The Amateurs will hold forth at Wonderland tonight.

The Guardian regrets to report that Jack Lewis, Brighton, will be detained in the house for several weeks in consequence of the injury received while at the telephone fire on election day.

A few loads of potatoes and turnips were brought to the City yesterday and sold, the former at 32 to 35 cents per bushel and the latter at 14 cents per bushel. If the weather continues mild no doubt large quantities will be brought to this City during the next few weeks.

The horsemen of this City seem very eager to have a race on the splendid ice which is now available. But they do not seem to be able to get together and infuse enough ginger into an association that will maintain a proper track clear of snow. The Guardian has been told that the road machines could be used to advantage to clear a race-track, and that many similar plans are being used in clearing the Charles River, Boston, when it becomes frozen. It is certain that a nicely cleared track would add to the enjoyment of these winter days - especially when there are so many horsemen who each have "the best horse in the Province," etc.

The annual meeting of the Fishermen's Union was held in Lauching Hall on Tuesday, Feb. 11th, 1908 and was largely attended. The lobster fishing question was intelligently discussed by members of the Union and lobster packers present and the following resolution was unanimously adopted: Resolves that the present fishery regulation which allows the taking of spaw or seed lobsters has brought this valuable industry to the verge of extinction. Therefore be it resolved that the members of the Fishermen's Union place themselves on record as being opposed to the taking of spaw or seed lobsters under any circumstance whatever; and further resolved that the Department of Marine and Fisheries be petitioned for regulations to prevent the taking of said fish.

A correspondent in Nebraska, U. S. A., has written The Guardian suggesting very strongly that farmers in this province sow alfalfa on their farms. He makes out a good case for alfalfa, stating that after the first year its cultivation gives little or no trouble, that it thrives on it and that it would make farms and farmers rich. He advocates it principally as a means to enrich the farms of this province saying that he noticed while visiting this, his native Province last year after a long absence that many farms seemed badly run out. He claims that he has grown alfalfa in Nebraska for twenty years and his farm is in the best condition. The Guardian asked a gentleman versed in agricultural knowledge regarding the desirability of planting alfalfa in this Province, and his reply was that it was not a success - that it had been tried by some but with disappointing results.

A comparison of the votes polled in the civic election of last Wednesday with the totals of the election held two years ago may prove interesting to some readers. In that year the Mayoralty vote was: Paton 1231, Kelly 996.

Majority for Paton, 235. On Wednesday the Mayoralty vote was as follows: Prowse 1273, Crabbe 846.

Majority for Prowse, 427. In 1906 in Wards One, Two and Three the councillors were returned unopposed. This year there was no opposition in Wards One and Two, and in Ward Three Thomas Campbell had a majority over W. K. Rogers of seventy. In Ward Four and Five the vote in 1906 and this year is compared below:

Table with 4 columns: Year, Name, Votes 1906, Votes 1908. Rows include WARD FOUR and WARD FIVE candidates like B. C. Prowse, R. M. Johnson, D. Stewart, J. D. Taylor, etc.

W. H. and Mrs. Aitken, City, were passengers to Georgetown last night.

This year Mount Allison University graduates now at McGill are prominent in the list of student officers. Among those holding office who are known in this Province is W. P. P. Kirby son of Rev. Mr. Kirby formerly of this City.

The coldest on Wednesday night was one below zero. After that the temperature kept rising as follows: Thursday at nine a.m., eight above; at nine p.m., twenty-five above; at nine a.m., yesterday thirty-two above; and at nine last night thirty and a half above. The highest measured yesterday was thirty-seven above.

The young gentlemen members of the Souris Leap Year Club have arranged for a private special train to Charlottetown on Monday the 17th inst. and have invited the lady members of the club to a skate in the Arena. This club, which has a membership of about thirty, meets once every week and enjoys a high standing as a social organization.

It may not be generally known that yesterday was the birthday of Abraham Lincoln. Guardian readers will find on one of the special pages of this day's issue some interesting facts about Lincoln, which in another column friends and admirers of the late President will be glad to see that he has written for The Guardian a poem commemorative of the event.

There passed peacefully and calmly away with the full assurance of a glorious resurrection through the merits of a merciful and crucified and loving Saviour, on the morning of February ten, at the residence of Major C. Murray, Bradabane, Alex. Andrew Nicholson, in the 76th year of his age. Two sons and two daughters survive him, but all in foreign lands. Rev. Mr. Gillis of Strathalbyn congregation conducted the services at the house, and his remains were laid beside those gone before in Spring Creek Cemetery.

Yesterday being St. Valentine's day, it may be assumed that devotees of "the little blind god," of whom the world has always plenty, lost no opportunity of celebrating the event in a proper and pleasant manner. As the origin of the day and the customs and ceremony peculiar to it, readers are referred to another page where the subject is thoroughly gone into. Cupid has many followers in this City, judging by rink nights, and other occasions that furnish opportunity for observation.

In the basement of Zion Church last evening a large audience assembled and were treated to a most entertaining and instructive lecture of "Demarara," delivered by the pastor, Rev. Geo. E. Ross, who was for a number of years a missionary in the West Indies. The lecture was illustrated by a number of lantern slides. The pleasure of the hearers was happily expressed in a neat and complimentary speech in which the Rev. Mr. Ross was proposed by Jas. Macdonald. The vote was seconded by F. J. Nash, and passed unanimously.

It was a children's revel last night at the Arena Rink, and the carnival of genuine pleasure for many others besides those of tender years. The juveniles entered into the fun thoroughly and their costumes were on the whole very good. For girls the first prize was won by Lillian Skerry who made a picturesque Indian girl; and the second prize was given to Annie Johnson, who represented the character of Brown-eyed Susan. In the boys class Sunny Jim, portrayed by Norman Watson took the first prize by a margin of superiority; and the second award was to Joe Doyle, Drum Major.

That the ways of a woman are past finding out is a fact exemplified by one of the scenes of that thrilling war drama, The Despatch Bearer, shown at Fairland last night. The soldier that was sent on a difficult mission is wounded by the enemy, but finds his way into a friendly house, and throws himself on a bed faint from loss of blood. The pursuers arrive, but the despatch bearer is concealed in a large clothes chest by a woman. She then ties an end of a blanket to the bed post and throws the rest of the blanket out of the window. When the soldiers burst open the door they think the man has escaped, and gallop away. The woman mounts a horse herself, and rides through the enemy's lines delivering the message to the general. This is only one of a grand series of pictures. On the Stage showing a succession of comedies and tragedies of the Bowery melodramatic order is another good film, and Training a Wife is a brief but rich comedy. All these pictures will be shown again tonight, together with All Baba and the Forty Thieves, and Prof. Dodd and his educated dog Nigger will conclude their engagement. The statement in an evening paper that last night would be their last appearance was incorrect.

Smallpox (so-called), is still on the go in the rural districts. The latest report is from New Argyle, where a farmer by the name of William Gillis has been sick for a week with the disease. It is pleasing to report that the attack is only light.

A very old resident of Charlotteown Royalty for some years past died yesterday in the person of Ann McKinnon, relict of the late Doraid Murray, Clide River. If she had lived another month she would have completed one hundred and one years of her life. Up to very recently the day of her death she was kept bright in the exercises of all her senses and her excellent memory made her a very interesting narrator of the events of the early years of Charlotteown's history. She was the mother of the late Angus McKinnon, a member of the police force in this City many years ago. For a number of years lately she had resided with her nephew Alex. McKinnon and her niece Penelope McKinnon in the Royalty, and with her daughter Mrs. A. D. Whear of this City. She leaves one other daughter Mrs. Angus C. McLean, Dunedin.

A very interesting lecture on Dairying was given in Summerhall Hall on Tuesday evening last by J. R. Edwards of North Wilshire. The number present was not as large as it should have been, but comprised a fair representation of the farmers of the neighborhood. Mr. Edwards explained very clearly his own experience in the business, his system of feeding and caring for his milch-cows, and the profits derived from sales of milk, etc. also the many obstacles he had to contend with when beginning life on small means, and before he was able to carry out his ideas. The whole discourse was attentively listened to, and greatly appreciated by the audience as they felt the lecturer was a practical dairyman who understood what he was talking about. Remarks were made by Benj. Haslam, P. F. Hughes, D. McKinnon, J. W. Stewart and others, all of whom spoke warmly of their appreciation of the able discourse given them by Mr. Edwards. A hearty vote of thanks was moved by A. Ferguson and seconded by W. Leaman and tendered the lecturer by the chairman Thos. McKay.
