Moreside's Is Popular Prince Street Grocery

Roomy, well ventilated and sunny and only a stone's throw from the business section of the City MORESIDE'S GROCERY at 85 Prince Street draws a good share of the grocery trade in the City.

Managed by Mr. Lloyd E. Moreside who took over the business three years ago, one will find well-stocked shelves of groceries of all the better brands and in addition can also purchase high quality meats and fish in that department.

Assisting Mr. Moreside is Jack Worth and both are efficient, capable and courteous clerks. Both know the business from A to Z and as a result have a large list of satisfied customers doing business at this popular store.

When in need of groceries, meat or fish, just keep Moreside's Grocery, 85 Prince Street, in mind.

Plumbing and Heating Problem Solved Here

Nothing is so important these days, especially with the shortages in housing materials, than proper plumbing and heating.

Douglas, MacDonald and Jones, 162 Kent St., are at your service when any difficulties arise in your home in this regard. They have a long and creditable experience in contracting work and when building you would be well advised to consult them regarding plumbing and heating arrangements.

The firm also handles automatic water systems and electric motors.

When considering installations of the above kind call Douglas, MacDonald and Jones—PHONE 1376.

Coyne Electric For "EVERYTHING ELECTRICAL"

"Everything Electrical" is the slogan of the COYNE ELECTRIC SHOP at 157 Grafton St. City. The proprietor, Mr. Maurice J. Redmond, is a graduate of the Coyne Electrical School, Chicago, and has been established in business, locally, a little less than a year.

Mr. Redmond does electrical installations of all kinds and carries in his store a varied assortment of fixtures and equipment to make your home modern in every way so far as lighting is concerned. Mr. Redmond is representative of the "Maytag" washing machines and ironers and his store carries the well-known Spartan radios and record players. Domestic heaters, lamps and fluorescent fixtures are also obtainable at the Coyne Electric Shop.

When in need of electrical equipment or installations consult M. J. Redmond.
