In Memoriam.
HECTOR MACEACHERN
New Argyle and surrounding districts were shocked to hear of the sudden death of Mr. Hector MacEachern of Vancouver on Oct. 15th. He was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Duncan MacEachern of New Argyle. He enlisted in World War I in 1914 at the early age of seventeen. He did garrison duty at Halifax before going overseas with the 105th in 1916. He was wounded at Vimy Ridge in April 1917. After recovering he went back into action and was gassed and seriously wounded again in September 1918. He was hospitalized in England until the following July when he arrived in Halifax. After remaining for some time in Camp Hill Hospital he was transferred to the Toronto Military Hospital where he was a patient for two years. Three years ago he visited his sisters and brothers on the Island with whom he remained for a year. He has resided in Vancouver ever since. He leaves to mourn two sisters and five brothers, namely: Mrs. Frank Smith of New Argyle; Mrs. Bruce MacLean of Long Creek; Angus at Rocky Point; John D. at Dawson Creek, B.C., who arrived home in time for his brother's funeral; Herbert in Edmonton, Alta.; Stanley in Calgary, Alta.; and Colin of New Argyle. The funeral services which were very largely attended were held on Oct. 20th. A short service was held at the home of his sister, Mrs. Smith, thence to Canoe Cove Presbyterian Church where service was conducted by Rev. Mr. Goodwill. He was assisted at the home by Rev. Mr. Skinner. Burial was in the church cemetery. Six veterans and comrades of the late Mr. MacEachern bore the flag-draped casket to its last resting place. They were: Messrs Stanley Taylor, Allison MacMillan, Hector Currie, James MacKenzie, Melbourne MacEachern and Daniel MacEachern.

Hardy Islanders Give Up Struggle Against Atlantic.
SLIGO, Ire., Nov. 30.—The Atlantic has won its centuries-old battle against the people of Inishmurray Island in Donegal Bay. Finally convinced they cannot make a living on the rocky outposts, exposed to the full fury of the ocean and often isolated many weeks at a time, the 10 families of Inishmurray have appealed to the Irish Land Commission for removal to new homes. Lack of fuel, failure of the fisheries, absence of any communication with the outside world and poor crops on the island's 25 acres of stony arable land have combined to end an occupation of 700 years. Surrounded by treacherous rocks and reefs, approach to Inishmurray is dangerous even in a moderate wind. When a ground sea rises, the island is cut off. Dependent entirely on communication by sea, Inishmurray has never had a pier or harbor facilities. Landings are by small boats which must be moored to solid rock. Now the burden of supporting the 50 islanders falls on seven or eight young men. Even an improved harbor, as a measure of relief, would come too late to guarantee a livelihood and security. Even in the absence of income and land taxation—a concession granted first by Britain and now by Eire because so little has been done for Inishmurray—is insufficient attraction to overcome the lack of social services and amenities.

Rigorous Existence.
"Life has been hard for us always," says 82-year-old Dominick Harte, the oldest resident. "I hope the children now growing up will be spared the same rigors." Eleven of Inishmurray's inhabitants are more than 60 years old and 25 others are under 14. Most of the families are very poor, though their low, thatched cottages—all on the landward side—are invariably neat. For three months each year the main means of livelihood is lobster fishing. After that the poorest people must depend on their small fields of grain and potatoes and on the small income from old-age pensions and relief. Now most of the breadwinners have left and young people leave the island every year. Michael Waters, 72-year-old acknowledged leader of the community, has sent all his family to jobs on the mainland.

Why VICK'S VapoRub Is So Good For Relieving Miseries of Childrens Colds.
More than two generations ago—in grandmother's day—mothers first discovered Vicks VapoRub. Today it is the most widely used home-remedy for relieving miseries of children's colds. And here is the reason... The moment you rub VapoRub on the throat, chest and back at bedtime it starts to work two ways at once—and keeps on working for hours—to ease coughing spasms, help clear congestion in cold-clogged upper breathing passages, relieve muscular soreness or tightness. It promotes restful sleep. Often most of the misery of the cold is gone by morning! That's why VapoRub is so good to use when colds strike. Try it!

PROSPERITY

must be PRODUCED

It cannot be Purchased

... it seems to me that a number of popular beliefs that have taken hold of public imagination in recent years — far from being a help — are now an absolute hindrance to a clear-sighted appreciation of the fundamentals of progress and welfare. "One example, which to my mind is of very practical significance, is the still-prevalent idea that purchasing power, rather than production, is the mainspring of employment, income and material well-being. ... it should surely be clearly evident that, under present conditions, where the supply of money ... is about two and a half times what it was at the beginning of the war, purchasing power is a problem of excess, rather than scarcity. "Money is, after all, a claim on the productive resources of the community. And one of the immediate and urgent tasks confronting this nation is to put a sound foundation of production under the purchasing power already in existence. ... we cannot, as a people, become wealthier simply by obtaining more money for producing the same or less ... no device or formula can produce wealth and well-being without work, enterprise and the assurance of reward."

GEORGE W. SPINNEY, President.

WORKING WITH CANADIANS IN EVERY WALK OF LIFE SINCE 1817

Veteran Blames Mother-in-Law.
HAMILTON, Ont., Nov. 30.—A bewildered war veteran—Elliott Ginter, 46—returned to his job today wondering what his next move would be. He holds a court order, believed first of its kind in Canada, restraining his warlike and her mother from taking his three-year-old child back to England. After obtaining the court order yesterday, Ginter sought the aid of police and United States immigration authorities to serve it on his 30-year-old wife, formerly Dorothy Fox of Morden, Surrey, Eng. However, Ginter said he learned from a reliable source that she may have sailed from either Halifax or New York today. Referring to the possible sailing, William Schreiber, Ginter's solicitor said: "If that's the case there is nothing we can do about it. The court order was good only in Ontario." "It's all mother-in-law trouble" said the war veteran who was awarded home in 1944. "We were getting alone fine until my wife's mother arrived from England last June. Then came a strike where I worked. I was on picket duty and they were not satisfied when I brought home picket welfare vouchers. "I went out of town for a couple of days to try and find extra work to help out. When I returned I was charged with desertion." A welfare worker, Jean McTaggart, said today that Ginter was served with a summons sworn out by his wife but that it was dismissed in court. First intimation that Ginter received of his wife's departure was yesterday when a neighbor telephoned him at work to tell him a coal truck with the name covered was hauling things away from his home.
