What's Wrong With Marriage Market? Dorothy I x Suggests Reasons for Surplus of Bachelors

Women Have Lost Seven Veils of Illusion, Which is One Reason Why They Don't Marry so Readily - Others Are High Cost of Matrimony, Alimony Racketeers and Bachelor Comforts

A young woman wants to know why the modern man is so averse to matrimony, and why it is almost as hard to inveigle one to the altar as it is to drag him to the electric chair.

"In Mother's time," she says, "virtually every man married and old bachelors and old maids were almost as scarce as hens' teeth."

"It isn't that we are less attractive than the women in the past were because, taking us by and large, we are healthier and hence better looking than they were, and we are better educated and more fitted to make interesting life companions..."

Primarily the reason why men do not marry as early and as often as they used to is financial. They lack the price. They cannot afford a wife any more than they can afford a yacht...

Youth is the mating time of life. It is when the urge toward marriage is strongest, but few boys earn enough to support a family...

The mechanical age has also dealt matrimony a solo-plexus blow. After his comfort, to see that his food was properly cooked, that his house was kept clean and comfortable...

Now a man can marry a lot of gadgets instead of a woman and by merely pushing a button can be fed and valued better and cheaper than any wife could do it...

Still another thing that has put a blight upon marriage is the freedom of the sexes. In the good old days when the price of monopolizing a woman's society was a wedding ring, men paid it...

But now when the chaperon is as extinct as the dodo, and when women have cast aside their seven veils of illusion, and when a man can have all of a woman's company he wants and more without having to pay her bills or giving her a legal right to boss him and regulate his goings and incomings...

Nor does working together, day after day, in business incline either a man's or a woman's thoughts toward marriage to each other, as a general thing. Propinquity may be the greatest matchmaker elsewhere, but not in offices...

All of which goes to explain the slump in the matrimonial market. DOROTHY DIX.

CAFFEINE, well known as a heart stimulant, is sometimes given in from 1 to 5-grain doses in hospitals. Is this the same drug that you are consuming day after day in your cup of tea or coffee?

THE COOK'S CORNER

PEARS Fears of different varieties are in season almost until Christmas. Just now the sweetest is at its best; later we find—Anjou, Bosc and Duchesse all of which are delicious when eaten raw, but also may be cooked in many ways far variety. To one fears the hot pack method is found to be an improvement on the cold pack.

CANNED PEARS Peel, halve and remove cores from the pears. Have ready a syrup made by boiling together for 5 minutes 2 cups water and 1 cup sugar. Drop into this sufficient pear halves to fill a jar, usually 12 pieces. Cook 5 minutes in water both lid over the jar, but do not seal. Continue until all jars are ready; then fill each with syrup; partially seal and sterilize in water bath for 15 minutes—or in a steamer 30 minutes—or in the oven 30 minutes at 275 degrees F. Then seal.

PREPARED PEARS Make a syrup, allowing 1 cup water to 1 cup sugar. Colour it bright red with vegetable colouring and flavour with one-half teaspoon of almond extract, and one-half teaspoon vanilla extract. Peel, halve, and core large, firm, ripe lid over the jars in the syrup until tender. Remove the pears and pack in jars. Boil the syrup 5 minutes longer and pour over pears. Seal immediately. Green colour and mint flavour may be used.

OLD TIMERS OF THE GOLD BUSH DAYS PASSING ON VANCOUVER, Oct. 8.—Old timers of the north country are rapidly passing on. On the arrival of L. E. Jones, General Agent of the Canadian National Steamship, Skagway, Alaska, here, himself an old timer, he reports the passing of some notable characters in Alaska this year. Among them were Joe Brooks, who helped to build the White Pass trail, and Lee Hudson, town marshal of Skagway. Brooks had returned from California, where he had retired some years ago, to Alaska to write a book on the historic trail over which he ran a 300-horse packtrain. He died on the trail at White Pass City in the midst of scenes where he had been a pioneer.
