"BELL-BOTTOMS"

Contrary to general belief, Jack Tar's "bell-bottomed" trousers were not especially designed so that seamen could conveniently roll them above their knees when "swabbing" down decks". The bell-bottomed trousers came into use about 1812. According to one naval historian, they originated because the cloth the men bought from the ship's stores enabled trousers of this width to be made and they desired to use the whole width of the material.

This same writer affirms that the three rows of white tape round the sailor's collar has nothing to do with Nelson's victories as is commonly supposed but originated from the men's love of ornament. A naval fashion, in fact, that was introduced in 1857.

Outlawed Irish Republican Army Faces extinction

DUBLIN, Oct. 2—(CP)—The outlawed Irish republican army, which solemnly declared war on England a few years ago, is in the thick of a desperate internal crisis which Dublin observers believe will be the end of it for a long time.

Little has been heard of the underground army since the bombing outrages in London lavatories and cloakrooms were brought under control before the outbreak of war, but the I. R. A. is reported to be split from top to bottom. It is believed the Belfast I. R. A. men feel that the Dublin headquarters have fallen down on the job, to such an extent that the Belfast section kidnapped the chief of staff, Stephen Hayes, during a "purge" in Dublin.

Hayes was one of the two ringleaders who remained at large after Britain had rounded up the conspirators, put them in Dartmoor Prison or sent them home. The other was Sean Russel, whom Hayes succeeded, and there are reports that either he is dead or dying of tuberculosis in a sanatorium in Portugal whence he fled after things became too hot in the United States to continue collecting funds.

Hayes' case is more intriguing. After succeeding Russell as chief of staff, he eluded the Dublin Castle flying squad but now he is under their protection, at his own request.

Passersby in Rathmines, smart Dublin suburb, gaped recently when a wild looking man, with snow-white hair, shuffled past them, a revolver in his hand. He was partly in chains and pieces of rope were tied around his body. He was shouting for a policeman. A woman told him the way to the police station.

A few minutes later, a flying squad car appeared on the scene. There was a sputter of machine-gun bullets and a man, who didn't halt, fell in the roadway. He is dangerously ill in the County Meath hospital.

Was Kidnapped

The full story has not yet been told, but it is thought Hayes was kidnapped by the Belfast section of his organization which kept him imprisoned in chains for several weeks, and it is believed he obtained a gun and escaped just in time to avoid being killed.

The I. R. A., faced with the difficulty of obtaining funds from the United States now that the government of Eire confiscates money from those who try to run the blockade, has turned to the old method of bank or post office holdups. Several thousand pounds have been stolen from banks and post offices at gun-point. Special military courts in Dublin have handed down life sentences and, in one case, the death penalty, for those who have been caught.

Police supervision is all the more difficult because all the known members of the I. R. A. were interned after a state of emergency was declared in Eire at the outbreak of war. De Valera rounded up all known I R. A. members and sympathizers and tucked them behind barbed wire in County Kildare. All the internees, about 500, were told they could get out by signing a document asserting they would sever their connections with the outlaw party. Only a few availed themselves of the privilege.

W. C. T. U. NOTES

PEACE

By Jessie Rose Gates

There is a Peace that cometh after sorrow,
Of hope surrendered, not of hope fulfilled;
A peace that looketh not upon tomorrow,
But calmly on a tempest that is stilled.
A peace which lives not now in joy's excesses,
Nor in the happy life of love secure;
But in the unerring strength the heart possesses
Of conflicts won while learning to endure.
A peace there is in sacrifice secluded;
A life subdued, from the will and passion free.
'Tis not the peace which over Eden brooded,
But that which triumphed in Gethsemane.

ST. GEORGE AND THE DRAGON

The Legend from Anglo-Saxon times found a recent echo worthy of attention when on the occasion of a recent official visit by Lieutenant-Governor Albert Matthews and Mrs. Matthews to Boston, Mass.

The crowning event is said to have been their attendance at divine service at Emmanuel Episcopal Church when the rector Dr. Osgoode preached on the Slayer of the Dragon, saying in part:

"It is a great emotional lack that our nation has no patron saint. In a way we can reach over and share St. George. Because of our kinship we may well take his legend as an allegorical spur to our own emotions."

The parable is easy to apply. It is too simple to say that the dragon is the Nazi. The real dragon is much more basic than any person or any group.

I am not merely thinking of the war-initiator here. We have to face ourselves, asking if we too are violating the Golden Rule, exploiting humans in any way. Do we realize that there is a mere human possibility that Christianity may be destroyed? Not merely by a Nazi-Communist-Nipponese-Facist victory of arms, but by our own giving up of vital, all-out belief in the Christian way of life in intimate as well as world-wide ways. The Chirst-idea lies blind-folded and bound at the fatal rock of the present moment. The dragon is ready to gorge. What are we doing about it? How much do you and I do to keep the Christ-idea alive? And give it a chance to grow and reign? Most of us have not taken in any whole-souled and sacrificial realism our responsibility to keep the Christ-idea alive—to save it from the encroaching dragon—in our own natures, comradeships social organizations, in our just dealings, in our convinced, intelligent consecration. We even want this terrific war to be won for us without much sacrifice. I tell you, the possession of ideals puts us under bonds to preserve them no matter what it costs—not waiting for the other fellow to do it for us. 'Can you drink of the cup that I drink of?' It is time we took our responsibility for the Christ-idea militantly, for every hostility, selfishness and inhumanity or non-humaneness is a war against Christ."—Canadian Baptist.

REASONABLE REQUESTS OF C. T. F. LAST FALL

1. That sale of alcoholic beverages in taverns, beer rooms, wine shops, etc., be discontinued, and that sale of such beverages be confined entirely to Government-owned liquor stores.

2. That sale from Government Liquor Stores be permitted only between the hours of 3 o'clock in the afternoon and 8 o'clock in the evening, and on week days only.

3. That all advertising of liquor in Canada be forbidden, except in the place of sale.

4. That when the request in Item 1 is granted, that an order issue from the department of defence closing all wet canteens in military establishments.

Just why the delegation did not feel called upon to make a fifth request, but surely in our minds there should be a fifth request which should read:—

5. That no liquor selling places be opened for the duration of the war or for five years afterward.

The report is good as far as it goes, but in my own mind, I am convinced that the time has gone by when the Temperance legislation as a result of either resolutions, appeals or delegations.

We need not expect governments, Federal or Provincial, to take favorable legislative action against the liquor laws that are backed up by liquor forces, party politicians and indifferent, bemuddled taxpayers.

(Repeated on request)

"SUCCESS" OF REPEAL

In his speech, "Repeal Has Succeeded," Dr. Wilson insisted that repeal "has succeeded in increasing the number of saloons or liquor dispensng agencies, from 200,000 in the pre-prohibition days to more than 400,000 licensed dispensaries today.

"Repeal," he continued, "has succeeded in increasing the consumption of liquor nine times over since repeal in 1933. It has succeeded in opening a floodgate of propaganda in many newspapers, magazines, billboards and radio. During the 12 months of 1940 the people of the United States spent four and one-half millon dollars for liquor, or nearly twice the sum spent on relief and recovery by our Federal government during the past several years."

DR. HARRY EMERSON FOSDICK ON REPEAL AND ALCOHOLISM

Arkansas Methodist

I am taking it for granted also that every man with eyes in his head must see that the repeal of prohibition did not solve our problem. It simply threw us back to the status quo ante, plunged us once more into the intolerable situation which our fathers faced two generations ago when they rose up in indignaton against the liquor traffic. Once more we face that traffic, everywhere anti-social, not to say criminal, in its consequences. We are in a worse status by far, and this present loose, tipsy, cocktail party generation can not be the last word in the story of alcoholism. As sure as history repeats itself, the revolt is due, a change of public attitude born out of disgust with and fear of the intolerable state we now are in.

REPEAL A COLOSSAL FAILURE

Branding repeal as the most colossal failure in the history of the United States, Rev. Sam Morris, of Del Rio, Texas, unmercifully castigated today's saloons, which, he said, "were disguised as restaurants, drug stores, gasoline stations and other reputable businesses," where minors and women rub elbows with drinkers.

Nazis claim Violent aerial Blows at Soviets

BERLIN, Oct. 2—(AP)—German military dispatches from the front claimed tonight the Russian southern armies, their backs to the Black and Azov Seas, were under violent and general aerial attack and the Nazi land offensive was being pressed east of the Dnieper River.

Red forces in one area were said, however, to have made a powerful counter-attack across the lower Dnieper, but it was claimed that the Hungarians holding the line there had broken Russian efforts to form a bridgehead.

On the basis of available reports it appeared that the Germans and their allies stand considerable distances east of the Dnieper in some areas while in others the Russians still are close to that river.

Spitzbergen raid Was break for Canadian Troops

LONDON, Oct. 2—(CP Cable)—Maj.-Gen. R. J. Collins, British military analyst, expressed the opinion tonight that the chief value of the recent Spitsbergen raid was that it gave "some at least of the long-suffering Canadian troops a real, though brief, job of work" and that "for once some of them were left off the string."

(The chief complaint of Canadian forces stationed in Britain is that they have seen no real action. These who went to Spitsbergen expressed pleasure over the exploit, even though it involved no fighting.)

Speaking on the BBC war commentary, the general said he thought "the papers made rather too much of this incident which was only a tip-and-run affair, though on a rather large scale."

Without elaborating on the point he asserted his belief that the Germans were forestalled in Spitsbergen as they were in Iraq and Iran when the allies occupied those two countries.

Silver asks only to be used. It requires little cleaning if it gets a bath of soap and water and a good brushing with a brush that doesn't scratch. The fine patina, the softness of silver comes only with age and use. Collect silver to hand down as the most treasured heritage, collect with care, taste and discrimination. Musical Recital at Victoria Hall

The following program was announced by Meriam Howatt at the recital in Victoria Hall Saturday, Sept. 27, by the pupils of Miss Lena McLure, A.T.C.M.

Ladies and Gentlemen: We wish to thank you for coming to-night to our recital, the efforts of a first summer's studying. We are here to greet you in music and in poetry. The opening number will be, "O Canada", followed by our own "Island Hymn", the music by the late Mr. Lawrence Watson, M.A., of Charlottetown, and our beloved Island authoress, Lucy Maude Montgomery MacDonald, which Miss Janet Howatt recited.

"Cuckoo's Song" by Leon Aubrey played by Meriam Howatt.

This was followed by a piano solo by Donnie McLeod, "The Little Chat".

A song by Ruthie Boswell, "Hedge-Roses" by Frans Schubert.

A piano number by Gordon Morrison, "The Gavotte", an old fashioned dance by Gossec.

A piano number "Gay is the Rose", a Canadian folk tune from the province of Quebec, played by Verna McLeod.

A chorus, "The Secret" sung by the junior girls.

A piano number "Woodland Scenes" by Eben Aubry, played by David Boswell.

A song "Cherry Ripe" was sung by Miss Isobel Inman. The words of this song are by one of our early English poets, Herrick. The music is by Horn.

A piano number played by Miss Jean Boswell.

A piano number "Olives Waltz" played by Margaret Howatt.

A duet "Minuet in "G" by Beethoven, played by Miss Eva McLeod and Mr. Peter MacDonald.

A recitation by Lyman Wood, "Lincoln by Nancy Byrd Turner.

A piano number "The Song of the Rose", played by Miss Maylea Boswell.

A recitation by Evelyn McRae "Nod" by Walter de la Mare, one of our modern poets.

Miss Mary Morrison played Schubert's "Slumber Song", accompanying herself at the piano.

The next number was "The Tea Party", sung by Junior pupils.

Then followed a short intermission and sale of candy.

The second part of the program was opened by Miss Eva MacLeod and Mr. Peter Macdonald who played the stirring March Militarie by Schubert.

A recitation by Meriam Howatt.

A piano number "Southern Nights" by Paul Duval, played by Elizabeth McLeod.

A piano number "The Folk Song" played by Mary Morrison.

A few remarks were then given on the choral poetry by Miss Jean Boswell, a young school teacher.

Mr. Lyman Wood played and sang the lovely old Irish song, "Long Long Ago".

Miss Maylea Boswell sang "The Sand-Man" by Carrie Jacobs — Bond, giving a short talk on the writer of this song.

Gordon Morrison played "Country Gardens", the traditional Morris Dance Tune by Percy Grainger, the famous Australian pianist and composer.

A recitation by Verna McLeod. This little poem is by Walter de la Mare, one of our famous living poets. He was born in Kent, England, of Huegenot descent. He was a personal friend of Rupert Brooke, the clever young poet who was killed in the last Great War. Mr. de la Mare's poems are full of delicate charm, fantastic, and giving sense of the supernatural. They are sweet and pensive.

A piano number "Sunset on the St. Lawrence", by Miss Isobel Inman.

A recitation by David Boswell.

We all know a little church in the wildwood that is especially dear to us. Janet Howatt played that much loved hymn, "There's a Church in the Valley in the Wildwood".

A song "Rosalie" by de Koven was sung by Donnie McLeod. This song is by the same composer who wrote the well-known wedding song, "O Promise Me".

A piano number "The Mountain Grome" by David Dick Slater was played by Miss Ruthie Boswell. Mr. Slater is the senior vocal teacher at the Toronto Conservatory of Music.

Recitation by Margaret Howatt

Piano number "The Roses Dream", Miss Evelyn McRae.

The closing number, "Land of Glad To-morrow's was sung by the entire class, accompanied by Mr. Peter Macdonald.

God Save The King.

The following address was read to Miss McLure by Mr. Peter Macdonald on behalf of the class while Miss Eva McLeod and Miss Isobel Inman presented Miss McLure with flowers and a beautiful rememberance:

As we meet here this evening in this pleasant and interesting manner, amid such beautiful surroundings, in peace and quietness, we wish first of all to express to you our thanks for the privilege you have accorded us in coming to Victoria during the recent weeks, extending to us the artistic study of music—a knowledge of which is so highly valued by all—not alone for its own sake but for the pleasure and happiness it affords others—and given in such a gracious and kindly manner, with that fine intuition into the hearts and minds of your pupils which has proved a very important factor in the success which has followed your efforts—as shown also by their willingness to follow your instructions, and the very apparent progress which has been made.

We do assure you, all of us who had the benefit of your talent and teaching, do most heartily appreciate it, and we do most sincerely desire to express our friendship and good wishes for your continued happiness and success —by asking you to accept these tokens.
