ICELAND TO CELEBRATE 100TH ANNIVERSARY KEYSJAVIK, Iceland April 2.—Iceland one of the smallest of nations but the greatest per capita exporting country, is making ready to entertain this summer in honor of the 100th birthday of her parliament, the first national legislature of the civilized world. King Christian of Denmark, who is also head of this independent monarchy, will be chief figure at the celebration, but all other leading nations will also be represented officially. King Christian will travel here on a Danish cruiser and will be accompanied by Queen Alexandrine, Crown Prince Frederick, Prince Knud and other members of the royal household.

Iceland being considered one of the Scandinavian sisterhood, most of the non-official visitors are expected to come from Denmark, Norway, Sweden and Finland. These visitors will be housed on their ships while here, neither the hotel nor private accommodations of the island—there are only about 100,000 inhabitants in the Kingdom -- being adequate for such an influx of guests. The capital it self has a population of only 25,000.

While the Icelandic parliament, or Althing, first gathered on Thingvillir, or "place of assembly," in the year 930, the history of the country goes almost two centuries back of that. Irish hermits reached Iceland in 795 and found it uninhabited. About 860 A. D., a Norwegian Viking, Naddod, rediscovered the country and Gardar Svavarsson, a Swede, was driven by storms to its shores.

The first permanent settler was Ingolf Arnarson, a Norwegian. Approaching the coast in the year 874, he cast overboard his high seat pillars and vowed to make his home where those symbols of permanency were washed ashore. He found them on the beach of what is now the harbour of Reykjavik and a statue to his memory by Einar Jonason, foremost Icelandic sculptor, has been erected here.

The country owes its commercial eminence to the fish in its waters and the sheep in its valleys. Together they make up five-sixths of the exports, the only other sizable item being timber from the hills. The total is around $13,500,000 yearly, something in the neighbourhood of $100 a month for each man, woman and child in the country.

There is no army or navy to support, but there are plenty of schools and a very low rate of illiteracy. The budget balances easily, the national debt is diminishing and the Gulf Stream continues to send its warm waters near the coast and modify the otherwise natural severity of the winters.

Miss Katie MacEachern, Miss Margaret Martin, and Mrs. Frank Halliday. A letter from the Supervisor Miss MacPhail, concerning the making of linen for the new sanatorium, was then read, and it was decided that we would help in the making of some. A letter from the supervisor of schools concerning the buying of books for schools was read, but no further plans was made.

MRS. BALSTON LAUNCHES NEW C. N. B. SHIP LIVERPOOL, Eng. April 4.—The Prince Robert, the third of the new ships that were built at Birkenhead for the Canadian National Steamships for service in the pacific coast waters was launched yesterday. Mrs. Balston, wife of the Hon. J. L. Balston, Canadian Minister of National Defence christened the new vessel wishing her God speed and good luck as the big hull smoothly and gracefully took the water.

The launching ceremony took place before a large crowd and the latest of Canadian ships to glide down the runway was given an enthusiastic demonstration. The great service rendered by the Canadian National Railways in the development of Canada was acknowledged by Colonel Ralston in an address, in which he said, we are all very proud of that institution.

Colonel Ralston said the National system held an enviable place in the estimation of the public and paid tribute to the remarkable work of Sir Henry Thornton, whom he termed a man of broad empire view. He declared the building of the Hudson Bay Railway was an important link in imperial communications. The Hon. Robert E. Bruce Lieutenant Governor of British Columbia also spoke briefly.

A cable was read from Premier W. L. Mackenzie King, congratulating the Canadian National and Mrs. Ralston upon the launching of the ship.

The sponsors and builders were also congratulated in a cable from Sir Henry Thornton, Mr. C. J. Smith, Vice President in charge of European affairs Canadian National Railways, presented Mrs. Ralston with a tea and coffee set on behalf of the owners.
