DISARMAMENT DISCUSSED AT CONVENTION

Paper Written by Rev. Dr. J. H. MacDonald, Wolfville, Read At Baptist Meeting.

(C.P. By Guardian's Special Wire)
MONCTON, N. B., Aug. 28—Despite present "armament" conditions more progress in the cause of disarmament had been made in the past 15 years than in the previous 15 centuries.

As obstacles in the path of disarmament he named an exaggerated nationalism, greed of armament manufacturers and the advent of Nazism incarnated in Hitler and Mussolini. To overcome these he advocated education, mobilization of peace forces and christianization.

MONCTON, N. B., Aug. 28—Rev. Dr. J. H. MacDonald, Wolfville, N. S., today succeeded Rev. Dr. H. R. Boyer, Moncton as president of the Maritime United Baptist Institute. Other new officers are: Rev. G. W. Guio, Fredericton, first vice-president; Rev. J. B. Wilson, Summerside, P. E. I., second vice-president; additional members of the executive—M. R. Bethune, Charlottetown; Rev. H. K. Grimmer and Rev. E. J. Chisholm.

peace are increasingly numerous and powerful—the church, organized labor, ex-service men, English speaking students and the various service clubs. But they do not move because they are not mobilized under an efficient and united leadership. Are we as members of this convention willing to enlist in the cause of peace under the Archbishop of Canterbury or his Holiness the Pope, should either of these outstanding ecclesiastics head a peace movement? The answer to this question is the test of our loyalty to the cause.

MONCTON, N. B., Aug. 28—A report presented today by Mrs. Guste Seaman, Amherst, general treasurer, at the convention of the United Baptist Women's Missionary Union of the Maritime Provinces showed that Nova Scotia was the only one of the three provinces to improve its financial standing during the past year. A large sum raised by the cent-a-meal fund was given as the chief reason for this favorable balance.

Figures for the 1934-35 year were: Nova Scotia, $17,078, an increase of $27; New Brunswick, $18,829, a decrease of $128; and Prince Edward Island, $1,096, a decrease of $189.

Summarizing Prince Edward Island activities, Mrs. Edward McFarlane reported a greater interest in missions but lack of funds to carry on the work. The Island had 22 societies with 347 contributing members.

Stresses Island Opportunities In The Tourist Trade

Distinguished American Patent Expert And Inventor Delighted With Province's Summer Charms—Offers Suggestions For Tourist Development.

"I do not see why Prince Edward Island should not be as popular in summer as Bermuda is in winter. You have natural summer tourist attractions here which are absolutely unsurpassed.

This was the enthusiastic answer given to a Guardian representative yesterday by Mr. Frank Lewis Dyer, prominent United States lawyer, patent expert and inventor, and former associate and subsequent biographer of the late Thomas A. Edison, in reply to the question how he was enjoying his holiday in Canada's Garden Province.

This is Mr. Dyer's fifth successive summer visit to Prince Edward Island, and he is planning to return again next summer. He hopes to see much more progress made in the development of the Province's tourist trade, and believes that in this respect we have much to learn both in publicity methods and in catering to the tourist trade. Queried as to how such development could be undertaken with the Province's limited financial resources, Mr. Dyer suggested the employment of an expert in making a detailed survey of our tourist attractions, and submitting the report to some capitalist or group of capitalists for financial backing. He believed there would be no difficulty in obtaining outside capital for such a purpose.

He instanced, among other places, the development of Lake George, New York, as a comparatively small lake around which there are more country clubs, golf clubs and other tourist facilities than in the whole of Prince Edward Island. St. Andrews, New Brunswick, was also cited as a resort which has been developed successfully despite natural drawbacks.

As obstacles in the path of disarmament he named an exaggerated nationalism, greed of armament manufacturers and the advent of Nazism incarnated in Hitler and Mussolini. To overcome these he advocated education, mobilization of peace forces and christianization.

One defect in the highway system is that of inadequate drainage. A principal danger on dusty roads is considered, the various driving of local motorists. Visitors usually drive with caution. The best way to stop dangerous driving was not by fines but by impounding the offending drivers' cars for periods of one to three or six months.

Many Inventions
From 1914 until he retired in 1929 Mr. Dyer practiced in New York City as a mechanical and electrical expert. The most noteworthy of his 100 inventions is a talking book for the blind, the most valuable invention for the blind since the Braille system. It uses a special phonograph, has about 30,000 words on each record, running about two and a half hours. Among his other inventions are a round bale cotton press and an electric steering gear. He was one of the first to develop liquid air and was co-inventor of porous concrete, made by the Aerocrete Company of America.

Asked if he considered the phonograph killed as a result of radio development, Mr. Dyer replied emphatically in the negative. He instanced his own successful experiments in developing long-period playing records, on which speeches of world importance can be recorded and permanently preserved. A speech delivered by President Roosevelt at Washington was recorded perfectly in this way in New York. On another occasion, a speech by the Crown Prince of Denmark was recorded over a distance of 100 miles. His "talking books" for the blind are being distributed by the U. S. Government, this great boon being dedicated by Mr. Dyer as a memorial to his wife.

Phonograph Possibilities
The possibilities of modern phonograph recording are now practically unlimited, Mr. Dyer states. Sound amplification obtained through vacuum tubes enables volume to be obtained with only the lightest pressure of the needle on the disc. The disc rings can therefore be cut much finer and the speed slowed down, increasing the running period of the record enormously. Whole symphonies can now be recorded on one record, and the wear and tear of weighted needles eliminated.

Asked if he believed that the attempt being made in England to produce sound films for phonographs were likely to succeed, Mr. Dyer pointed out that a picture film moves at the rate of about one and one-half feet per second and that the equipment required would be more cumbersome than for disc recordings. The special value of sound films was in the talking picture industry, in synchronizing sound and picture automatically.

EXPRESS RATE REDUCTIONS

(Special to the Guardian)
MONTREAL, August 28—Striking reductions in rates on long-haul heavy express shipments will become effective over the lines of Canada on September 2nd, it was announced today by the Express Traffic Association of Canada. The new rates represent a reduction of more than 20 percent. Some time ago express rates on packages 15 lbs. and under were considerably reduced, but in order to take advantage of these rates shippers frequently found it necessary to split large shipments into small packages. This entailed an increase in packaging costs which is now removed. The present reduced rates on packages 15 lbs. and under will remain in effect.
