EXILED QUEEN OF SPAIN PUTS HOME IN ORDER

Queen Victoria Eugenie, of Spain, has taken a large old house left many directions for its reconstruction before she started for the continent.

The drawing-room, which has a high, decorated ceiling, has been painted entirely in a soft jade green, and the same color has been used for the adjoining square conservatory, which overlooks a small garden, now being redesigned by gardeners from St. Albans.

The dining-room in the front of the house is being modernized and its ceiling is being reconstructed.

The Queen's own apartment, now a soft rose, is to be altered, and one of her daughters will occupy a bedroom that has been painted entirely in white. Many new bathrooms are being introduced and the most up-to-date lighting devices installed.

Queen Victoria Eugenie is to bring some of her furniture from abroad, and her new London home will accommodate various personal treasures that have been brought from the former royal palaces at San Sebastian and Santander, where the Spanish monarch and her consort lived informally.

Yachtsmen Of S' side Plan Big Season

The monthly meeting of the Summerside Yacht Club was held last evening in the Town Hall. Commodore Campbell presiding. There was a very large attendance of members. Arrangements were discussed for this season's races. A canvass will be made in the near future for new members as every-thing points to a gala season.

Those present were most enthusiastic over the reorganization of the club which has already brought results with three new boats underway which will be ready for the water by June. Everything points to a revival of the sport which was popular in Summerside a decade or so ago. The club hope that the public will cooperate in making the venture a success.

Commodore Campbell read a letter he had received from Mr. T. B. Grady now in Florida congratulating the club on its reorganization and giving a report of yachting in those parts. The letter was accompanied by sketches of the yachts. By a unanimous vote Mr. Grady was made honorary commodore of the club. Mr. Grady retired superintendent of the P. E. I. railway, was a former resident of Summerside and owner of some of the fastest craft that ever sailed on Summerside Harbor.—S

Scrip Venture Is Abandoned

EDMONTON, April 7.—(CP)—Scrip venture of Alberta's Social Credit government has been abandoned and it is expected the $12,000 of outstanding prosperity certificates will be redeemed within the next two weeks.

Provincial Treasurer Solon Low announced today the certificate plan had been abandoned. No scrip had been issued, however, for several months and none had been in circulation since a large percentage was redeemed by the Government last Autumn.

The prosperity bonds were issued last August in $1 denominations by the Government of Premier Aherhart with the hope of increasing purchasing power of the Alberta people. Certificate holders were to affix a special one per cent stamp each week.

BIRDS AND VEILS

One of the newest ideas for evening is to have a little feather bird, or even two small ones on top of your well-dressed hair. There are glided birds, silver birds, black and white birds.

For those who want to wear one head ornament with several different colored frocks there are lovely little bandeaux, with different colored birds flying around. These would be very easy to copy. You could buy little feathered wings or pads that are used to trim hats.

Choose a color that will be most useful, or several colors that tone. Suppose we take two black, two white and two green. Sew them to one another on a narrow piece of elastic which is just long enough to fit comfortably round your head. Put the elastic under your curls at the back and let the feathers stand up across the top. It really does look attractive.

If you are small and want something rather demure looking a spray of golden leaves around your head will give the right effect.

If you want to make a really lovely veil you could sew sequins all around the edge—it makes it sparkle attractively and gives it weight, so that it does not flutter off the head.

Veils are quite easy to make. Buy some fine black lace or veiling at least 27 inches wide and cut a circle 24 inches across the middle. The easiest way to cut a circle is to get a piece of string the right length. Pin the middle of it to the middle of the lace you are going to use, then move the two ends of the string round like the pins of a compass, putting pins into the lace as you go. All you have to do is to cut right round where the pins are and you have a perfect circle.

A smart woman recently wore a black evening frock with a wide ermine coat over it, and on her head she had a black spotted veil, just covering her nose, the crowning point being a little white feather bird on top of the veil.

It looked for all the world as if it had flown on to the veil, had found it comfy, and decided to stop there.

QUEEN MARY HOLDS PUBLIC AFFECTION

(By The Canadian Press) LONDON, April 7.—Since her move from Buckingham Palace to Marlborough House, Queen Mary has sought to return more and more to private life. But the people seem unwilling to let her go.

In deference to her wishes they did not gather outside her house during the December crisis, nor was mention made of her comings and goings in the press. Yet crowds now collect whenever she goes shopping.

Though her Majesty is the first Queen Mother in recent history to attend the Coronation of a son, as she plans to do May 12, it is understood she wishes to efface herself as much as possible. She is deliberately placing herself in the background but spontaneous public demonstrations of affection make that difficult. Crowds wave handkerchiefs and cheer from Boston to the King and Queen Elizabeth appear, but there is a particularly deep spontaneity to the greetings for Queen Mary.

"She has been with us so long and through so much," was the comment of one of the exhibiting manufacturers regarding a typical reception given Queen Mary at the British Industries Fair.

Lindberghs On German Visit

(A.P. by Guardian's Special Wire) MUNICH, Germany, April 7.—Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh landed at Oberwiesenthal airfield at 8 p.m. (3 p.m. AST) last night.

The Lindberghs spent last night at the Bayerischer Hof Hotel where they declined to receive interviewers. It was indicated they made no forced landing yesterday and had no engine trouble.

They took off from Zagreb, Yugoslavia yesterday morning and flew here. Col. Lindbergh spent today superintending the overhaul of his machine and had the tanks refilled with gasoline for the expected resumption of the flight tomorrow. Destination was unknown.

Coronation Day Program Planned For Summerside

The Civic Committee with Councilor J. M. Nicholson as chairman, met last evening in the Council Chamber to discuss plans for the fitting celebration of Coronation Day by the Town. Mayor Robinson and councillors were present.

It was decided to call a general meeting of the different organizations and other public bodies on Tuesday next at 7.30 to discuss ways and means and outline the program. It was suggested that the celebrations begin in the morning at the High School when addresses will be given on the significance of the day and what it means to the British Empire. Other fitting celebrations will be held throughout the day details of which will be arranged at Tuesday's meeting.

It is understood that the Summerside branch of the Canadian Legion will give a dance in the High School auditorium that evening.

Auto Industry Probe Extended

OTTAWA, April 7.—(CP)—The Tariff Board disclosed tonight it had received instructions from Finance Minister Dunning to continue its investigation of the automobile industry on which it rendered a report last month.

The Board, acting on the Finance Minister's instructions, made an extensive investigation into the automobile schedules of the Tariff before the 1936 budget with the result a large number of reductions were recommended which that budget put into effect.

Following those reductions the board was instructed by Mr. Dunning to continue its observations to ascertain how the lower schedule worked out. The board made those observations during the past year and recommended further reductions contained in last month's report, which will be moved by the Finance Minister as amendments to the budget.

SLAYER STILL ELUDES POLICE

(A.P. by Guardian's Special Wire) HERSCHEY, Pa., April 7.—Several thousand angry farmers and "loyal" men and women workers of the Hershey Chocolate Corporation drove more than 1,000 sit-down strikers from the vine-covered factory today after bloody battle.

Twenty-five of the combatants were attended at a hospital. Nearly as many more were taken to physicians or removed to their homes. Most of the victims had battered heads, bruised bodies and fractured arms or legs.

Women joined sides in the fighting and added their screams to the shouting of the men.

Several times the rioting spread to the broad lawns where both sides gained recruits from the thousands of onlookers who blocked all traffic and shouted encouragement to those battling on the inside.

Injured In Fall From Moving Train

Believed to be suffering from a slight fracture of the skull Mr. Gilbert Finnan would be taken to the Prince County Hospital today for treatment, it was announced last night. Mr. Finnan was believed to have received his injuries when he fell from the western train about half a mile east of O'Leary Tuesday night. The injured man is thought to have walked into O'Leary and slept during the night in a barn, where he was discovered yesterday morning. Finnan boarded the west bound train at Coleman with a ticket for O'Leary, the next station. Members of the train crew did not see him fall from the train nor did they notice that he did not alight at O'Leary with other passengers.

SLAYER STILL ELUDES POLICE

(A.P. by Guardian's Special Wire) NEW YORK, April 7.—Descriptions of Robert Irwin, 29-year-old sculptor and former divinity student wanted for questioning in connection with the triple Easter morning slayings on Beekman Hill, flashed across the United States tonight as New York police expressed fear he may have fled the city.

The fugitive, sought from Boston to the Pacific coast and from Florida to the Canadian border, was described by Assistant Chief Inspector John A. Lyons as a dangerous maniac who might become violent if cornered.

While continuing to withhold evidence he said linked Irwin with the crime, Lyons declared he was young sculptor about the talented "Ronnie" Gedeon, beautiful artist's model and her mother, and the stabbing of Frank Byrnes, a lodger in their east 50th street apartment. All three were found dead Easter Sunday.

The search spread westward when investigators learned that Irwin had studied sculpture in Hollywood and had travelled through western and midwestern States, as well as through the south.

Tweedsmuir Up On Carnations Knows Flowers

RIDEAU HALL GARDENER TELLS OF VICE-REGAL FLORAL PREFERENCES DURING PAST 10 YEARS.

(By Margaret Bruce) (Canadian Press Staff Writer) OTTAWA, April 7.—The last three vice-regal families have all been interested in gardening and flowers, says A. E. Challis, head gardener at Government House for the past 10 years, but Lord Tweedsmuir is better informed on inside and outside gardening than either of his predecessors. Lady Tweedsmuir is exceptionally kind and considerate with them, donating many blooms to hospitals and other organizations.

"The Governors-General were interested in the greenhouses and garden but not nearly as much as their wives, Mr. Challis says. "You could expect a visit to the greenhouse from Lady Willingdon every day when she was at home."

Mr. Challis started his work at Rideau Hall soon after the Willingdons arrived here. "Lady Willingdon came in the fall, and I came in the spring," he said. Although he could not recall that any of the three chateaux of Rideau Hall had a special preference for any particular flower, Mr. Challis said each had definite color favorites.

Lady Willingdon's preference was for mauve—"mauve carnations, mauve sweet peas and in her bouquet the flowers were always arranged in mauve glass containers." Pink was Lady Bessborough's favorite—"gladioli, snapdragons and carnations. The present mistress of Government House prefers white flowers, lilies, gladioli and gardenias. In fact we never cultivate gardenias at all till her Excellency's arrival. Lady Tweedsmuir likes the plain glass vases for her bouquet."

The three Governors-General during Mr. Challis' time, he said, all favored the boutonniere. "Lord Tweedsmuir comes in every morning for his, usually a dark, crimson carnation. Lord Bessborough was especially fond of boutonnières, were particular to send him one every time he went on a trip. One time while he was in Toronto the two plain clothesmen there felt they should dress the same as the governor general and so both appeared with pink carnations. Lord Willingdon occasionally, but not so often wore a flower in his lapel.

"When the Willingdons left they each planted a maple tree," said Mr. Challis. "Stanley Baldwin and his wife during their visit here we still planted a spruce tree which we call Mr. and Mrs. Baldwin. They are now 20 feet high, growing well and doing fine. During their stay a line of spruce was also planted to represent the cabinet, but they went the way of all cabinets—they had to go out to make way for improvements—they were moved and planted elsewhere.

"There are two spruce trees planted by the King and Queen of Government House. The Duke of Windsor on a visit here as Prince of Wales planted a maple tree, quite near the garden house. All these Siam when they were staying at trees have brass plates with the planter's name engraved." From the six green houses in the winter and the garden in the summer, Mr. Challis supplies fresh-cut flowers for Government House.

Every morning at 9.30 he consults her Excellency's lady-in-waiting and they decide on the flower requirements for the day. The lady-in-waiting arranges the blooms for the houses in bowls and vases. Sometimes as when Lady Willingdon's lady-in-waiting was absent for almost four years, Mr. Challis performed the duty. "I like that almost as much as the actual growing of the flowers," he said. "Lady Willingdon was exceedingly particular. The flowers for lunch never stayed for dinner."

Mr. Challis was born in England and started gardening there when he was 14. "The gardens here cannot compare with those in England, but there they have had centuries of producing flowers, while Canada has only started gardening in the last 50 years," he said.
