

West Kent Wins Interscholastic Football Title

West Kent football team retained their hold on the McMillan Cup, emblematic of the interscholastic championship, by holding the rugged and heady Queen Square fifteen to a 3 all tie in the final game of the series yesterday afternoon. The first game was a draw, and the second was won by West Kent.

Yesterday's set-to was one of the hardest fought in the series. Both teams played fast and sparkling football, punctuated at times with glittering individual play that brought cheering from the sidelines.

Queen Square, although the losers again this year, have much to be proud of. They outkicked their opponents yesterday and had a big edge in territory play, but lacked the scoring punch when within "trying" distance of the line.

It was Preston Darragh again who played havoc with the purple and white victory ambitions. It was he who scored the opening try of the game, which sent his team-mates home with another championship.

The score was made in the first half, just five minutes before the rest period, when he intercepted a pass on the Q. S. five-yard line to go over. The try was so unexpected that Queen Square hardly realized they were scored upon.

The purple and white clan made herculean efforts to take the game out of the fire in the final session. They opened a terrific following-up attack that carried them into enemy ground, but all sorties were frustrated until about one minute before the closing whistle, when Walsh took a pass from a heel-out on the W. K. S. thirty-five yard line to cover the entire distance for the tying score. It was a great exhibition of line running and only equalled a few times during the series.

Retains Trophy

West Kent ruggers through sheer dint of stamina, courage and plenty heady work have retained the McMillan Trophy, emblematic of the interscholastic championship. To again capture this season's honors, they were forced to play football in all its flourishes against the tricky and well coached squad of Queen Square, which makes their victory all the more scintillating.

The losers as well as the winners are to be heartily congratulated on the excellent brand of football played this season. They are a credit, not only to their schools and coaches, but to the city as well.

There isn't very many cities on the continent where football is played, that can boast of two school teams the calibre of West Kent and Queen Square. Their knowledge of the game is surprising and manner in which they put this knowledge into effect is phenomenal. Visitors to the city who have had the pleasure and privilege of witnessing these boys in action, expressed themselves in glowing terms with regard to not only their playing ability, but the ruggedness and courage displayed during a game.

Again we congratulate the boys and eagerly look forward to the renewal of their struggle when the fall of 1932 rolls around.

Juniors and Midgets Work-out

The Forum, yesterday afternoon, reminded the writer of the Montreal Forum of a few years back, when almost every hour of the day was taken up with practice dates and some six or seven teams working out under the eyes of respective coaches.

Yesterday the Levin Fur, Gyros, Queen Hotel, Mohawks, Midgets, Abegweits and Fredericton had their fling on the blades.

This morning, Fredericton works out from 9 to 10; Abegweits, 10 to 11 and Dalhousie, 11 to 12.

Dal Ruggers Here

Chuck O'Connor and his fighting Ranger crew arrived in the city last evening, all fit as a fiddle and rarin' for ice. They will hop the boards at the Forum at 11 o'clock this morning for their first preliminary brush. There are eleven players on the list, including J. Carrigan, manager. The squad is composed of the following: B. McCaugh and J. Miles, goal; Graham and W. Walker, defence; P. James, W. Kerr, A. Butterworth, D. Taylor, A. Taylor, W. Gulliver and J. Burke, forwards; Al Taylor and Burke are also available for defence. Cople LeBlanc, another member of the club was held over and is expected to arrive today.

Port Elgin Hockey Star to S' Slide. Summerside Journal: James White of Port Elgin, N. B., arrived in Summerside, Friday night and will play with the Crystals this coming season. White is an exceptionally able hockeyist and played centre last season with the Amherst Ramblers. He should be quite an acquisition to the local team.

Halfpenny Coaching Capitals

A Fredericton Exchange says:—The playing squad of the Fredericton Capital Hockey Club, has shaken down into the routine prescribed by Coach Stan Burgoyne, and now also has the benefit of the services of Bill Halfpenny as trainer. Halfpenny already has joined the squad. He needs no introduction to followers of sport in the Maritimes, having been a well known track and field athlete in his day, having acted as track coach locally and at Mt. Allison University, and also having been trainer to various clubs.

Twice a day the red, white and blue squad from Fredericton has been on the ice, and that will be the rule today and Wednesday. After that Burgoyne will work them once a day in practice. To date Fredericton men look like first class hockey material, but condition and finish will have to be imparted. The players are on training rules and an 11 o'clock dead-line at night is closely observed.

Blackboard instruction is given by Coach Burgoyne, an hour's lecture at their hotel being given the players each day. The boys all like Charlottetown as a training place. The officials of the new rink are extremely obliging. The Island fans are not slow in following the workouts, and turn out in hundreds for them.

IS POPULAR

Bill's many friends throughout the city will no doubt be pleased to learn that he has been chosen for such a responsible position—looking after the body needs of a valuable hockey club. Fredericton certainly has made no mistake in their choice, not because Halfpenny is a Charlottetown man, but because of his qualifications. He knows the training business of athletes from every angle. If the Capitals have kinks that Bill cannot remove—then write them among your souvenirs.

CLABOURNE VS McQUARRIE

The coming bout between the "Toms" Clabourne and McQuarrie slated for Saturday night at the Lyceum, has local boxing fans by the ears. Both boys are tough, clever and trained to travel at top speed over the full route.

"Allan Cup Year," Says Truro

People of Truro, the home of the Bearcats, speak of the coming hockey season as "Allan Cup Year." Convinced by the showing of the "Seven Survivors" in last year's quest of Canada's highest honors in the amateur field, when, after being deprived of the services of three outstanding players under a ruling of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, the team won the Maritime championship and successfully hurdled the barrier presented by McGill University, Quebec title holders, and went to the Dominion semi-finals to be eliminated after a stirring battle by

"Stevie, More Sinned Against Than Sinning"

A. Malcolm McGowan, St. John sports writer, commenting on the Estabrooks case, says in part: "Stevie Estabrooks, scintillating package of puck dynamite, withdrawn from the hockey lists for a season, fans learn. But not of his own free will. He is ruled out. And they are informed of the reasons, which state that the former Beavers left wingman committed the unwise error of signing with two different clubs for the coming winter's senior campaign. Whereupon the question arises in minds of students of the great pastime of the frigid season, 'Has Estabrooks been made the goat?'"

Expression of opinion along that line have been made since tidings of Steve's suspension came to hand. It is suggested that, because neither Charlottetown Abbies nor Amherst Ramblers could agree on who was to retain the youth's services for the 1932-1933 M. A. H. A. war, somebody saw to it that he be the one to pay the penalty.

It is also suggested that the question be asked, "If either club had capitulated and waived their claim to Steve, would the other team have been permitted to use him?" At this distance, while cognizant of the fact that Stevie did break the rules if he signed with one club on May 14 and with another the following day, as alleged, one wonders if the youngsters were given a fair deal; especially in view of the fact that delegates of the affected teams were allowed to try to decide among themselves the matter of Estabrooks' services mutually.

It almost sounds as if the tiny Amherstonian would have been permitted to remain the property of whichever organization could have managed to cause the other to relinquish their demand which existed on the strength of his signature.

Assuming that an agreement between the two clubs would have resulted in Estabrooks' remaining eligible for the winter's play with the more fortunate sextet, is his infraction as an individual as grave as the offense which takes place on the part of the association and its members? An offense which consists of, apparently their willingness to let the matter be adjusted between Amherst and Charlottetown (providing the clubs could, amicably) and then overlook Stevie's lapse?

Since the clubs could not agree, it seems that theirs is the more sinister infringement, inasmuch as subsequent to their inability to come to terms the boy was forthwith ruled out of hockey.

If it is a case of Estabrooks having sinned on a broader scale than is intimated, by all means let the facts of such misdeeds be included in the reasons for his suspension. But if there is no covering up and Steve has only done as announced—signed twice—even while admittedly subject to penalty, why make his punishment so harsh as to keep him out of hockey when approaching the height of his M. A. H. A. career and for so long a period as decreed?

Should he not play this winter it may mean his finish as a hockey player. It would actually mean a layoff of from 20 to 21 months—March, 1931, until November or December, 1932. Surely the rule-makers do not care to penalize a man so!

If the rules are to be observed closely, then by all means let the manual be followed to the letter. Are the clubs of the Maritime Amateur Hockey Association above reproach in their own observance of the amateur code, one reader asked yesterday after perusing the article dealing with Estabrooks' suspension?

the famed Hamilton Tigers, hockey followers in the Hub feel assured that these fighting Bearcats will this year reach the peak.

Backing up their hopes is the realization that the entire 1930 championship team is intact for the coming campaign—perhaps an even stronger Bearcat squad.

The only new edition to the team is Ronald Hudson, 19 year old youngster from South Porcupine, Ontario. He replaces Proulx, who has returned West. Hudson, a likely looking prospect, is a right winger and is reputed to be a "comer." He is vouched for by no less an authority than "Chuck" Jemmett, the team's centre ice star, who was judged the most valuable player in the Eastern Nova Scotia League last year. Hudson has played with Timmins and Sudbury Juniors and last year was with South Porcupine Seniors. It is this club, incidentally, which produced Goalie Leo Sarg-

Leafs And Hawks Battle To Draw

CHICAGO, Ill., Nov. 18.—(By the Canadian Press)—Toronto's Maple Leafs and Chicago's Black Hawks fought a furious battle to a one to one tie in their National League battle at the Chicago Stadium tonight. The game was marked by numerous penalties.

Chicago scored first in the second period when Vic Ripley rifled one in from the blue line, but the Maple Leafs came back to tie up the score twenty seconds after the third period opened, Hal Cotton stickhandling the length of the ice and shovelling in a short one. Neither side made a real serious threat to tally in the 10-minute overtime period.

Nineteen penalties were called during the struggle, the majority coming in the first two periods which saw both teams struggling most of the time short handed.

A disappointing crowd of 9,000

watched the game.

A somewhat similar case occurred in Saint John several seasons ago when a well-known local baseball pitcher signed with three different clubs. A special meeting took place to consider what punishment should be meted out and he was suspended for an indefinite term which terminated a few weeks later, in time to permit him to play ball.

Athletes should be punished for infractions, no doubt. But an individual is not capable of committing statute offenses of amateurism as extensively as the club which is a party to his rule-breaking. So, if individuals are to be censured, all the more so should the larger units.

Clubs, members of league and association, would do well to bear that point in mind. If there is to be ignoring of any one clause of the rules which govern the sport, then by all means let the "buck-passing and hedging" drop and let them treat the individual as they would be treated themselves.

The Golden Rule has its place in sport as well as in other matters.

(Canadian Press) QUEBEC, Que., Nov. 18.—Panama Al Brown, holder of the world's bantamweight title, tonight knocked out Al Chapdelaine of Springfield, Mass., in the seventh round of a scheduled ten round battle. The fight was a non-title affair at the local coliseum. Three thousand fans saw the powerful negro fighter Chapdelaine twice in the earlier rounds before administering the knockout in the seventh.

"Affection and bristles don't go together"

"I CAN'T imagine 'falling' for a man with a day's growth of stubble on his face. You may think this is a testimonial for razor blades, but it's not. I never use a razor. I'm just giving you the average girl's opinion of men who don't shave carefully."

"I honestly believe that neglected beards have spoiled as many romances as soiled linen. Of course I may be wrong about this, but to me a man who doesn't shave closely is actually repulsive."

"I'm not thinking about the men in my crowd alone. A clean shave almost always makes a 'hit' with a woman. Many of the men I see in busses or on the street, carpenters and plumbers and all, would look like a 'million', if they'd only be more particular about shaving."

Let's be frank about it. . . . typical Canadian girl voices the opinion of womankind. A man is repulsive with a growth of stubble. Of course we know that until now shaving was not especially pleasant, sometimes even painful and injurious. There may have been some excuse for neglect. Today, the new Gillette blade makes shaving a not uncomfortable task.

This new blade is remarkably keen and uniform in quality. It cuts the beard cleanly and easily—never roughens or irritates the tenderest skin. You can prove this on our guarantee. Buy a package of new Gillette blades tonight, and give them a trial. If every shave isn't quick and clean—remarkable for unusual ease, return the package and your dealer will refund the purchase price.
