PERSONALS

Mr. P. S. Bradley, Secretary of Education, left Saturday morning on a trip to Boston and New York. Mr. Bradley will be absent for two weeks.

Malcolm Erwin, Secretary of the Charlottetown Yacht Club, and E. Baker arrived in Picton Friday on M. Edwin's cabin cruiser Roamer. They will be the guests of Col and Mrs. M. D. McKeigan for the next few days.—New Glasgow News.

Mrs. Clarence MacRae and her mother, Mrs. James Calder, of Charlottetown, P. E. I., who spent the past several weeks in town, are visiting in Sydney. Mrs. Jean Richard also of Charlottetown who came over with her mother, is still here with another sister, Mrs. Wm. MacRae.—New Glasgow News.

CONDITION UNIMPROVED—The condition of Rev. W. J. Kirby, venerable retired clergyman, of Moncton who is well known in P. E. I. who is critically ill at his home on Park Street, shows no improvement. His condition is most serious and slight hopes are held for his recovery.—Moncton Times.

MACKINNON — ROSS—The marriage took place at St. Ninian's cathedral at half past six Monday morning Sept. 16th of Eunice Ross, N. N., North Grant, daughter of Mrs. and the late Alvin J. Ross, to Stephen Joseph MacKinnon son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph D. MacKinnon, Beaver Cove. The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother William, looked charming in her cream silk tulle gown with lace hat, carried red roses. Miss Cecelia Ogilvie, N. N., her bridesmaid wore pale pink chiffon, and carried gladioli. The groom was supported by Angus Rankin, of Judique. The nuptial high mass was celebrated by the bride's brother, Rev. John A. Ross, of St. Ambrose church, Grosse Pointe Park, Michigan, who also performed the marriage ceremony.

Mrs. MacDonald, the organist of St. Ninian's cathedral, sang the mass. A wedding breakfast was had at Grant, after which the bridal couple left for Prince Edward Island. After the honeymoon Mr. and Mrs. MacKinnon will reside in Antigonish the groom being agricultural representative for Antigonish country.—Halifax Chronicle.

Modern "Sleeping Beauty" Nears Fourth Year

CHICAGO, Sept. 24—Patricia Maguire, the modern "Sleeping Beauty," today ended her 1,313th day, a helpless victim of lethargic encephalitis, her condition neither better nor worse.

As in the fairy tale the passing years have failed to leave their mark on the physical loveliness of the suburban Oak Park girl, who has suffered from a baffling illness for nearly four years.

Mrs. Peter, Miley, the girl's mother said: "There has been no change for better or worse in Pat's condition in recent months. But you know the old saying, 'where there's life, there's hope,' and Pat's still alive."

"If you had to move her in bed when she didn't want to be moved you would realize how strong she is. 'Pat seems younger in appearance than when she first became ill,' her mother said. 'In some ways she seems lovelier. Her continued youthful, healthful appearance is one of the things that have puzzled doctors.'"

A pretty, vivacious girl was Pat back in 1932 before she, then 27 years old, fell a victim on February 15 of that strange malady that has failed to respond materially to medical treatment.

Her birthday is April 1, and four anniversaries have passed since Pat, complaining of feeling so tired and sleepy, became ill.

She is now 31, but there is not

Lieutenant Who Took A Tankard

LONDON, Sept. 24—An army officer, accused at Salisbury police court recently of stealing a tankard from a Salisbury hotel, explained that he took it because he wanted a tankard with the name of the hotel on it to give to a young woman who had visited the hotel.

He was Lieutenant Royal Nelson Seddon, of the Royal Corps of Signals, Tidworth. The bench decided that Lieutenant Seddon had no intention to steal, and dismissed the case.

It was stated that Lieutenant Seddon asked if he might purchase a tankard, and was told that it was not for sale. He stated that he had no intention to return it and see the proprietor. Then he would have paid for it, or replaced it, or returned it if he were not allowed to retain it.

TORONTO, Sept. 24—This city's long-held reputation as "Toronto the good," and "the city of churches," received a crushing blow today. Rev. Bud Robinson, 76-year-old visitor from Los Angeles toured the city and then declared: "Toronto is as full of sin as the devil would like it to be."

PARIS, Sept. 25—A man, a woman, a 30-foot yacht, the "spirit" of Benito Bonita, Portuguese buccancer, at the helm, passed through Paris recently bound for the Cocos Islands, treasure islands of the Pacific.

The man, sunburned, bespectacled, 58-year-old German, Hubert Merzueh, told me that he and his companion, Margot, were spiritualists, and that they were being piloted on their long and hazardous voyage from Hamburg to the Cocos by Benito.

They left Hamburg two months ago. "Benito Bonita," said Herr Merzueh, "appeared to us in the cabin of our boat about two years ago. He told Margot and me that he had chosen us to lift his treasure and distribute it among the poor of the world."

"By means of the planchette he made Margot draw a map of the island showing where the treasure lies buried."

He told us not to get married until the treasure was found, and promised to guide us safely across the ocean to its hiding place."

Herr Merzueh is travelling by river and canal as far as Marseilles, where he will sail out into the Mediterranean on his way to Gibraltar and the Atlantic—bound for the Pacific, fortune, and love in the hands of a "spirit."

Father: "What you paid $3 for an old laying hen?"
Boy: "Yes, father. I wanted one that was experienced."

WILMINGTON, Del., Sept. 24—What is so rare as a beautiful cook? Ah! the State Superintendent of Public Instruction, Dr. H. V. Holloway, doesn't know.

He does know that as fast as the state employs pretty teachers for domestic science courses, young men carry them off to the altar.

Something has to be done about it. The yearly turnover averages a third.

Enjoying Work

Parents who are teaching their children really to like work, are giving them a splendid chance in life.

Too many people in these days regard work in the light of a necessary evil, as something to be done simply because it has to be before they can obtain the money they require for their amusement. Beyond that, they have no interest in it; it means nothing to them, whether their work is good or bad, they have no definite goal in view regarding their work, their motto being rather, "sufficient unto the day."

To put it quite bluntly, work to them is an awful bore!

I may possibly run the risk of being thought o'd-fashioned says a Scotch writer when I say that I believe in work and in giving all that is best to your work. I firmly believe that it is the people who are really interested in their every day work who get the most out of life.

There is something very much more satisfying in work and aims accomplished than there is to be found in most pleasures, which at best, can only be fleeting. In teaching a child to like and enjoy work, there need be no hard and fast rules or drudgery connected with it, rather the reverse in fact; let it look upon work, not so much as work, but as something which it will find exciting and great fun, to do well, to excel at, and to complete with the rest of the world in doing that work. It puts an entirely new aspect on work, when looked at in this way. Once let a child get into the way of regarding any set task as hard work and a burden, then it loses one of the finest joys life has to offer.

Competitions attract a large number of people, yet there are an extraordinary number who never seem to feel the desire to go "all out" in competition with the rest of the world, pitting their brains against those thousands of others spurred on continually with the hope that one day they may reap their just reward in that great competition.

MARRIED ON 25c A WEEK
LONDON, Sept. 24—A 19-year-old wife, Doris Ada Hannam, of Whatley avenue, Merton, was bound recently when accused of obtaining £3 with a forged savings bank withdrawal form.

It was stated that she found a Post Office savings bank book in a room while dusting at a house where she worked.

Hannam said that she and her husband were short of money, and when she saw the bank book she was suddenly tempted. Her husband earned 25c a week as a greengrocer's assistant, out of which he paid 15c insurance and 15c for rent for a room.

Famous Character Forgets Birthday

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 23—Walter (Death Valley) Scott is only 60 years old today, but he boasts of having crammed 200 years of living into that time.

The famous character of Death Valley doesn't bother much about birthdays, he told The Associated Press in a patiently scribbled letter.

"You asked about my birthday," he wrote. "Have forgotten it. I have lived 200 years in 60. If I have to die tonight my last request would say to tell the Press to tell the world I had a run for my money."

This is the man who at the turn of the century made a record-breaking train run across the United States and spent money lavishly along Broadway, who built a castle at what he estimated was a cost of $2,381,000 in one of the most famous stretches of California; who only milled at desert stories of his endless supply of gold; who resented bitterly the invasion of "foreigners" into his domain, now a national monument and destined to be a national park; and who lives alone in the unfinished palace, where the temperature sometimes reaches 140.

Historic Sword Missing From Tower of London

(A.P. by Guardian's Special Wire)
LONDON, Sept. 23—(A.P.)—The Sunday Pictorial said that a valuable historic sword, dating from a period between 1485-1470, has vanished from the armory of the Tower of London, creating a mystery which Scotland Yard has been called upon to solve.

Excitement waned, however, when an official said it was valued at only about five shillings—about $1.25. It had been used by a drummer at the time of the Stuarts.

The last reported theft of a valuable object from the Tower was in 1861. The Tower, the resting place of the royal jewels, is guarded as closely as the Bank of England.

It will relieve a Cold—Colds are the commonest ailments of mankind and if neglected may lead to serious conditions. Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil will relieve the bronchial passages of inflammation speedily and thoroughly and will strengthen them against subsequent attack. And as it cures the inflammation it will usually stop the cough because it always the irritation in the throat. Try it and prove it.
