A very interesting tournament was played on Thursday evening in Epworth Hall, between the Badminton Clubs of Trinity United Church and the Presbyterian Church. The players were well matched, but Trinity came out victors, winning 15 games out of 24.

During the evening, Rev. L. B. Campbell welcomed the visitors and hoped that this game would not be the only one. A dainty lunch was served by the ladies between the sets.

Head Caught in Washing Machine

TORONTO, Dec. 1--For an hour yesterday, Patrick Crawford, four-year old, knelt on his hands and knees in the kitchen of his father's home at 8 Portland Street, with his head pilloried in the family washing machine.

He had been chasing the family cat around the kitchen. It went behind the washing machine. Patrick pursued it. He squeezed in between the wall and the machine and then stuck his head between a couple of bars in his eagerness to catch the big Persian cat.

The cat sprang gracefully out of reach. Patrick went to withdraw his head, and found he couldn't.

"Mamma, I'm caught," he called.

Mrs. F. Crawford heard his call and turned from her work in the kitchen. Patrick's grandmother also came to the rescue.

They coaxed Patrick to try this way and that way. They tried to draw him out gently. Each time Patrick insisted they quit when it began to hurt him. Finally they decided to call the fire department.

In a few minutes a fire reel roared up. District Chief William Corbett and his men entered the house. They brought a pair of crowbars and jimmied the bars apart so that Patrick could withdraw his head.

District Chief Corbett looked at Patrick and his younger brother Jimmy and decided he knew what they needed.

"Here, buy yourself and your little brother an ice-cream cone," he said handing Patrick a dime.

W. C. T. U. Notes Continued from page 2

have nothing more than a mind to will that the bar shall pass away, as far as we are personally concerned, God accepts that just as much as if we had done away with the bars.

But, it is according to that man hath, and if we have an influence and a vote and fall to us then God will hold us personally responsible for every beaten, hungry child of a drunkard, for every heart-broken sister, wife or mother of a drink victim, and for every murderer and crime of whatever hue, committed in B—through the intoxicating cup. We will be held responsible just as much as if there had been no other vote than ours cast because if there be first the willing mind it is accepted.

To return to the topic, "Who or What is Responsible for Intemperance?" the greatest responsibility rests, not with the man who makes the stuff, nor with the man who hands it out over the bar, neither with the man who drinks it, but with every citizen who has either influence or vote.—H. C. McA.
