Test June 16

From the time of Nero, Roman races have always been a feature of circuses. In the early days of the Circus Maximus, stalwart men and daring women indulged in this dangerous pastime for the applause of the Romans, who completely filled the big Colosseum. The circuses, then as now, consisted of many sensational and thrilling feats. One that has remained through the ages is the standing race.

Test June 19

Countless important displays make up the program of the Sparks Circus, which will appear in this city at Queen and Newland Sts., on Monday, July 20. Two exhibitions are scheduled, afternoon and night, with the doors to the augmented menagerie opening one full hour in advance of exhibition time. Among the outstanding acts are the Original Nelson Family, acrobats; Five Walters, aerialist; La Verne McLain, lady elephant trainer; Billetti troupe, high wire artists; Mile Rosina, wire walker; Guice Family, equestrians; Della Bonhomme and her dogs, ponies and monkeys; Franz Woska and his groups of Bengal and Siberian Tigers and Siberian Tigers and Nubian lions.

WOMAN HAS GIFT OF WATER DIVINING

VANCOUVER, July 13.—The age-old art of water divining is being employed by the provincial Government this year in an effort to locate wells for the farmers of the Okanagan valley, the central interior and the Peace River district.

Miss M. E. Penrose, an Englishwoman, who claims extraordinary powers, is being engaged to tour these districts and assist farmers in the search for water. She is in the Okanagan valley now and will go to the country between Prince George and Prince Rupert later in the summer and then to the Peace River country. Miss Penrose was employed in similar work in a small way last year and her success was described as extraordinary, according to Government officials. It was for this reason that she was brought back again this season to operate over a wider territory.

Her method is to walk over the ground holding a sprig of willow in her hands. The willow turns down towards the ground when she stands above water, no matter how far below the surface it may lie, according to the theory. Apparently Miss Penrose has some sense not possessed by ordinary people, for, according to Government officials, her gifts are almost infallible.

Persian Balm the creator preserver of beautiful complexions. Tonic in effect and wonderfully stimulating. Safeguards and beautifies the most delicately-textured skins. Cools and relieves all skins flushed or irritated by weather conditions. Magical in results. A little gentle rubbing and a youthful freshness and daintiness is instantly created. Invaluable for softening the hands and making them flawlessly white. Truly the perfect toilet requisite for the woman who cares.

Heenan Threatens To Punch Westmorland Co. Member's Nose In Debate

OTTAWA, July 12.—A breezy exchange took place in the House of Commons between Hon. Peter Heenan (Lib. Kenora-Rainy River) and Dr. O. B. Price, (Cons. Westmorland). Mr. Heenan had been talking at some length on immigration and reading newspaper clippings. Dr. Price kept up a fire of interruptions. At length he protested against Mr. Heenan's remarks and said it was "nonsense" to read the newspaper clippings.

There was a rapid passage of remarks and Mr. Heenan declared he had been "in places where I would smash a fellow's face for half of this, and it would take little encouragement to cross the floor and do it right now."

Several members called for order, and the Liberal member used the word "ignoramus" addressing himself to the Conservative member.

"You are a child in long pants," Dr. Price told Mr. Heenan. Mr. Heenan repeated the word "ignoramus" and further exchanges followed.

Crosses Floor

Dr. Price rose to his feet and questioned Mr. Heenan, what he had meant by his remarks. Finally, Dr. Price crossed the floor of the House to Mr. Heenan's seat and spoke to the Liberal member, standing there for some seconds. When the Conservative member returned to his seat, Mr. Heenan asked if his visit had been a "friendly gesture."

"You just pull in your horns," Dr. Price told Mr. Heenan.

The Chairman interjected that the word "ignoramus" used by Mr. Heenan was unparliamentary.

"You have a lot of manners," a Conservative member called to Mr. Heenan.

"You keep on going; we have had enough of it," another Conservative member told Mr. Heenan.

"Shut your mouth," Mr. Heenan answered.

Continuing his speech, Mr. Heenan said he was heart and soul with the Minister. Some time ago he had made a speech, and the whole Tory press of Canada criticized him.

"No one paid any attention to you," interrupted Davis Spence (Cons., Parkdale).

Mr. Spence demanded to know what right Mr. Heenan had "to take up the whole night."

"This is Peter's night out," interjected Hon. W. R. Motherwell (Lib. Melville).

Not Pressed

Mr. Heenan informed the House he intended to move that the vote be reduced "by $1," but this amendment was not pressed.

At this juncture Dr. Price arose and recalled that Mr. Heenan had said he would "either punch the nose or slap the mouth of the member for Westmorland."

"I just want him either to retract or substantiate that," Dr. Price said.

Which does Dr. Price prefer, Mr. Heenan asked—that he (Mr. Heenan) apologize or punch Dr. Price's nose?

"I have no preference," retorted Dr. Price. "I just want him to substantiate his statement."

High Commissioner

Some remarks had been made with respect to Canada's High Commissioner, declared Dr. Martin J. Maloney (Cons., North Renfrew). Canada had at the Court of St. James a High Commissioner, Hon. G. Howard Ferguson.

"Who is Howard Ferguson?" jeered some of the Liberals.

There were derisive cries of "shame" from the Government benches.

The High Commissioner, said Dr. Maloney, was one of the ablest men Canada ever produced. When he heard remarks reflecting on Howard Ferguson, he would like to say this country had never had a more able, a lovelier and more beautiful gentleman representing Canada in London.

Mr. Maloney's eulogiums were greeted with loud laughter from the Opposition.

At this juncture Dr. Price again crossed the floor and entered into a discussion with Mr. Heenan. Protests from Mr. Lepointe prompted Hon. Hugh Guthrie, Minister of Justice, who was leading the House at the time, to remark that there had been "great provocation from the other side of the House."

He was heated owing to continued interruptions, said Mr. Heenan, and he had said something that ought not to have been said. He did not want to punch anyone's nose, and he moved the remarks be erased from Hansard.

The Chairman, Finlay MacDonald (Cons., Cape Breton South) twice ordered Dr. Price to resume his seat, but both he and Mr. Heenan left the chamber.

Farewell Service

On Sunday, June 28th, Rev. Henry Cook of Bideford United charge preached his farewell sermon at Tyne Valley. Eleven o'clock Lot Eleven, three p. m. and Bideford, seven thirty, Mr. Cooke has accepted a call to Ireland Isle, Bermuda, and sailed from Halifax to his new charge on Tuesday, July 7th. At the conclusion of the service at Bideford, on the above date, Mr. Cooke was waited upon at the parsonage by representatives from the different sections and presented with a nice leather club bag and an address read by Mrs. Ernest Ellis. Mr. Cooke was totally unaware of the nature of the visitation but expressed his appreciation of the kindness shown him by his people during the time he was with them and also his gratitude for the useful gifts he had been presented with. He regretted very much that he found it necessary to give up his work in this charge, but after forty years of ministerial service, he found the long drives during the winter season somewhat arduous and deemed it wise to make the change. Remarks were made by Mr. E. S. Burtleigh, Mr. G. E. Ellis, and others after which all joined in singing God be with you till we meet again.

Following is the address: To the Rev. Henry Cook, Pastor of Bideford United Charge.

Rev. and dear sir: Tonight we have come to the parting of the ways. We have listened to your profound and scholarly exhortations and interpretation of Divine Writ, for the last time under the existing relationship of pastor and people, a happy relationship, extending over a period of four pleasant and profitable years. It is inevitable that sooner or later partings must come, that is the law of life. To you the call has come for service in another part of the Master's Vineyard and while we as a people sincerely regret your going, we are all glad that your next field of labor will be in such a delightful sunny clime as the beautiful Bermudas, many, many miles from the Garden of the Gulf, but the distance easily spanned in thought and spirit, where the old existing ties of pastor and people will ever abide. In looking back over your pastorate we find that much has been accomplished and many improvements made. The membership roll has been substantially added to. The Bideford Church has been redecorated inside and out and presents a very attractive appearance. The Tyne Valley Church has been enlarged and redecorated. A new symphony organ has been installed. The grounds and cemeteries of both sections are in excellent condition. All these things testify to a strong and popular
