How to Acquire Personality

Dorothy Dix

Says Be Individual

Be Yourself, Says Dorothy Dix, if You Wish to Develop a Pleasing Personality...

There is no question that girls ask me so often as how they can acquire personality.

It is something even more desirable than beauty, for it lasts long after beauty has fled...

Every one recognizes the value of personality, but when her slacker fairy godmother failed to drop the treasure in her cradle...

The best answer that can be given to this conundrum is: Be yourself. Keep to your own type.

The trouble with most girls is that they are copycats. They standardize themselves and dress and act and think...

Apparently it never occurs to them to reflect that a frock that would become one girl would make another look like a wrath of God...

A still greater error that girls fall into is that of trying to make themselves into rubber stamps of some popular girl.

For instance, a quiet, placid, serious-minded girl will see that some fliberty gibbet, who has quicksilver in her veins...

Or a big girl notes that some little half-pint flapper has a way of curling up like a kitten on a sofa...

And the same catastrophe happens when the Dumb Doras try to talk like highbrows and the mature business girl giggles like a school-girl.

So here's my tip to you girls: Be yourself. If you are naturally gay and vivacious, be as lively as you please...

If you are not a gifted conversationalist, don't chatter. Listen. Nine people out of ten are dying for an audience.

Just be yourselves girls. As near as one can define personality, it is individuality developed to the nth power.

A Morning Smile

Ready as Usual—A detachment of British soldiers was about to attack a tribe of rebel Indian tribesmen who awaited them drawn up in battle order.

"Callaghan," his whispered, "it is trimblin' ye are for yer own miserable skin!"

"N—no sergeant," said Callaghan, "O'im trimblin' for the inimy. They don't know Callaghan is here."

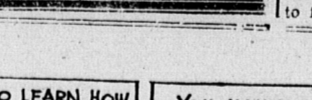

And Now He's His Mother's Pride and Joy

"SHE'll never raise him!" whispered the neighbors behind their hands—and indeed it looked like it for Baby Jim was a tiny mite and didn't thrive on his bottle.

Then his Mother tried Eagle Brand, and to everyone's astonishment Baby Jim ceased fretting and began to gain steadily.

Grandfather now lays claim to his wonderful disposition—but his mother smiles quietly and remembers Eagle Brand.

Eagle Brand has reared countless thousands of infants to maturity over a period of 74 years. Experience has proved that it is a reliable, safe and an entirely satisfactory food where the mother is unable to nurse her own baby.

For The Cook

Rich Puff Paste

Puffs may be made of any sort of fruit, but it should be prepared first with sugar.

Weigh an equal quantity of butter with as much fine flour as you judge necessary; mix, with a silver spoon, a little of the former and the latter, and wet it with a little water as will make into a stiff paste.

A quicker oven than for short crust. Lay a paper over to keep it from scorching.

Less Rich Paste

Weigh a pound of flour and a quarter of a pound of butter, rub them together, and mix into a paste with a little water and an egg well beaten. Roll and fold it three or four times.

Another

Rub extremely fine one pound of dried flour, six ounces of butter and a spoonful of white sugar; work up the whole into a stiff paste with as little hot water as possible.

Crust for Meat Pie

To a quarter of a peck of fine flour use two pounds and a half of butter, and four eggs; mix into paste with warm water, and work it smooth and to a good consistency. Put a paste around the inside, but not to the bottom of the dish; and let the cover be pretty thick to bear long continuance in the oven.

Women Who Waver

Have you ever met the woman who can never make up her own mind? They exist in appalling numbers, these wavering women.

They appear in front of you in the queue at a theatre box-office and debate ten minutes whether they will be able to see in the pit or had better be extravagant and book upper circles.

You see them on shopping expeditions nearly causing a strike among the assistants while they wonder whether to buy an evening gown or spend the money on a really good mackintosh and a new hat.

Almost every sentence they utter begins, "Do you think...?" or "Hadn't I better...?" or "What is your opinion...?"

You would think that having lived so long in this difficult world, they might have discovered once and for all whether blue suits then better than green, whether they prefer China to Indian tea, whether to go no-trumps on four aces, but no!

And it is not only in the little things of life that they waver. "Shall I marry him—or do you think we wouldn't get on?" they ask their friends.

LIVE YOUR OWN LIFE

It is so fatally easy to drift into this habit of burdening your family and friends with the responsibility of making your decision for you.

After all, it is your life that you are living, and it is better to live it your own way, mistakes and all than to let your powers of judgement wither and confidence in yourself evaporate from sheer want of use.

So if this cap comes anywhere near your size in headwear, decide right now, as to the Americans say, to fight the tendency.

Colors For Next Spring

To Be Less Definite

NEW YORK, Jan. 14.—The cheery smart. So is the purple frock, but red woolen dresses, to say nothing of coats and suits women of all ages and sizes are wearing are expected to be only a midwinter favorite. With spring, less definite colors are expected, so that the moment those of us who love color must revel in it.

Rather hard blues, one termed lapis lazuli, are another midwinter color preference for street clothes, the bright blue frock under a black coat being extremely

Etiquette

By Roberta Lee

Q. Where should the hostess stand to receive her guests at a ball?

A. The preferred position is at the entrance to the ballroom.

Q. Is the church christening more fashionable than the home christening?

A. It is a matter of religious faith. Most clergymen prefer that children be christened in church.

Q. Should an extra cloth be placed under the tablecloth that has lace insertions?

A. No; it should be placed on the bare table.
