

BRIGADIER ADBY AT THE ARMY CITADEL

One of the most hearty meetings ever held in the Salvation Army Citadel in this city was that held last night on the occasion of the visit of Brigadier Adby who delivered an address.

Brigadier Adby is a brilliant speaker, an accomplished vocalist and an earnest laborer in Army interests; following in the footsteps of his honored leader General Booth.

Fred J. Nash presided at last night's meeting and with him on the platform were Hon. G. E. Hughes, Col. F. S. Moore, S. A. McDonald, R. H. Jenkins, W. H. Acorn and others.

The Brigadier, after an introduction by the chairman, and after a prayer by Mrs. Adby, sang by request two solos and was called to the platform.

He then began an interesting re-lecture of the Army, in which he was more particularly interested than any of the sinners and early preachers of the Army was organized 27 years ago by Gen Booth and the opposition met with afforded opportunities for the assertion of the spirit and will of the indomitable General.

Hissing and even spitting, frequent arrest of officers for addressing street meetings, rough handling by lawyers, all these were oppositions encountered. General Booth was a Methodist minister and resigning, went to White Chapel, England, and there in a tent held his first meetings. This spot is now marked by a monument. The tent was blown down but the General's will found a way and the good work proceeded. He received the encouragement of his wife and his destiny dated from that time. The name "The Salvation Army" was then adopted and brown bonnets and white ribbons were part of the "Ladies" costumes.

He told of the General's first conversion, "stoker Jack," who died three weeks ago. Public opinion has changed and now its very opposition at the outset has given it an impetus today.

The speaker referred in detail, sprinkling his remarks with anecdotes of actual experiences to the expansion of the Army to Australia and its earliest stages in that commonwealth. Also its institution in Sweden, India, Korea and Japan. The Army is now in 56 countries and its teachings are professed in 37 languages.

He described the man's social work in the Army; the motto "feed the hungry and preach;" and the conditions under which officers worked. Then he told of the women's work, telling of the originator of the homes for the fallen, who is at present in Smith's Falls and a personal acquaintance of his. 10,000 women passed through these homes last year. The men's shelters were an active part of the organization, always open to inspection. He referred to the prison gate work where so much good work was done to ex-convicts in giving them a new start in life.

He spoke of the work in Zululand where officers saw no white man for four years at a time. He closed earnestly claiming that the Army realized that while there was life in a man there was good in him and the grace of God would develop that good and work the salvation of his soul.

He was followed by Col. Moore, G. E. Hughes and R. H. Jenkins, the latter respectively moving and seconding a vote of thanks and all three expressing a great appreciation of the work of the Army here.

ONTARIO WOMAN TO HANG FOR MURDER OF HER HUSBAND

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., May 9.—Angelina Napolitana, an Italian woman, was found guilty this afternoon of the murder of her husband on Easter Sunday last, and was sentenced to be hanged on August 29. She is 28 years of age and will receive a mother within two months.

U. McFadden, counsel for the prisoner, made a strong plea, claiming that the husband had been creating the woman with desertion; she did not resort to prostitution to obtain money for him.

Y. C. Meredith, for the crown, said the woman in her own evidence admitted having lived with a man named Nish for a week while her husband was absent. Justice Britton charged strongly against the prisoner.

Mrs. Napolitana murdered her husband with an axe as he lay sleeping in his bed. She gave herself up and affirmed that she had killed her husband because he had ill-treated her.

NEGRO MURDER

I. C. R. STATION AT MONCTON WAS ROBBED

MONCTON, May 14.—A daring robbery was performed at the I. C. R. station at noon Saturday, while Ticket Agent Lynds was absent at dinner. The thief gained entrance to the ticket office through a ventilator and then with a piece of cash drawer and extracted one hundred and sixty-two dollars of the contents.

When Lynds returned after dinner he found the cash box on the floor and about a dollar in change, which the thief had apparently overlooked. Examination showed the tracks of the thief in the dust over the trap door, and he must have been a small man or boy, as the boot mark was only 8 inches long, and a large man could not have got through the opening. During the noon hour a sensation was created at the station by a drunken man rolling off the station, which is not very high. The man was not very station he was found to have only about three dollars in his possession. It is thought his fall from the roof may have been a ruse and that the robbery was carried out by a pal while the people in the station came out side. The matter is now in the hands of the I. C. R. police.

SHOT DEAD WHILE KISSING FIANCE

BROWNVILLE, Pa., May 14.—The loving good-night kiss of John Bosso and his bride-to-be, Santi Petronio, silhouetted against the window curtain in the kitchen of the girl's parents' home in Dearth, three miles from here, last night, furnished a target for Mosti Filiangan, the girl's rejected suitor. With a magazine gun he fired two shots at the couple. At the first shot both man and girl fell. The second shot went wild.

The first bullet penetrated Bosso's back, ploughed through his heart and emerging made a slight flesh wound in the girl's breast.

After the shooting, the slayer dropped the weapon in the road and hastened to his boarding house, where he took his valise and disappeared. A number of the deputy sheriffs began a search which was kept up all night.

The shooting was witnessed by a number of countrymen of the principals, but Filiangan succeeded in eluding them when they gave chase. Months ago, Filiangan, who boarded at the home of Joe Petronio, saw a picture of the pretty daughter of his boarding boss. She was then in Italy.

Filiangan, smitten with the charms of the girl in the picture, had his boarding boss write to her. In this way he was introduced. He proposed marriage, was accepted and sent her money to come to the United States. Three months ago the girl arrived at Dearth.

She was not well pleased with Filiangan and she postponed the marriage. Finally she met John Bosso, a dapper young Americanized Italian. The girl fell in love with him and later Bosso moved to the Petronio home. Filiangan moved out.

A few days ago she accepted Bosso's proposal of marriage in the church last Sunday.

GREAT MEN VIEWED THROUGH OWN EYES

WASHINGTON, May 12.—The new Congressional Directory was issued yesterday. Representative Theron Aiken, of New York, who is rated in this publication as a democrat, although he says he is a "progressive republican," failed to hold it up. The correction will be made in new edition soon to be published. The autobiographies of new members furnish interesting matter. Many of these men prefer the Directory shall show them as they see themselves and not as others see them.

Representative Adam Brown, Littlepage, a democrat from West Virginia, says of himself: "He bears the reputation of being a very grateful man, never forgetting a kindness, and is faithful in his friendships and thoroughly reliable. He stands for the under man in life. Works hard, late and early, as a Congressman and is reflecting credit upon the country by his manly, conservative, and wise course in Washington as a representative of all the people. He is a patriotic man, of ability and fine qualities of mind and heart."

Of Representative George Konig, of Maryland, it is set forth: "He is married and lives with his wife and children. Representative Caleb Powers, of Kentucky, tells how he was "persecuted" following the murder of William Goebel "by an unknown assassin."

JOHN'S, Que., May 13.—After a night of complete darkness the electric-lighting plant having fallen a prey to the flames which yesterday afternoon swept the residential section of the town St. John's today estimated its loss in the conflagration at $75,000. Special to The Guardian. LONDON, May 15.—It is by no means certain that further progress of the Woman Suffrage Bill during the present session of Parliament will be refused by the Government.

Although Premier Asquith is reluctant to facilitate the progress of the bill, he may recognize the tactical advantages of passing it into the Lords, where it will be rejected.

By that means the active hostility of the Militant Suffragettes would be reflected from the Government and turn down the Lords.

LONDON, May 15.—The presence of the German Emperor, Empress and their daughter Victoria Louise, whom rumor says is to be given in marriage to the Prince of Wales at King George's dedication of the Great Victoria Memorial and the opening of the Festival of Empire tomorrow, marks the beginning of three months merrymaking with which the British Empire will celebrate the coronation of the King and Queen in June, incidentally putting millions of dollars into the pockets of British tradesmen.

ANNEXATION OF BAHAMA ISLANDS

There are no negotiations whatever, was the Finance Minister's response. We are cognizant of the request of the Bahamas and the Prime Minister will discuss the matter with the Colonial Office, but there is absolutely nothing official yet.

CANADA'S GREAT FOREST RESERVE

OTTAWA, May 9.—The commons spent nearly the whole of today's sitting in putting Hon. Frank Oliver's bill respecting dominion forest reserved and parks in Western Canada.

The minister of the interior informed the house that it was the intention of the government to materially extend the scope of the forestry branch of the department. The question of scientific and economic reforestation was being studied in all its phases with a view to practical application to the existing conditions particularly in the west.

The administration had set before it the aim to conserve and reproduce by a proper harvesting of the mature timber crop, the encouragement of young growth and the protection of sources of water supply.

Before adjournment the house passed the government bill providing for an extension for one year of the present subsidized steamship service on the Atlantic and the Pacific from Great Britain to Japan. The Canadian government shares with the Imperial government the subsidy obligation.

Special to The Guardian. LIBSON, May 15.—According to a communication from the Vatican, the Pope has concluded an examination of the Separation Law and absolutely condemns it, but will await before expressing his opinion officially, in the hope that the provisional Government alters some of the most stringent clauses, especially concerning interference by the Government with the clergy's canonical rights which wholly appertain to the church.

It provides that none of these articles shall be conveyed from one place to another, or kept in an open window or doorway outside of any building unless covered with clean material, or placed so as to be efficiently protected from dust, flies, animals and all other contaminating influences. Provision is also made for the cleanliness of the places in which articles of food are offered for sale, and for the wearing of clean outer garments by persons engaged in the handling of the food. SEES FINGER PRINTS AND PLEADS GUILTY

NEW YORK, May 12.—In the sensational termination yesterday of the case of Cesare J. Cella, who went to trial as Charles Crisp, charged with unlawfully entering the office of M. M. Bernstein & Bros., manufacturers of ladies' garments early on the morning of February 23, last, the latest science of apprehending criminals, namely, by means of finger prints, was completely vindicated. Cella pleaded guilty after seeing the evidence, although based solely upon her finger prints. This marks a new era in the criminal courts, as the initial conviction of this nature ever obtained in the United States. There is recorded only one other such conviction, and that was in Dublin about five years ago, it is said.

Cella was arrested following the finding of a finger print in the files of the Bertillon bureau at police headquarters by Lieut. Faurot, the finger print expert in charge of the bureau, which corresponded to a couple of finger impressions discovered on a pane of glass which the burglars had removed in gaining an entrance to the loft.

Cella's confession came after a crowd of witnesses had sworn him a strong alibi. "I want you to tell me the whole story," said the judge. "How is that if you are guilty you had all these witnesses? How is that with so perfect an alibi you plead guilty?"

"Why no man could stand to see those finger prints without giving up the fight," answered the prisoner. "I guess everybody that saw them knew I was guilty. The witnesses thought they were telling the truth. They saw me come home and go to bed, but they did not know I sneaked out afterwards."

Cella was remanded for sentence until May 19. After the jury had been discharged five of the jurymen said they would have convicted on the evidence of the finger prints alone, and seven regarded Bertillon evidence as inconclusive.

THE HEART OF A FRIEND

A heart that is glad when your heart is gay, And true in the time of care; That halves the trials of a fretful day, And doubles the joys that it shares. A heart that can cheer your heart with its song, And comfort your hour of need; A heart that is brave and faithful and strong, Wherever misfortune may lead. A heart that is yours when the way seems dark, And yours in sunshine too; A heart that cares not for rank or mark, But only the heart of you. A heart that will shield when others abuse, The name that it knows is fair, That would rather miss fortune and fame than lose a friend that is dear. A heart that will bear no ill of you, But is ever quick to defend; A heart that is always true, steel true, Such is the heart of a friend.
