hindrance. They were far inferior to the later machines and were therefore more noisy and offensive. They allowed them to run freely for many years while other provinces were putting on restrictions, and suddenly they took the other turn and cut them out altogether, jumping from one extreme clean over to the other. What has happened in every civilized part of the world is that as soon as the running of cars became a menace steps were taken to control their action and keep them within certain bounds. We missed that course. The Premier mentioned a petition signed by over 200 farmers in King's County asking to have a route opened up for motor trucks for the conveyance of mussels mud taken from St. Peter's Bay and distributed along the line. The petition was signed by prominent farmers among them being Mr. Underhay, who was strongly in favour of motor trucks. These men want the motor trucks to enable them to get within reach of the valuable fertilizer which would otherwise be deprived them. In conclusion the Premier said: "I feel satisfied that any honorable members who have signed the pledge for the absolute repeal of the motor act can feel themselves free to vote against this resolution, because it provides for the absurd condition that, having first of all done away with the thing, they shall go afterwards and ask the people by plebiscite whether they want it or not and involve the country in a useless expense at a time when we should economize in every department."

MR. JOHNSTON said he would vote for the resolution for the reasons set forth in the preamble.

HON. MFRDOCK MCKINNON concurred in the views of the Premier.

and spoke against the resolution. He pointed out that the passage of the resolution would mean that Charlotte-town would be deprived of its motor sprinkler and steam roller which represented a great expenditure.

MR. HUGHES: That is provided for in the City Incorporation Act.

MR. MCKINNON: Not if you pass this resolution. It appears to me the honorable gentleman did not know until now what effect the resolution would have on the City of Charlotte-town, and it shows how much regard he has for the City. (Laughter and applause.)

MR. BELL said it was not the young people but the old men and women who dread the automobile.

MR. McNEVIN said he would vote against the resolution. He had learned a thing or two since the debate began. His name was mentioned in regard to the pledge. He had taken the pledge in good faith and believed it was given to him by non-partisans. But it now appeared that the pledge was nothing more than a piece of trickery.

MR. McNEVIN: I won't come to you when I don't have to, and I don't have to go out of my district to get a nomination. (Laughter.) Mr. McNevin contended that the whole matter was a trumped-up one, planned by the Opposition merely to embarrass the Government and he did not think it was in the best interests of all concerned that the resolution should be passed.

If the Opposition thought that he was to be influenced by a little trickery, if they thought they could buy him and put him away by a little job like that, they would find they were going to be greatly mistaken. He was not going to talk on the merits of the question, but he would just say that if the people did not want the automobile they were not going to get them. That was settled by the present law. The resolution demanded another plebiscite on the subject, and there was nothing about that in the pledge he took. In the circumstances, he would put himself on record against the resolution. (Applause.)

MR. D. McDONALD supported the resolution, and said he was the first man to take the pledge.

On a vote being taken, the resolution was defeated by 15 to 13. The Hon. Leonard Wood and Mr. J. A. Dewar voted for and Mr. A. S. Sanders against the resolution, while Mr. Gallant was not present.

MAPLEWOOD

(NOTES BY TH. WAY.)

While passing through the First District of Queens County a few days ago, the writer chanced to be fortunate enough to be led by business through the thriving district of Maplewood. This, the northern section of the parish of Kelly's Cross, has been an organized school district for some twenty-five years, having been detached from Kelly's Cross District, and during that quarter century has been the most prolific in the production of men (and women too) now prominent in various walks of life, in various places, for its size, or any district in the Province. Among its former students, the writer is informed, were Mr. Smith, Principal of Queen Square School, his brother, G. L. Smith, medical student at Mc-note of this spot. Then Maplewood has a daily rural mail supplied by courier from N. Wilshire, and your correspondent is quite sure the class of people in the district, who belongs to both sides of politics, are going to be satisfied with a dissatisfactory service, as they assure the writer they are having occasionally. They are waiting for a little to see if the breaks in the service cease, and if not, "then some one shall see what we shall see."

Gill, Mr. Clem. T. Flood, at present at the old home, in poor health, Mr. F. O. McKenna, conspicuous orator at election times, now in Western Canada, Mr. Anthony Trainor, also teaching West, Miss Ethel Duffy, prominent in literary circles, now at P. W. C. Rev. C. R. Smith, now at T. Trainor, in United States, and last, but by no means least, they tell me, Mr. St. Clair Smith of S. D. C. Besides these are several ladies most married and three or four in sisterhoods in the United States and Canada. Then there is Rev. M. J. Smith of Fall River, Mass. not graduates of Maplewood school, but natives of the district. It may be interesting also to note that this district is the birthplace of that talented elocutionist, Miss Bertha M. F. Gorman. The little district is proud of her sons and daughters, and justly so, and rejoices to hear of their successes.

A pleasing feature in connection with this locality is that though it can compare, in comfortable and modern dwellings and outbuildings with the average Prince Edward Island sections, the mortgagee is here "not in it." Every man owns what he owns, thanks to their own or their father's thrift. The writer believes even the fox business did not ruffle the even tenor of their financial way.

The writer's business may lead his steps in this direction again, and may communicate his impressions then to your columns again.

A stranger passing through this otherwise prosperous place, cannot fail to notice a certain place of business, very unpretentious in every respect, near the southern part and remark on the fact that it was tolerated, or the occupant not compelled to apply the paint or white wash brush. Dinty Moore, your correspondent is informed, holds forth there, but being a quiet, good neighbor, and "an old friend," nobody bothers with him. But the fact remains that the young people find a severe trial to their intemperate passions there, and often meet Mr. Jiggs and Monahan there, and it is hard to say that in another quarter century Maplewood shall be as proud of her sons as she is today. The Temperance Alliance might make a

Put Unmixed Fertilizers on Your Fields This Spring and Have a Bigger Crop Next Fall

Just as naturally as dawn follows darkness, just as naturally as the freshening effect of a summer shower, so do our UNMIXED fertilizers work in bringing about a better yield from every part of your farm on which they are used.

These fertilizers are naturally productive, and scientifically certain to increase the year's yield. Nothing is left to chance or guess work.

This year, when the entire world is looking to Canada for produce, you should not go about your farming in a haphazard way—nothing should be left to chance—you should be absolutely certain of good returns from every acre.

And you CAN be certain of a bigger and better crop—it you use these UNMIXED fertilizers. For they supply to the land the very elements of fertility needed for each crop—Superphosphate, Nitrate of Soda and Basic Slag can be applied in any quantity or in any combination to produce a maximum crop return in the fall.

You need not take our word for it, write for proof of what other farmers have done. Get our free booklets on farming and fertilizers.
