REAL SALE BARGAINS IN COATS AND SUITS—The habit of buying clothes from merchants in whom you have no reason to have personal confidence is a poor habit. It puts you on the defensive. It demands of you more expert knowledge of clothing values than the average man has time to acquire. McLellan Bros. are reputable and dependable clothiers and everybody has confidence in them. Sale bargains there are therefore real bargains. Buy now. 3399-1-11mtl

THE KING MAY BE HERE—An Ottawa despatch in the Toronto World conveys the welcome intelligence that King George and Prince of Wales are this year expected to make a tour of the Empire's Overseas Dominions, and Canada will first be honored by the Royal visit. The arrangements are for a review of the touring British Fleet at Quebec, May 23rd. Of course, much depends upon the settlement of European affairs at the Peace Conference but if all goes well, the King and Prince will reach the Dominion in May. May we not hope says an exchange, that Halifax, St. John and Charlottetown will be included in the Royal Tour. Such a glad event would bring multitudes of people to these busy centres. It is within the bounds of probability that Washington may get a glimpse of the King and the heir apparent to the British throne.

FOX MEN'S MEETING—The activities of the Fox Caretakers Association; organized last fall were somewhat interrupted owing to the flu epidemic and also to the fact that many of the members were busy preparing their furs for market. Now that their difficulties have been removed they are preparing for their regular weekly meetings. On Thursday of next week Mr. James Tuplin of Black Banks, the best known fox man on the Island will address the meeting and give the members many useful hints from his experience.

HALLELUJAH WEDDING—The St. John Telegraph of the 9th says: The Salvation Army does nothing by halves, and believing that a marriage is an occasion for rejoicing the Hallelujah wedding of Capt. Sydney Bolton and Lieut. Mildred Burton, in the Army Citadel last evening, was made a very cheery event by lusty singing; hearty laughter and many quick and witty repartees, speeches were made by the bride and groom and their supporters, and by other officers of the army. The ceremony was performed by Brigadier Joseph Barr, most impressively and there was a large gathering in the Citadel. The full band of the army assisted with the music. The groom's supporter, Captain MacTavish, told of his first meeting with the groom six and a half years ago when the groom was his officer and he himself was thinking of becoming an officer. It was his privilege to be the groom's friend and he hoped that they would be firmer friends as he held Captain Bolton to be a very earnest and good worker for the cause. Captain Beatrice Millard, the bridesmaid, voicing her appreciation of the bride and her pleasure in her affection, said she always lost those she learned to love. Somebody else came along and took them. She was told there was
