Adept Flyers Keep Lights Burning For Mail Pilots

(United Press)

CHICAGO, July 25.—The U. S. Air Mail "puddle-jumper," so named because it gets in and out of pastures and other small areas to fix the airway lights, finds favor with Tex Marshall, veteran pilot.

"The old reliable D. H. planes with their 400 h. p. motors could not begin to get out of the small places we have to enter," Marshall says. "Puddle-jumper" is rather a complimentary term applied to the Curtiss 130 h. p. maintenance plane which operates from Maywood, Ill., to and from Iowa City, and Cleveland. It can cut weeds with its all-metal propeller, making it possible to alight and take off safely in weeds that would badly chew up the wooden parts of other propellers.

"We like it because of the big fat wheels, the 'puppy-feet,' we call them, which enable us to land in a soft field. The radiator in the upper wing contains the water and envelopes the gasoline tank. The 33 foot hi-lift wings, 7 feet 4 inches wide and nearly a foot in thickness, therefore allowing it to enter and leave very small fields. We have been in grain fields with the stalks standing waist high.

"One of the first official ships to carry a typewriter is this plane. The electrician holds it on his knees while in flight, observes what needs to be done to some of the lights as seen from above, types the instructions, wraps up the necessary materials along with the message, with a long white tail attached, and drops the packet overboard to the waiting caretaker below."

Public Urged To Give True Value To Real News Of The Day

(United Press)

MADISON, Wis., July 26.—Development and cultivation of a newspaper reading public which will recognize news as of more importance than the society column, the sporting page and the funny strip, is one of the main duties of the future newspaper, in the opinion of Prof. W. G. Bleyer, director of journalism at the University of Wisconsin.

"Newspapers should be read and taught in the public schools of the nation, and the youth instructed in reading news and determining what is best to read, Prof. Bleyer said. "Democratic government depends upon public opinion and public opinion, as we know it today, is mainly taken from the newspapers," Mr. Bleyer stated. "If the purpose of education is to train the youth of the nation in citizenship, the study of the newspaper should have a prominent part in our public schools."

"Newspaper reading today is not taken as a serious part of the individual's daily life. On the whole, the individual devotes at least thirty minutes a day to the newspaper. This is the weakness of our modern democracy. We do not digest the facts, we swallow them too hurriedly."

"The aim of the newspapers and journalism schools should be to train a new generation of newspaper readers to whom news, real news, is of more importance than the society column, the sporting page, or the funny strip. The news should be read first, leaving these other features as dessert. The news is the solid food. We need to cultivate news taste and discrimination in the public."

"The public should be taught to think of the news as a part of history, of current events that are making history. The newspapers can influence public opinion and, through that influence, even the economic forces of the nation can be moulded. They can be the organs of an enlightened patriotism and make for more idealism and community betterment."

ROGUEING POTATOES.

(Experimental Farms Note.)

In order to eliminate potato diseases, such as mosaic, leaf roll, spindle tuber and the like, roguing is necessary to remove the diseased plants. By (roguing) is meant the complete eradication of a plant, including the underground parts. The growers of certified seed potatoes are most interested in roguing their fields as in doing this they are endeavoring to eliminate all degeneration diseases from their stock.

The elimination of mosaic and leaf roll etc. should begin when the plants are 6 to 8 inches high or as soon as the disease can be identified. At this stage the old seed piece, if still sound, should also be removed in order to eliminate any chances of subsequent growth from it. The plants which have been rogued must be carried to some distance 50 100 feet from the field before they will, so that any aphids which may be present on the diseased plants will not find their way back to healthy ones.

It is best to burn the plants if this is convenient. Careful inspections and roguing of the fields should be continued until the plants are in full bloom. If the aphids are very plentiful do not rogue as roguing at such a time will cause the spread of more disease than can be eliminated under normal conditions. The careful seed grower is now maintaining a seed plot which will give him a sufficient yield to plant his next year's acreage. These plots offer the best method of controlling degeneration diseases. A grower can rogue his seed plot more severely and inspect it oftener than a large field with the additional advantage of having a practically disease-free stock for planting his next seasons crop.

Any grower who is unacquainted with the various diseases should ask one of the inspectors sent out by the Division of Botany, Dominion Experimental Farm, Ottawa, or will be given assistance on application to the nearest Laboratory of Plant Pathology of the Experimental Farm system.
