M'Donald Plane Caught In Storm

(Associated Press) LONDON, Aug. 30.—Premier Ramsay MacDonald returning from London to his Scottish home at Lossiemouth by airplane, was reported to have been forced to turn back by a storm in Yorkshire, northern England.

His airplane was said to have landed at York airfield.

Catterick airfield was cut off by storm from telephone and telegraph communication with London.

Officials are confident the Premier has landed safely, but no confirmation of this has been received.

LONDON, Aug. 29.—Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, attempting to return by airplane from London to his Scottish home at Lossiemouth, was forced by a violent storm this evening to turn back and land at Catterick Airfield, Yorkshire. He boarded a train for Scotland.

"One fault about prohibition is that it makes a jag seem so rare and precious and delightful. A jag from the beginning of history has seemed delightful from some aspects, but never so unspeakably delightful as it seems now."

Guest—"Gosh I wish I could afford a car like this!"

Owner—"So do I!"
