SEIZING MONEY ON COUNTER.

Recently in Ottawa, a superannuated civil servant against whom an execution had been issued for debt went to the bank to have cashed the cheque for his monthly allowance. A sheriff's officer stepped up to the bank counter beside the debtor and instantly the money was laid on the counter the officer seized it in satisfaction of the execution. Of course the man who had passed in the cheque was indignant, and the bank officials also appear to have sympathised with him. They claimed that the money was still in the custody of the bank until it had actually passed into the hands of the payee, and was not liable to seizure until it had so passed.

The matter went to the Court, as might be expected, but the Court decided that the seizure was quite legal, and so the officer retained the money he had seized and handed it over to the judgment creditor. The case attracted considerable discussion in the press and among members of the legal profession at the time, the question being as to the precise moment when the transfer of value is made in a payment by cheque. Is it when the bank receives the cheque, or when the bank-notes are handed out by the teller, or only when the payee has actually taken the money in his hands? We need not here discuss these nice points of law or usage. Suffice it to say the Court upheld the officer of the law in making the seizure after the money had been paid out, or laid on the counter by the teller and before the man for whom the money was intended had actually taken it in hand.

A legal friend reminds THE GUARDIAN that a very similar case occurred in Charlottetown some twenty years ago and the seizing officer in that case also retained for the creditor the money he had summarily seized. It was in the year 1881 that one Lorang Perry, since deceased, having completed a contract with the Provincial Government came from Prince County and received from the Commissioner of Public Works a cheque for some $750. Mr. R. T. Holman of Summerside had in the meantime obtained a judgment against Perry and sent an officer to watch the bank when payment would be made. Perry presented his cheque with the sheriff's officer standing beside him. The teller, Mr. Thomas L. Finlay, (brother of the present Attorney General of England) inquired as to the kind of money wanted and was told by Perry that he wanted $700 in notes and the balance in silver. The money was placed on the counter, with the silver on top, and while Perry was putting the silver in his pocket the officer seized the notes.

Mr. Davies (now Sir Louis) as counsel for Perry made an effort to get the money back. Mr. Holman was represented by Mr. Hodgson, (now Master of the Rolls). The Sheriff of that day, Mr. J. Henry Gates, had been indemnified by Mr. Holman, and the latter in the end received the money, notwithstanding the legal effort to prevent its being paid over. From this recital it will appear that the case which has recently attracted so much attention in Ottawa, had a precedent long ago in this distant part of the Dominion, and fell into hands quite as competent to deal with its intricacies and any that can be found at the federal Capital.

Imitations

of Dodd's Kidney Pills are legion. The box is imitated, the outside coating and shape of the pills are imitated and the name—Dodd's Kidney Pills is imitated. Imitations are dangerous. The original is safe. Dodd's Kidney Pills have a reputation. Imitators have none or they wouldn't imitate. So they trade on the reputation of Dodd's Kidney Pills. Do not be deceived. There is only one DODD'S. Dodd's is the original. Dodd's is the name to be careful about—

DEATH OF MR. JAMES BYRNE.

THE GUARDIAN regrets to record the death of Mr. James Byrue of this city. His apparently robust constitution began to give way about a year and a half ago since which time he has suffered from a heart affection, and has had other severe illnesses. It became known recently to the sorrow of many friends and acquaintances, that Mr. Byrne would not probably recover, and that at times he suffered greatly.

Mr. Byrne was born in Philadelphia about the year 1849 and came to the city in his early youth. He was always a diligent reader, took a deep interest in civic and political affairs, and was possessed of a love for and a gift of oratory which might, under other conditions have placed him in a position of prominence. Had he turned his attention to one of the learned professions he might have risen to the top. As it is many will retain pleasant recollections of his warm heart, his clear intelligence and breadth of view, his varied knowledge and his genial spirit. He did not belong to the life calling in which he served and to which he was in every way superior.

A widow, formerly Miss Donovan of Halifax, and five children who survive, will have the sympathy of a wide circle of friends.

Few People Escape The Torture of Piles

And Dr. Chase's Ointment is the Only Positive and Guaranteed Cure for This Wretched Disease.

There is usually very little satisfaction in consulting a physician regarding a case of piles. In nine cases out of ten he will recommend a surgical operation, forgetting, it may be, the risk, suffering and physical as well as financial expense which this treatment entails. For this reason very many people are going about in misery with piles, believing that they cannot be cured except by means of the surgeon's knife.

It is to such persons that this advertisement will bring good news of great value. Dr. Chase's Ointment has never failed to cure piles and it is recognized the world over as absolutely the only preparation that can be relied upon to cure every form of this frightfully common ailment.

It seems strange that anyone should suffer the wretched uneasiness and acute torture of burning, itching piles when it is so easy to procure Dr. Chase's Ointment. Nearly every dealer in medicine keeps Dr. Chase's Ointment, and you can apply it at home without any inconvenience. If you prefer send 60 cents to Edmanson Bates & Co., Toronto, and a box will be sent postpaid to your address. Ask your neighbor or druggist about this remarkable remedy.
