Charming New
Coats for Fall

CERTAINLY THE MOST IMPRESSIVE SHOWING OF FALL COATS that this store has offered you. The charm and distinction of these garments lies not only in their fine lines but in the richness of the fabrics and the beautifully tinted furs with which so many are trimmed.

Some have collars of fur—a variety of attractive furs being used. Others have effective use of fur trimming in broad band about the bottom of the coat.

—A FOX HUNT—Mr. Keir Mann Irishtown, one of the successful fox farmers of the Province, had to employ unusual means recently to outclass the cunning of His Foxship. A valuable animal escaped from his ranch and his whereabouts were a mystery. Human search failed to reveal his retirement security. He remembered having read in a recent issue of the Guardian how a Kensington rancher had tracked down an escaped individual member of the fox family, so he enlisted the services of Mr. Levi Arsenault's Fox Hound. Getting the scent, the sagacious animal at once duplicated the fox trot, and by a somewhat vagarious course located the erring prize at large on the shore at Lower Malpeque. Mr. Fox, believing that the scent would be lost on the trackless ocean, at once plunged into the surging billows, but the relentless hound bravely followed, captured the deserter of human kindness and faithfully restored him to the safekeeping of the owner. It is difficult to determine who is the proudest, the owner of the fox, the owner of the hound, or the hound.—Y.

—"A PRAIRIE ROSE" AT KENSINGTON—The Kensington Dramatic Club presented the four act comedy drama "A Prairie Rose" to a crowded house in the Strand Theatre on Friday night. A record in gate receipts was established—one hundred and twenty-five dollars being taken at the ticket office. The rendition of the comedy reflected credit on all the performers. Amateur theatricals are now quite prominent among our public social functions. They serve to develop latent histrionic talent. Who knows but some embryo Lillian Russell or Forbes-Robinson is pursuing the "even tenor of their way" uninspired, nor spurred on by ambition. "Full many a gem of purest ray serene, The dark unfathomed caves of ocean bear, full many a flower is born to blush unseen, and waste its sweetness on the desert air." The scene of the play is laid in Kansas in the early day of the Wild and Woolly West." It is replete with exemplifications of the simple life of the "cow country." Dr. Robert Raymond (W. H. Darrach), Philip Bryant (Val Morris), and Archie Featherhead (Oliver Burns)—some of the upper-crust of Chicago's society bunch spend a vacation among the simple folks of the prairie, and all become infatuated with the unsophisticated "Prairie Rose," (Miss Ella McMahon), causing Bill Briggs (John Burns) a cowboy adorer to be possessed by the "green eyed monster," and nurse his wrath in silence till the psychological moment arrived. The part of Silas Wilder (deaf old ranchman) was taken by Mr. Allie McNeill, who kept the audience in roars of laughter on account of his pseudo deafness. Much credit is due Mrs. Parnell McMahon as "impressario" for her persistency and aptitude in staging those amateur shows. The cast of characters was Silas Wilder, a deaf old ranchman, Allie, McNeill; Dr. Robert Raymond, a young Chicago physician, W. H. Darrach; Philip Bryant, a wealthy young lawyer, Val Morris; Archie Featherhead, a young Chicago dude, Oliver Burns; Bill Briggs, a Kansas cowboy, John Burns; Mose Bryan't servant, Allan Murphy; Ralph Wilder; brother of Silas, Charles Kennedy; 'Lizy Jane Sloum, Silas' housekeeper, later his wife, Mrs. Parnell McMahon; Dorothy Deane Phil's sweetheart, Mrs John Burns; Agnes Raymond, Robert's divorced wife, Aileen Shea; Rose Wilder, "A Prairie Rose," Ella McMahon. Synopsis: Act. I Hunting camp in Kansas. Act I—The Wilder shack, two weeks later. Act III, scene 1—A hall in a hospital, scene 2—A room in same hospital. Act IV—Chicago, home of Phil and Dorothy. Four years later.

GIRL CURED AT SHRINE, IS DOCTOR'S WORD

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask., Sept. 6.—A statement by the physician attending the family of Colin LePage, of Proudhomme, Sask., received here certified the cure of a daughter of LePage, aged three years. The child had been taken to a shrine at Wakaw, 50 miles south of here, to St. Theresa of Lisieux, France, established after the saint was canonized last May.

An operation last year failed to cure a serious affection of an ear of the child. At the shrine the LePage family prayed nine days. On the ninth day the cure appeared.

The physician's statement did not refer to the trip to the shrine. On a return visit at the shrine the family rendered thanks to St. Theresa.

PUTS BABY ON LEASH

Some mother had a happy thought when she introduced the practice of putting restless offspring on a leash. Thus observed the floorwalker of a New York department store, as he chatted across the counter to a girl in the stocking department.

At the time a tiny boy was investigating the floorwalker's shoe laces, but he did not mind. The investigator was tied. His range for harm was limited. He might be drawn out of the way at a moment's notice.

The shopgirl, too, noted the leash with placid satisfaction. Children at large can make such a mess of the stock when they slip under the counter, but on a leash they never get so far. The mother at the end of the line appeared at ease, with her mind and her hands comparatively free, and even the little boy seemed far happier than that other one squirming in the crowd, held firmly by his mother's hand.

By means of the leash wise mothers are solving a problem that long has baffled the shops.—New York Times.

Brown, again, is one of the most favored Fall colors. It appears in various attractive shades, and the coat dress above is typical of the smart mode for early Fall.

The dress itself is of a rich dark brown satin slip of bronze tint. The cuffs, the front ties and the separate scarf repeat the bronze note.

A number of advance Fall models are finished with a ribbon bow at the front, such as this one. A navy kasha frock of this type has a V-inset of black satin. At the lower end of the V are slits, through which is tied a black satin ribbon which makes a bow, with ends that hang at the front.

$50,000,000 WORTH OF PROPERTY RETURNED TO THE HOHENZOLLERNS

BERLIN, Sept. 6.—Property valued by some experts at $50,000,000 will be turned over to the former Kaiser and various members of his family by the Prussian State as a result of an agreement reported to have been reached between the state and the Hohenzollern family.

The reported agreement followed numerous legal actions brought by the Hohenzollerns, in all of which the courts declared in favor of the imperial family and prolonged negotiations between state officials and the ex-Kaiser's representatives.

The property includes large landed estates, forest domains, castles palaces and mansions, and valuable art collections, all of which were confiscated by the Prussian Government at the outbreak of the revolution. The state is said to have been compelled to reach a compromise with the Hohenzollerns in order to avoid additional heavy expenses fighting the almost hopeless court actions brought by the Hohenzollerns.

The courts are controlled almost entirely by the monarchists, and almost invariably have shown themselves to be on side of the ex-Kaiser and his family. Any agreement between the state and the Hohenzollerns will have to be ratified by the Prussian Diet. At the Prussian Ministry of the Interior it was denied today that he agreement actually had been signed, but it was admitted that its conclusion was expected before long.

TAKING A CHANCE.

Tommy (to his chum on the way to school)—What shall we do? Go to the pictures or to the woods?

Sammy—It's toss a penny; heads stands for fishing, and tails for the woods.

"Oh, well, if it falls on its edge we go to school."

WAY TO MAKE QUICKLY STRONGER CONCRETE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—The Bureau of Standards has found a way to make a stronger concrete, and to do it quickly.

"A gravel concrete made with the new quick-hardening, high-alumni cement generally develops as high a strength in 25 hours as a similarly proportioned Portland cement concrete would develop in 28 days," the Bureau announced today.

Water, it was explained, is still an important factor in the making of concrete.

WINTER READING.

Books of natural history make the most cheerful winter reading. I read in Audubon with a thrill of delight when the snow covers the ground of the magnolia, and the Florida keys, and their warm sea breezes; of the fence rail, and the cotton tree, and the migrations of the rice bird; of the breaking up of winter in Labrador, and the melting of the snow on the forks of the Missoudi.—Thoreau.

SOUND-PROOF COUNCIL ROOM.

The apartment at 10 Downing street where the meetings of the British cabinet are held, is a solid and plainly furnished room, 15 feet long and 20 feet wide, fitted with double doors, through which no sound can reach the keenest listening ears.

TROUBLE HALF WAY.

"I tell you I won't have this room," protested the old lady to the hotel page who was conducting her. "I ain't a-goin to pay all that money for a pokey-hole with a little fold'n' bed in it. If you think that just because I'm from the country——"

Proudly disguested, the boy cut her short: "Get in, mum. This ain't your bedroom. This is the lift."

PASSED UNTEMPTING OFFERS

William Ewart Gladstone, the great stateman, refused tens of thousands of pounds offered to him for articles by publishers. It is said that an American magazine proprietor once sent him a blank check and told him to fill it up for any amount he pleased so long as he sent him 2,000 words for his magazine. Mr. Gladstone returned the letter and the check also as blank as it arrived.

Important 'Ifs'

IF an hour's reading makes your eyes ache, IF the printed page occasionally "goes misty," IF you are obliged to stop work periodically to rest your eyes for a few moments, IF you find it easier to read closer or further away than the normal twelve or fourteen inches, IF you cannot see people across the street, IF you cannot read street names easily or distinguish the time by public clocks, IF you have to make an effort to see—knitting the brows or frowning, IF vivid light gives you pain in the eyes, or if you require more light than hitherto, IF your eyes ache, water, or become inflamed by use

IF you have any of the above difficulties, let us make an examination of your eyes so that you may learn definitely whether glasses have become necessary to your comfort and well-being.
