.

The British Red Cross has informed the organization here that it can use 300 litres of plasma weekly.

The solution will be half blood plasma and half a saline solution. This allows the material to be kept indefinitely in sterile bottles, whereas whole blood is subject to deterioration.

The New York Association advised the Red Cross that the current price for blood plasma is $194 a litre.

Keep Minard's in the home.

International Law At Sea In Breakdown

By Gladwin Hill
Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Aug. 11—(AP)—The war, with its tangles of international boundaries and jurisdiction, has brought about a virtual breakdown of international maritime law.

"International law on the seas now, one shipping authority said today, is the man with the biggest shotgun."

The United States, a survey showed, probably is the only major nation still able to operate under the conventional standards which have governed the water-borne commerce of the world for centuries.

Here is a general summary of the variegated situations of the ships of the principal maritime countries:

Sweden—Operating as neutrals, subject to the customary seizure of contraband in the war zone.

Norway—Operating under both Norwegian and British flags under supervision of the British shipping ministry.

Denmark—Laid up in neutral ports to avoid seizure by Britain as technical enemies.

Netherlands—No information.

Italy—"Those operating are belligerents; those laid up in neutral ports to avoid seizure by the British navy are fugitives."

French—No information.

(Ships seized by Germany or under operation by the British ministry of shipping are not under consideration.)

Here are some typical points of confusion:

The Germans say the French line has been dissolved and its ships absorbed; in New York, the French line continues to operate "pending instructions" from its home office.

Since April the British authorities and the Danes have been arguing over whether Denmark's neutral status remains intact.

Explosion of a gasoline engine destroyed and a man badly burned when fire swept a Huntsville, Ont., posthouse owned by Arthur Blackburn. Damage caused by fire, estimated at approximately $10,000. Bill Blackburn, son of the proprietor, suffered severe burns when a gasoline engine exploded, catapulting him into big guns with small bags of flour as bombs.

In some cases, military officials judged the planes approached too closely to the ground forces and it was estimated 15 planes were "lost" to machine gun fire.

Man Seriously Injured In Shooting Accident

TORONTO, Aug. 11—(CP)—Constable John F. Turnbull, 46, of Orillia, Ont., is in critical condition in hospital here from a bullet wound in the abdomen received yesterday in a shooting accident at a revolver competition here.

Constable James McLaughlin, 33, of Windsor, Ont., is in serious condition after being wounded by the same bullet in the neck.

Police said today the bullet was fired by Corp. W. W. Skuce of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, Ottawa.

Officials said Skuce and McLaughlin were taking part in a service revolver competition and had just completed a volley standing near them in the line of 20 competitors was Turnbull with an automatic revolver with which he had been shooting at a "re-entry" target.

Turnbull is said to have ejected a hot shell from his automatic. The shell flew in the air and struck Skuce on the neck. According to police, Skuce was subjected to an involuntary reflex action by which the muscles of his right arm tightened and he pulled the trigger of his revolver.

Skuce is believed to have turned as he pulled the trigger and the bullet first struck McLaughlin in the back and glanced off his ribs to enter Turnbull's abdomen through the back.

Canadians Must Abandon Comforts, Leisure To Fight

OTTAWA, Aug. 11—(CP)—Canadians must abandon comforts, leisure and even freedom in order to forge a weapon to fight the Nazi system, Frederick Griffin, an correspondent of the Toronto Star Weekly, said tonight in an address broadcast over the national network of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation.

With Florence Reed, noted actress of New York, he spoke in the "Let's Face the Facts" series of talks, sponsored by the Bureau of Public Information.

Miss Reed told of her admiration for England and the spirit of the British people in the crisis of war. Recently, returned from Great Britain, Mr. Griffin said:

"No matter how the war goes, it can never again be the nice agreeable world we used to know. I suggest that the first fact we get to face is we hope to save any of the values and virtues we claim to prize."

Another fact to face was that "not 3,000 miles ocean any longer separates us in Canada from the Nazi-Fascist legions, but a mere 25 to 50 miles of English Channel, plus the British Navy, the Royal Air Force and the citizen army which Great Britain has formed and is forming."

Miss Reed described her "Nostalgia" for England, for a place she has never been, and the thrill of her first visit.

"The calm sureness of all the surface complacency, so characteristically English, yet deep under it all, the iron spine."

"Solid, confident, self-reliant, so that one feels sure there always was an England, there always must be an England, and there always will be an England."

"It is this that enthralls American hearts, not only to cheer you on, not only to pull for you—but to give and give and lend and send. Give and give and lend and send. Give and give and lend and send. Give and give and lend and send."

BRITISH AWAIT

LONDON—(CP)—Under the auspices of the Association of British Manufacturers, school children throughout Great Britain are being recruited to aid in the war effort by collecting herbs.

War supplies are steaming regularly and unimpeded through the Red Sea. British officials reported as the R.A.F. blasted the Italian troops advancing into Somalia and scouted the western desert for first signs of a trust expected against Egypt.

British naval officials described as an "absurdity" Italian claims that their forces had been cut off in North African waters, since they said the Italians have no warships in the Red Sea and the Gulf of Aden.

Furthermore, they declared half of the submarines Italy was known to have sent there have been destroyed since June 11, in addition to one captured by a British trawler and taken to Aden.

Zela, a gulf port which Italians occupied last week, was said to be good only for small sailing craft and it was pointed out the Italians long had superior bases in Eritrea, in the Red Sea north of British Somaliland, and that thus far they have shown no inclination to test British naval power.

Naval and military observers here said the Italian drive across Somaliland likely would hit a snag soon. The Royal Air Force is dogging every step of the invaders.

A successful British advance into Italian Ethiopia was reported. British headquarters at Nairobi, Kenya Colony, announced that their troops had occupied Kordindil, an Ethiopian village near the Kenya frontier, after "slight opposition" and without suffering casualties.

Four Wounded In Quebec Shooting

LACOLE, Que., Aug. 11—(CP)—Alcide Tremblay, 25, was in critical condition in hospital at St. Johns, Que., tonight, while three other residents of nearby Boucher Corners were reported improving after a shooting affray Saturday.

Police said Tremblay turned a shotgun on 16-year-old Angelina Boucher, her 10-year-old brother Georges, and her mother, Mrs. Georges Boucher, 40, before shooting himself with a revolver.

Tremblay was out on bail pending judgment in a court case in which he was charged with attempting to kidnap Miss Boucher. Judgment was to be handed down Thursday.

According to police, Tremblay fired through the open kitchen window of his house, across the road from that of the Bouchers.

Today's announcement said the accelerated return of refugees to their homes had been made possible by the reconstruction of 40 railway bridges.

Despite heavy damage inflicted on French ports, especially Cherbourg and Marseille, nearly 20 shipsyards were reported back at work rebuilding French merchant shipping.

Accounts of war damage in newspapers said Dunkerque, where the British forces made their historic retreat across the Channel, and neighboring Malo Les Bains were almost completely wiped out.

The lower part of Verdun on the right bank of the Meuse, the northern section of Tours and certain parts of Orleans, Saumur and Bois were destroyed as in the last war.

Marseille was severely damaged, especially in the port area, by Italian bombings.

badly damaged two churches, and one Sunday school. Forty children in the school were sprayed with glass, but there were no casualties.

Superintendent G. McKelvey said the youngsters sang hymns throughout the raid.

At Portland 30 to 40 bombs were dropped while other aircraft were bombed the harbor. Two navy vessels were damaged by splinters but no other ships were damaged, an Air Ministry bulletin said. Fires which broke out at an oil depot were quickly subdued.

People on the seafloor in a coast town saw a score of dive bombers attack a convoy. Soldiers roared overhead to engage the enemy.

Two Fishermen

and they entered the mouth of the harbor on the inside channel. The Jordan boat did not follow but left the group and steered a course by the outside channel. As they entered the mouth of Murray Harbour off Beach Point the boat capsized. A north east wind was blowing and the tide rising causing a tremendous undertow at the time. This was thought to be responsible for the accident.

When the boat overturned all three occupants were thrown into the water. The only survivor, Bobby Nelson, who was visiting his uncle, told the rescuers that he had seen the other two men but they were unable to see them until they were rescued about a half an hour later.

The overturned fishing boat with the boy clinging to it was sighted shortly after the accident by a Beach Point boy, Wilbur McNeill, who immediately sounded the alarm. Nicole, who is also a fisherman, went to the rescue. He found the boy in a near exhausted condition hanging onto the shaft of the boat. When taken to shore the boy was able to walk to Nicole's house a few hundred yards away. His hands were bleeding slightly and he was greatly exhausted. He was fully recovered soon after, however.

The boat was later towed in by Nicole and it was found that the engine was missing. This was found yesterday during dragging operations. Some of the trawl gear was in the boat and when it overturned they went to the bottom with the anchor attached. This provided a good mark for those carrying on the dragging operations.
