Double Wedding Interesting Event At Summerside

The outstanding social event of the week was the double wedding in Trinity United Church, Summerside, last evening at 6.30, when Miss Edith Louise Allen and her sister Miss Mildred Jean Allen, daughters of Hon. L. R. Allen and Mrs. Allen of Summerside were united in marriage to Mr. Manning Clifford Archibald of Woodstock, N. B., and Mr. Donald Frederick Archibald of Charlottetown. The church was very handsomely decorated, the chancel being banked with baskets of gladioli and sweet peas, while autumn flowers were artistically arranged on windows. Rev. L. E. G. Davies performed the ceremony in the presence of a large circle of relatives and friends the guest pews being specially marked with large white net bows, with varied colors of sweet peas. Mr. Allen gave his daughters in marriage.

The wedding march was played by Miss Jessie Strong, the organist, as the brides entered the church, Miss Edith, on the arm of her father and Miss Mildred with her brother-in-law, Mr. Fraser Ross, wearing lovely gowns of ivory chiffon velvet, made on princess lines, with full sleeves and pointed cuffs, their trains gracefully trailing; their veils richly braided at the front and caught at the sides with orange blossoms fell in soft folds over their dresses making a most charming effect. Miss Edith's bouquet was exquisite white roses and lilies of the valley; while Miss Mildred chose as her bouquet lovely Easter lilies.

Miss Edith's bridesmaid, Miss Vivian Shepperd of Halifax, wore a pale green satin back crepe, ankle length dress with girdle and buttons of matching velvet. With this was a smart green velvet braided cap. She carried a bouquet of peach colored sweet peas. Miss Dorothy Bentley of St. Martins, N. B. was similarly attired, her gown being peach colour with cap to match. Her bouquet was cream sweet peas.

Attending the grooms were Mr. S. W. Archibald of Halifax and Mr. Harry G. Herman of Toronto.

The ushers gay with white carnation boutoniers, were Mr. Neil Higgins, Halifax, Mr. J. E. Lloyd, Halifax, Mr. E. S. Chandler, Charlottetown and Mr. A. F. Archer, Charlottetown. During the signing of the register, Miss Francis Gardiner of Lunenburg, N. S. sang very sweetly "I love you truly."

Evidence Heard Yesterday Before Coroner's Jury

tain is how he came to his death, not whether he was a criminal or not. I think we will not bother about it at all. Go on, please, to something else."

Mr. Shaw: "I think the section that he is referring to is that the the driver involved in an accident must make a report to the police."

Witness: "I made a report to the police as soon as I came to Charlottetown."

Mr. Shaw: "I may say that these reports are not for publicaton. Is that an answer to the question?"

Juror King: "The answer I want is to the question, has any person the right or privilege to move a car from the scene of an accident which can be used as evidence to prove the innocence or the guilt of parties concerned. Did Mr. Martin have that privilege?"

(Applause at the rear of the courtroom).

The Coroner cited judicial authority, emphasizing the power vested with the coroner at inquest proceedings. "I want to tell those assembled here," he added, "that any other outburst such as that, and this court room will be emptied. We are going to have this case conducted in a decent, lawful way. We do not want any imitation of occurrences that have taken place in the country to the south of us."

Witness: "With regard to notifying the police, Sergeant Anderson brought me to headquarters to sign a report."

Mr. Shaw: "That is what this section that you referred to——."

Juror King: "That section that I am referring to is, Martin made a statement last night that he could remove a car from the scene of the accident and he had protection of the law. Now, Mr. Shaw, I understand no man has a right, only the officers of the law, to remove anything from the scene of an accident."

Mr. Shaw: "Do you find that here, in this section that you asked me to read?"

Juror King: "I want you to interpret it.""

Mr. Shaw: "I don't know what there is to interpret about this. I do not carry the whole laws in my head."

The Coroner: "We want to give Judge Duffy every latitude to state his case. We are not going to spend hours here in useless wrangle and talk. I will ask Mr. Shaw to endeavor to conclude this matter taking what reasonable time he wishes to take. Will you please proceed, Mr. Shaw?"

Mr. Shaw: "Did you dim your lights when you met this car?"

Witness: "I had my lights dimmed for the purpose of avoiding this hole in the road before he came along and they were still dimmed.

Continuing, witness repeated what he had said regarding the position of the injured man.

Mr. Shaw: "Looking at the injuries on the left side of the other car, how can you explain the position of the boy's body being towards the rear of your car, unless your car went ahead after you struck the other car?"

Witness: "He was not at the rear of my car. Mr. Gesner was mistaken in that." (Pointing out position on surveyor's plan). "He came at an angle across my bows."

(Witness was questioned at some length on this point).

A Juror: "Mr. Gesner stated in his evidence that you had not dimmed your lights just at that time."

Witness: "That is not true. He might have thought I didn't have time to dim them, but I had dimmed them before I passed by this hole in the road."

Juror King: "How can you account for the glass from your left headlight being 4 feet 6 inches ahead of your car?"

Witness: "I don't know that it was. I know I found some bits of glass directly below my headlights.

"I brushed around in the dirt and I couldn't find anything in front of your car."

"That was the next day. But that very night I picked up glass directly beneath where the headlight was broken."

(Further questions were asked on this point.)

The Coroner: "You stated in your evidence that the Horgan car was coming towards you very fast?"

Witness: "It certainly was."

"Did you hear the evidence of young Horgan and his sister and brothers?"

"About the speed, yes."

"One stated eight miles an hour, the other said not more than ten, which would seem a reasonable speed from the fact that they had a good many people in the car, two of them just recovering from illness, and two others standing on the running board. They say they were going very slowly. What do you say about that?"

"I will say that is not true. If they had been going eight or ten miles an hour when that impact took place both cars would have remained without one passing the other". The force that they were going brought them past my car into the ditch behind them. And I was not going 35 mi'es an hour or anything like it. I was slowed down with my car practically still when it was hit. I swear to that positively."

"Your evidence is that you did not assist in attending to the injured boy."

"There were a lot of people there." They gathered very quickly. This man attacked me. I was attacked twice."

"You mean physically?"

"No, no, with words. The first thing they said was 'What the hell are you trying to do to us.' That came as a surprise. The second was 'What kind of a judge are you to kill people on the road.' Then of course the crowd gathered and I backed away."

"Judge Duffy, Mr. Horgan senior made a statement while on the stand to the effect that you visited him the other day. Will you tell the jury the purpose of that visit."

Witness: "I don't think it has really any reference here but since it came up I want to tell you that too. Mrs. Horgan's uncle, Barney McCabe, in the Registry Office, came to me after the funeral and said, 'Why didn't you go out and call at the house and see the people, or go to the funeral?' 'Well,' I said. Mr. McCabe, 'from what was said to me and the antagonistic attitude of nearly everybody around the scene of the accident that night, I was not sure that I would be very welcome.' His answer to that was, 'I heard Mr. Horgan tell Jim Trainor of Bedford that he had no animus or spite or revenge in his heart towards Judge Duffy.' He said 'I think you ought to go out and see them.' I took Mr. McCabe with me. Mr. Horgan said to me everything he repeated here yesterday and a good deal more too. It was certainly not a very pleasant visit. I said 'I am very sorry, Mr. Horgan, that you take that attitude. I only came for a friendly visit to extend my sympathy to the family.' He went into hysterics again. The man was practically in hysterics. I said, 'Mr. Horgan, we might as well discuss this in a reasonable way. If it was my fault, I would be to blame. I didn't say I was going to give him the law on the point. Somebody else said 'He is going to give you the law.' But I said, 'Suppose the boy's death was caused by the fact that he was on the running board when he shouldn't have been, the fault would not then be mine. It looks from what happened that if nobody had been on the outside of the car, nobody would have been hurt, because nobody inside either car was hurt.' I said 'Of course I am just putting that to you; no reason laying all the blame on me because there are two sides to every question.' But I didn't say I was going to give him the law. This gentleman came in and said, 'Oh, he is trying to intimidate us.' There was no intention of intimidating, but there was no reason why I should take all the abuse that was given to me."

A Juror: "Did you tell him the verdict that the jury would bring in—that they would bring in a verdict of accidental death?"

Witness: "Oh no, I never mentioned that at all."

"You claim that Mr. Horgan on the stand, who was just after burying his son, made a statement which was absolutely false?"

"Mr. Horgan was not in any frame of mind to repeat again very sensibly, what was said that day. They had to take him into the room. He was crying and bawling. But I never said to him anything about the jury because I hadn't the faintest knowledge of what the jury would do. I might have mentioned it would be for the jury to decide, but I never mentioned what verdict the jury would bring in.

Neither did I say that I was going to give him the law. Somebody else said that.

"Did you say it was manslaughter?"

"No. I said if it was manslaughter, only two people would be liable. If it was my fault, I would be liable. If it was his son's fault he would be liable, but I didn't think anybody would bring him up for manslaughter. But he abused me so much, laid so much blame on me, that I just wanted to show him that there were two sides.

"You didn't threaten the law?"

"Certainly not."

(Witness was questioned further regarding the glass of his car).

MISS HORGAN'S STATEMENT

Helena Horgan (recalled) testified: "I want to state that the Judge did say in our house something to the effect of Thomas being brought up for manslaughter. I went out to Foster Trudell and asked him if he knew anything about the law and jury, whether it would be possible for Thomas to be brought up on this charge. I rushed out of the house to ask him that. He did say something to that effect, and Papa said 'Yes, and I suppose they will put you on the Bench and you will give Thomas ten years in the penitentiary.'

A Juror: "What date and hour was that?"

Witness: "It was the day before yesterday Judge Duffy called at our house. It was after dinner some time. I just can't say."

The court adjourned until 3 p.m. today (Thursday).

Says Wholesalers Not Necessary

(C. P. by Guarnian's Special Wire)

EDMONTON, Sept. 9.—Premier Aberhart of Alberta today told a meeting of the Edmonton Prophetic Bible Conference that the question of distribution was receiving the attention of the Social Credit Government.

Premier Aberhart said certain wholesalers were refusing to co-operate in the social credit plan. "We can do nothing but go on without them," he said.

"The fact of the matter is," he said, "that there has been some discussion in days gone by as to weather the wholesaler is a real necessity in our great scheme of distribution. Wholesalers sprang into existence to maintain the individualism of the retailers. When retailers combine to co-operate, the need of many wholesalers is thereby removed."

BELFAST

Miss Katherine MacLellan and Miss Jane MacKenzie dietitian at at P. E. I. Hospital spent the week-end at the home of the latter in Flat River.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Pipon who have been visiting at Pinette left this week for their home in Montreal West. They were accompanied by Mrs. Pipon's father, Mr. J. J. MacDonald

The yearly joint meeting of the several W. M. S. Auxiliaries of St. Johns Presbyterian church, Belfast, was held in August in the church vestry, with a large attendance of members and visitors present. Mrs. Wilfred MacLean, President, conducted the meeting with Mrs. Albert Nicholson, Sec'y., and Miss Florence MacPhee, Organist. Meeting opened with Hymn 342. The minutes of the different branches were read by their respective Sec'ys and roll call was answered with verses of scripture and also Biblical questions with answeres given. A good programme of readings was enjoyed also two solos. A lovely bouquet of cut flowers presented by Mrs. Mabel MacEachern in memory of the departed members was much appreciated. The officers for the coming year are Pres. Mrs. Dan MacLeod, Sec'y Mrs. A. S Beaton, Flat River Auxiliary. Meeting closed with singing "Speed Thy servants Saviour speed them" followed by the Lord's Prayer in unison, when lunch was served to all. A short business meeting followed with Mr. T. U. Morrison in the chair when plans were made for the annual picnic which has been so successfully held since.

Mr. Thos. Maguire, Brookline, Mass., who has been visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. MacWilliams, Eldon, left this week on return to the U. S. A. This was Mr. Maguire's first visit to our province and he is loud in his praises of the beauties of our "fair Island of the sea". He was accompanied by Miss Marion MacWiliams who goes to resume her duties teaching in Weymouth, Mass. Miss Florence MacDonald who has been on a short visit to her parents Mr. and Mrs. M. F. MacDonald left on the same day to continue her work in New York after a short visit with friends in Mass.

Teachers and pupils are getting ready for the School Fairs which will be held shortly. We all hope each school will be well represented and the boys and girls receive many prizes and that those eligible will compete at the Central School Fair which is getting to be a real big affair and is a close second to our Provincial Exhibition although in a junior way.

Mrs. Robert Kennedy and daughter New York are visiting her parents at their summer home at Eldon. Mrs. Kennedy, accompanied by her husband, has just returned from a trip to the Old Country going over on the "Queen Mary" when she made her maiden trip across the Atlantic. Canadians in general are decidly proud of the speed record of the Queen Mary recently and none any more so than those living in that part of Canada known as "historic Belfast."

Surveying in Orwell Bay is nearly completed and it is understood, those at the work intend to continue at Pinette at a later date.

Mr. C. E. Frier representing the De Laval Co., was in Belfast recently on a business trip.

Mr. G. Stetson who replaces Mr. Alywan in representing the Rawleigh Co., made his first trip through this part of the country recently.

Mr. C. E. MacKenzie, Milton, was a recent visitor to Belfast.

A full hall greeted the members of the Eldon Womens Institute when they held a concert in the Belfast hall on Sept. 4th and if repeated applause is a good judge of the quality of a programme that evening's entertainment was very much in order. Mr. E. L. Harrington presided and introduced the cast when necessary. The Legion Quartette was on the programme but as one of the members was unavoidably absent the remainder carried on as a trio and with their usual harmony. Miss Florence Macdonalr delighted the audience with the Highland Fling danced in costume and her second number in semisailor suit was just as pleasing and being something new in these parts added to its attractiveness. Mr. John Connelly, Charlottetown as a soloist was much enjoyed and his popularity shown by repeating two encores. Perhaps the real humor of the evening was given in "The Old-Fashioned Choir" in costume. All parts in this number were delightful from the director right through the group which kept up the usual chatter that accompanies same ending only in a hushed moment during the entrance of the bride. The encore of this number consisted of a "set" as it is usually called and their exit off the stage left thethought with the audience 'What bonnie lassies they must have been." Following is the programme: Remanks by chairman; Instrumental music by Messrs Griffin and Worth, violin and banjo, Mrs. W. D. Gillis pianist; Solo, "An Old-Fashioned Song", Mrs. W. D. Gillis; Trio, "Belle Brandon" Messrs MacPhee, West and Ross; Coon Sketch, Jack Connolly and Jack MacWilliam; Highland Fling, Florence MacDonald; Solo, "Give me My Boots and Saddle" Herb Worth; Duet, "Larboard Watch", Mrs. A. Murchinson and D. E. Ross; Playette in two parts by the Eldon Young ladies assisted by Messrs VanIderstine and Penny; Solo, "Just Around the Corner" by Mrs. Van Iderstine — Intermission—and sale of candy. Old-Fashioned Choir —Old hymns practised for an entertainment to buy an organ for the church; Solo, "Mother Machree" by John Connolly; Sailor Dance, Miss Florence MacDonald; Musical round, Messrs West, Worth and Connolly; National Anthem. Mrs. R. S. West and Mrs. W. D. Gillis, accompanists.—J.

New Treatment of Arthritis Premature

(A. P. By Guardian's Special Wire)

CHICAGO, Sept. 9—The American Medical Association, in an editorial in its journal, called on "proper officials" of the American Chemical Society today to eliminate from the program of the Society convention at Pittsburgh a paper which claimed development of a new treatment for arthritis.

The paper, submitted by Dr. Herman Seydel of Jersey City, N. J., advocated use of a chemical compound described as a "calcium double salt of benzyl succinic and benzoic acids."

Because of this, the editorial went on, appearance of Seydel's paper on the Pittsburgh convention program was "premature and unethical."

Seydel was quoted as identifying his arthritis treatment as a "benzoic compound."

Stanfield's Seek Reduction In Capital Structure

(C.P. By Guardian's Special Wire)

HALIFAX, Sept. 9—Hearing of an application for confirmation of a reduction in the capital structure of Stanfield's Limited of Truro, N. S., has been set for September 29 by Mr. Justice Hugh Ross of the Nova Scotia Supreme Court.

The reduction was unanimously ratified by a special general meeting of the shareholders held September 1, and the application was made in court chambers yesterday by C. B. Smith, K. C., on behalf of the directors of the company.

The proposal was originally submitted to the shareholders on August 17 when they were asked to approve a redemption of 10,000 preferences shares at par value of $40. Funds paid preferred shareholders for redeeming the shares are to be raised from the proceeds of a sale of $200,000 worth of company bonds and the balance from cash in hand.

The redemption date is December 15, 1936. According to the application, on and after that date all outstanding preferred shares will be cancelled and the future capital will consist of 12,000 shares without nominal or par value, of which 10,000 have already been issued and are paid up.

TRANS-OCEAN SURVEY FLIGHTS UNDERWAY

NEW YORK, Sept. 8—The first of two catapult plane flights from the Azores to the United States to survey routes for a transalantic airplane service was scheduled for 11 p.m. A.S.T. tonight by the Deutsche Lufthanua Corporation.

The flying-boat Aaolus, with a crew of four, was to be catapulted from the mother ship Schwabenland for a 2,060-mile flight to Bermuda, where it was to be refueled before continuing to the Pan-American air harbor at Port Washington, Long Island.

The flying-boat Zephyr was to be catapulted some time tomorrow night for a flight of 2,390 miles directly to Port Washington.

The survey will be the first on the east-west Azores-Bermuda leg. Air, weather and other flight data are to be sought.

French, British and German companies are cooperating with Pan-American Airways in the transatlantic flight project as the result of a conference in Washington last March. It was determined then that after experiments were completed, a decision would be made on which country or countries would become the European terminus of the airline, to be operated jointly by private companies here and abroad.

Imperial Airways Ltd., of Great Britain, and Air France are the other companies involved. Imperial Airways now is building a fleet of flying boats designed to cross the Atlantic.

Fully loaded, the two all-metal Dornier monoplanes being used in the German survey weigh 20,000 pounds, and the catapult is used to get them up in the air with sufficient gasoline to make the long range flight.

A similar catapult service has been operated over the South Atlantic between the Azores and Brazil.
