ONTARIO

nowdrifts for the night.

Worst of many highway accidents occurred late today near Niagara Falls, Ont., when three trucks, a motor car and a passenger bus were involved in a smashup that injured 13 persons, two critically. The accident occurred during a blinding snowstorm.

In virtually all parts of the Province the blizzard was described as one of the worst in years. Highway traffic was completely halted in many parts of Western Ontario as wind-blown snow filled in roads.

Cove Forms Huge Pound

DEER ISLAND, N. B., Dec. 26 —(CP) —At Kellogg's Cove, on this Passamaquoddy Bay, island, nature and man have combined to build what is believed to be the largest lobster pound in the world.

Three sides of the pound are protected by land and ledges. Only the opening had to be fenced. Almost a quarter of a mile long and 150 yards wide, the pound can be drained at low tide.

Three dams extend across the cove, forming sections for lobsters of different size. Floodgates and a sluiceway are used in draining the pound.

Many of the lobsters purchased in the Maritime Provinces are brought here before marketing. Frequently, instead of draining, the lobsters are seined from the pound.

11 VIOLENT DEATHS IN ONTARIO

TORONTO, Dec. 26—Eleven persons died from traffic accidents in Ontario during the three-day Christmas holiday. Five of them died in two accidents involving a train and a radial car.

True Spirit Of Christmas

NEW GLASGOW, N. S., Dec. 26—(CP)—A New Glasgow family of seven, the father unemployed, was made happy Christmas Day through the generosity of the clerks of a business establishment of this town.

Every year, clerks of the store had given gifts among themselves. This year, they all agreed to collect the money and rather than give each other presents, make the day a joyous one for some destitute family. They did so, with their employer's assistance, and enough food was purchased to keep the family for a week.

Major W. Bexton of the Salvation Army found the family and made the presentation of meats, vegetables, groceries, and Christmas novelties.

Major Bexton declared it was one of the "truest examples of the Christmas spirit I have ever seen, a living tribute of the truth that it is more blessed to give than to receive."

Air Defence Directed To The Caribbean

(By Devon Francis, Associated Press Aviation Editor)

NEW YORK, Dec. 27—Much of the attention being lavished by the armed services of the United States on national air defence is directed to the Caribbean Sea where within a decade airports have been tailor-made for protection of the Panama Canal.

The Caribbean and its numerous islands are regarded in military circles as both a threat and a promise to the safety of the canal, strategically the most important waterway with respect to the United States.

10,000 Warplanes

If the new Congress authorizes purchase of 10,000 new warplanes, which the administration is said to have under consideration as part of the rearmament program, some of the equipment will be assigned to Caribbean and canal defence.

The canal is vital to the defence scheme, of course, because it provides for quick transfer of the United States fleet from one seacoast to the other.

Warplanes, as auxiliaries of the fleet, are vital to the defence of the Caribbean Islands on which an enemy might establish bases from which to bomb not only the canal but points in continental United States as well.

In 1928-29, when Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh made his goodwill tour of Latin America, he reported that only seven fields in all the Caribbean area were safe for landing.

Today there are 36 land and seaplane bases. Most are commercial bases, built specifically for the use of Pan American Airways. Though established for the one purpose, they can in emergency be turned to military use.

In token of the importance which the armed services attach to Caribbean air bases, the Government is considering enlargement of the Pan American Airways base in Puerto Rico.

The most important of the armed squadron bases in the Caribbean proper is that of the navy at Guatanamo, Cuba.

SUSPECTS HELD IN BLACKMAIL OF SWINDLER

Round-up Of Extortionists In Coster-Musica Affair Underway.

(By WILLIAM S. WHITE
Associated Press Staff Writer)

NEW YORK, Dec. 27—(AP)—The United States Government late today began a roundup of the shadowy company of men suspected of extorting money from the late F. Donald Coster-Musica, indicted President of McKesson and Robbins, Incorporated, who had cried out against blackmailers in a note before his suicide Dec. 16.

The first suspect taken into custody was Walter H. Cragg, a disbarred lawyer convicted of grand larceny in 1914, who was charged specifically with using the mails to defraud and acting in concert with others for that purpose.

Others Charged

Two others were identified by Gregory Noonan, United States District Attorney, as Mary Brandino and her brother, Joseph. The Brandinos, Noonan added, were charged with the same offences as was Cragg. They were said by Federal investigators to have been associated with Coster-Murica in a Brooklyn drug business in 1920. Other arrests were ordered.

Coster-Musica, who shot himself to death in his Connecticut country mansion in the midst of scandalous disclosures concerning an $18,000,000 overstatement of assets in his firm, left a long letter, published posthumously, blaming "Wall Street plunder and blackmail" for his difficulties—"as God is my Judge."

He did not directly connect this "blackmail" with his past as convict Philip Musica—or admit he was Musica—but Noonan has said that at least eight persons preyed upon the swindler by knowledge of his old life.

As Noonan went on with this phase of the investigation, John H. McGloon, a McKesson and Robbins Vice President in charge of accounting, acknowledged that Coster-Musica's secret and damaging operations within the corporation perhaps could have been brought to light by other officials, but added:

"We were cautious and slow in what we did. We did not know for sure that anything was wrong and we did not want to be left out on a limb."

Brenda Frazier Is Year's Top "Glamor Girl"

NEW YORK, Dec. 27—(CP)—Brenda Diana Duff Frazier, widely publicized as Americas No. 1 debutante "glamor girl" of 1938, and a granddaughter of Sir Frederrick Williams-Taylor formerly of Montreal, made her formal bow to society tonight in a Neo-Byzantine setting of gold and moonlight at the Ritz-Carlton Hotel.

Before as assemblage of 1,200 guests, with two orchestras playing continuously from 10.30 P. M. to dawn, the slender, 17-year-old Brenda was the central figure against a background of mirrors, white ostrich-feather Christmas tree, and exotic red and white flowers washed by roving spotlights. Brenda is the daughter of Mrs. Frederick N. Watriss and the late Frank Duff Frazier.

Unofficial estimates of the cost of the "coming out" party, the major year-end event of the season, ranged as high as $50,000.

As a spectacle, the trioled "400" beaux and belles said it topped anything in recent years, but fell considerably short of Barbara Hutton's four-orchestra debut in 1930 with its $50,000 bill for decorations alone, or the even more spectacular 1929 debut of Natalie Coe, who had the Ritz-Carlton ballroom transformed into a southern plantation, complete with mimosa, cotton-field and plunking banjoes.

As an innovation, Brenda had an "Anti-hangover" bar as well as three champagne and scotch bars, stocked on a scale of two bottles of champagne for every three persons —with heavy reserves. At the "A-H" bar over-exhilirated guests were served a half-pint of milk and half-bottle of soda pop and were assured that by downing the fizzy mixture the perennial dilemma of the morning after would be minimized, at least.

Most-Injured Man Back In Hospital

NEW WATERFORD, N.S., Dec. 26 —(CP) —Nicholas Banville, the much injured New Waterford coal miner, is suffering from the third broken bone he received while working in Dominion Coal Company's No. 12 colliery in less than a year.

His first injury was a broken right leg, sustained just under a year ago. A week after he returned to work he was back in hospital again. This time it was a collar bone fractured.

Only five weeks ago, the unfortunate collier returned to the working face. Then, stepping over a piece of mining equipment, he landed under a fall of stone. He was fortunate to escape with his life, but his leg was broken—and it was his "good" one at that.

EYSTON HONORED

PARIS —(CP) —Captain G. E. T. Eyston, holder of the world's land speed record of 357.50 miles and hour, was presented with the Cross of a Knight of the Legion of Honor at a luncheon here recently.

British Labor Leader Dies

LIVERPOOL, Dec. 27 —(CP) — Sir James Sexton, veteran of the British Labor movement, died today aged 82. He was a former general secretary of the National Union of Dock Workers and president of the Trades Union Congress. The knighthood was conferred upon him in 1931.

At the age of 13 he went to sea as a stowaway and was shanghaied in San Francisco. He was a member of the crew that made a perilous journey from Egypt to Britain with the huge "Cleopatra's Needle' aboard their ship. It was placed on the Thames embankment in London.

As a poet, Sir James wrote under the name of "Tatters M. P." and after being knighted told an interviewer to "cut out the 'Sir,' I am still Jimmy Sexton who worked as a dock laborer, glad to draw his 15 bob (shillings) a week."

But he was proud of the honor which he regarded as a tribute to the dock workers he led for half a century. It came in recognition of many years of work, particularly in Liverpool, to "lift the bottom dog out of the slough of despond."

David Lloyd George once described Sir James as leading the "rich life of a poor man." He was born in Newcastle in 1856 of Irish parents.

Winnipeg Singer Gets Chance For Fame And Fortune

WINNIPEG, Dec. 27 —(CP)— Andrew Thurston, 23-year-old Winnipeg clerk, seeks a backer to finance him while he realizes a life's ambition. He wants to be a famous singer and Rich Boneli, Metropolitan opera baritone, has offered him a chance.

Mr. Boneli, after hearing him sing here, has offered him free singing lessons with one of the best teachers in Los Angeles if Andrew can find someone to pay his living expenses.

"With proper training he has possibilities of a great baritone voice," said the opera star. "He has exceptional quality."

Andrew has never had a singing lesson in his life.

"I've been singing ever since I was old enough to make a noise," he told reporters. "I've been singing all the music I could lay my hnads on."

Right now he is selling shirts and socks in a local department store and there is no place to practice at his boarding house.

"I go out in the hall sometimes and try—so far, there have been no comolaints," said Andrew.

Born in Winnipeg, he was left an orphan when he was 14 years old. Educated in St. Boniface College he sang as a boy soprano in the college choir.

Mother Studies In High School

VANCOUVER, Dec. 27 —(CP)— Planning for "a more abundant life", Mrs. June Rothe of Vancouver is attending high school with her two children.

Mrs. Rothe, known as "June" to the 1,500 students at King Edward High School, is taking a full matriculation course and is in her fourth year.

"I am going to school because I wish to broaden my background, to be able to live a more abundant life," she said. "Not just to help my children. I hope neither of them is so dumb as to need help."

She may continue her studies at university and wants to be able to speak and read about five languages.

Mrs. Rothe helps her husband operate a beauty shop between studies and housekeeping duties.

Plans Campaign For Employment

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27—(AP)— Members of the United States Congress, who soon must tackle the relief problem again, heard with interest today that Commerce Secretary Hopkins is considering a national campaign to find jobs in private industry for the unemployed.

Most of the legislators reserved comment, however, until they could learn more about what the new cabinet minister has in mind.

It was learned that Hopkins has sounded out several leaders of the business world about a drive to create a "re-employment psychology."

Just how this might be done was not disclosed. Well-informed persons said, however, that study of the possibility had progressed to the point where a fairly definite program has been outlined—one that could be undertaken within a few weeks so as to take advantage of the expected seasonal upturn in business next spring.

TO CURE YOUR CHILD OF NAIL-BITING

The nail-biter is almost invariably highly strung and excitable in temperament and seems to find a soothing outlet in the habit of biting the nails often almost down to the quick.

The disturbed nerves must therefore receive treatment. The daily routine should be revised so that it is made perfectly regular and free from disturbance, and time should be given for extra rest; or an earlier betime should be arranged.

Meals should be strengthening but without any tax on the digestion, and the parent must insist on regular habits of elimination.

The nails themselves should be pared very short, then filed so that there are no ragged edges, and older children should wear gloves when reading or when sitting quietly.

Trappers Adopt Modern Methods

(C. P. by Guardian's Special Wire)

EDMONTON, Dec. 27—Canada's oldest business — trapping — has been "streamlined" through use of the airplane and wireless. The swift drama of modern methods has replaced the picturesqueness of the canoe and portage.

The majority of the estimated 300 to 400 trappers operated in the North West Territories and remote northern regions of British Columbia, Alberta and Saskatchewan now take full advantage of commercial aviation and widespread radio facilities of the Royal Canadian Corps of Signals.

Each fall Edmonton commercial aviation firms carry north nearly 150 trappers, their dogs, canoes, traps and provisions. Throughout the winter planes call at the trappers' cabins or the nearest post and freight the furs to markets. In the spring the modern coureur de bois are whisked from the loneliness of their trap lines to civilization in a few hours.

Besides eliminating many weeks on the trail to and from the trapping grounds, the airplane enables trappers to locate new ground quickly after old lines have been "trapped out." The plane also makes possible exploration of good territory formerly too removed for economical fur-catching, avoids the danger of losing furs in hazardous trips on swift-running rivers in the spring and allows maketing of furs in prime condition when they bring the highest prices.

Wireless facilities of the R. C. C. S. and the commercial aviation firms bring latest fur prices on the world's markets, and medical aid or provisions quickly when needed.

Some trappers were too enthusiastic about adopting modern facilities and the Dominion Government last year prohibited use of airplanes for actual coverage of the trap lines. Collection of furs by plane threatened to give some a tremendous advantage over those white trappers and indians unable to purchase a machine.

For several years G. C. F. Galziel, mystery man of the isolated Nahanni country, operated a plane over his lines and frequently flew to Edmonton with $10,000 to $15,000 worth of furs. The flying trapper does not own a plane now.

J. H. Mulholland, veteran fur trader, bought a plane in Edmonton, but it was wrecked in a crash before he reached his post north of Fort St. John, B. C. Mulholland was unhurt.

Although the fur business has entered a new era of marketing and trading practice, it is restricted in the North West Territories. Present federal regulations require four years' residence before a person can qualify for a licence.

Keeping pace with the trappers are the fur inspectors who use planes extensively to cover their beats.

Delegates Sign Acts In Closing Lima Conference

LIMA, Dec. 27 —(A P)—The eighth Pan-American Conference characterized by statesmen as the most important meeting ever held among the American Republics, closed tonight.

A plenary session of the delegates who adopted approximately 130 resolutions and declarations, including one of continental solidarity for defence against aggression, heard a farewell address by Dr. Carlos Concha, Peruvian Foreign Minister and chairman of the conference.

The session was held after delegates affixed their signatures to the resolutions and declarations as the final act of the meetings which started Dec. 9.

United States delegates finished their packing this evening preparatory to sailing tomorrow in the Liner Santa Maria.

State Secretary Cordell Hull—who saw the conference come to a decision on acts designed to link American Republics closer in mutual defence, communications and cultural relations—spent a part of the day making farewell visits to other heads of delegations.

One of the most significant events was a farewell meeting of a bloc of 12 countries which developed unexpectedly before the conference and held together throughout.

The meeting was held in the hotel room of Juan J. Remos, Cuban Secretary of State, who played host to heads of delegates of Haiti, the Dominican Republic, Guatemala, Honduras, El Salvador, Nicaragua, Costa Rica, Panama, Mexico, Colombia and Venezuela.

Remos said meetings in that room during the conference had been historic. The bloc, although composed mostly of small states, held a voting majority in the conference and was able to put through its own slates of candidates for key committee positions. It may prove an important factor in future Pan-American relations.

Rich Rewards For Hunters Of Crows

REGINA, Dec. 27 —(CP) — Hunters have failed to garner the richest rewards in the Saskatchewan government's crow destruction campaign.

Thousands of crows have been killed but eight high-priced birds, one of which would bring its executioneer a $500 reward and another $250 are still at liberty.

Prize bands were placed on crows last spring, valued at from $5 to $500 but when the pay-off came at the end of the campaign Dec. 1 only $275 out of a possible $4,500 was awarded.

The $500 crow; two valued at $250 and five at $100 are still "winging around the continent somewhere."

LEAGUE HAS FRESH SERIES OF SETBACKS

Unimpressive List Of New Achievements To Its Credit In 1938.

(By HENRY RUFFIN
Copyright, 1938, by the Havas News Agency)

GENEVA, Dec. 27—(CP-Havas)—The League of Nations, beset by growing difficulties during recent years, suffered fresh setbacks in 1938 and enters the new year with a relatively unimpressive list of new achievements to its credit.

In contrast to the important role played by the Geneva body during the Ethiopian War and other international emergencies of past years, it was ignored when European statesmen settled Europe's gravest post-war crisis, the Czecho-Slovak issue, at Munich in September.

The League suffered a new defection among the ranks of its members. Dissatisfied when its proposals for increasing the universality of the League were not taken into consideration, Chile gave notice of withdrawal, effective two years hence.

Spanish Civil War

The Spanish War again entered the League picture when, acting on the request of Premier Juan Negrin of Spain, the Assembly agreed to dispatch an international military mission to Spain to supervise evacuation of foreign fighters from Government ranks.

Aerial bombing attacks on civilians in Spain and China were scored in debate in the League Assembly, but no important action was taken. The task of draf ing regulations governing the conduct of aerial warfare was entrusted to the steering committee of the disarmament conference, which is only theoretically in session.

On the Far East problem the Council and the Assembly went so far as to urge member states to give individual aid to China and avoid any action which might weaken Chinese resistance.

Having failed to induce Japan—a non-member—to enter into negotiations under article XVII, dealing with disputes between League members and non-members, the Council implicitly recognized the opening of sanctions procedure against Japan under article XVI. This proved merely a gesture however, since it was not followed up with any concrete moves by the Council.

The League's technical activities in the humanitarian and social field continued during the year. The Assembly convoked for 1940 a conference to discuss measures to check the white slave traffic.

Health departments dispatched medical missions and supplies to China. The Assembly voted a credit of 1,750,000 Swiss francs (about $385,000) for such work during 1939.

BIRMINGHAM REHOUSES

REPEAT ON STRAUSS

HELSINKI, Finland —(CP) — It has been decided the Olympic "Hymn" by Richard Strauss, used at the 1936 games in Berlin, will be used again at the Olympics here in 1940.

MR. EDWARD P. LAVERTY

The death occurred in the Charlottetown Hospital Monday of Mr. Edward P. Laverty, a well known and highly resepcted citizen, aged 64 years.

The deceased who was a retired farmer, resided in this city for a number of years. Last fall, accompanied by his wife, he left for Montreal where the latter visited her nephew, Mr. Chas. Leigh, while Mr. Laverty continued on to Lannigan, Sask., to visit his brother Michael.

Not enjoying the best of health, he returned to his Island home, and about three weeks ago entered the Charlottetown Hospital for treatment, to which he failed to respond.

Surviving are his wife, (nee Annie McQuillan), a brother Michael and a sister Mrs. Mary Barton, New Bedford, Mass., to all of whom the Guardian extends sincere sympathy.

Describe Lost Continent Along Atlantic Coast

(By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor)

RICHMOND, Va., Dec. 27—(AP) —You weigh more when in New York, Philadelphia or Washington than in Boston, because there is a buried continent under your feet.

The continent, the lost Appalachia, was described by geologists to the American Association for the advancement of science here today, as it has been discovered recently by seismograph clues.

Its backbone, now sunken hundreds to thousands of feet and buried under subsequent rocks and soil, ran under the three big cities. The mass of this sunken ridge is so great that above it the force of gravitation is slightly high. The difference is too small to be read on scales, or for human senses to detect, But it is found on gravity pendulums, which were described by George P. Woolard of Princeton University.

Appalachia towered high above the earth's surface 500,000,000 years ago. It sank, the seismographs show and in so doing was fractured. Some of its eastern edges, far out to what is now the sea along the Atlantic coast of the United States appear to have broken off completely.

About 60,000,000 years ago mud and sediments formed over the sinking surface. Through millions of years these built up thousands of feet deep and were pressed into rock by their own weight.

Says Mining Town To Be Large City

WINNIPEG, Dec. 27 —(CP) — North West Territories residents think this mining town on Great Slave Lake, 400 miles northeast of Edmonton, will have 15,000 population within a few years, D. R. MacDougall said when he stopped here en route from the north country to Toronto.

In addition surrounding communites are expected to have almost as many residents. "I have been in many mining areas during the past 20 years and I have never seen a field with such tremendous potentialities," he remarked.

Mr. MacDougall thought the principal need was a canal around the "Rapids of the Drowned" on Athabaska River near Fort Smith, N. W. T. This would obviate carrying heavy freight over the 15-mile portage and enable movement of freight to Yellowknife by water for one-half cent a pound. The canal could also provide 275,000 horsepower in electrical energy for the mining area.

Claims Nazis Ruin Culture

WINNIPEG, Dec. 27 —(CP) — Germany is developing into a cultural desert due to "her present Nihilistic revolution," said Dr. Hans Leonhardt, former civic leader in the Free City of Danzig on a visit here.

He said he was forced to flee his home when the Nazis won control of the city last June, though it is still officially under League of Nations administration.

"This revolution is destroying any cultural value Germany has," declared Dr Leonhardt.

He thought Nazi Germany's foreign adventure had only started. Southeastern Europe was ready for a further drive. This did not mean military occupation; it might be done through the spreading of revolutionary movements.

The only hope for democracy in the future lay in a strong combination of democratic nations.

Anti-Christian Efforts Decried

VATICAN CITY, Dec. 27—(CP-Havas)—The Vatican newspaper, 'Osservatore Romano, today decried anti-christian efforts in Soviet Russia and Germany to stifle religious expression on the eve of Christmas celebrations.

Russian atheism has found no "ersatz" (substitute) for the religion it is combatting, the Osservatore remarked, but the same may not be said for the National-Socialist Reich.

"In the National-Socialist world the no less obstinate negation of christianity takes the line of that neo-pagan and pantheistic mysticism which, pretending to protect against atheism, sets itself up as defender of faith and tradition against materialistic Bolshevism and thus lays claim to the gratitude of the very ones it persecutes," it declared.

"This work of religious persecution is still more dangerous because it can lead to error and prove more deceptive than atheism openly proclaimed and admitted."
