At New Haven on March 24th, 1909, Charles Holmes, in the 90th year of his age, passed peacefully away, leaving three daughters and two sons to mourn the loss of a kind and loving father. Miss Mildred Dudley opened her engagement at New Wonderland last evening, and proved herself a capable pianist. It is to be regretted that Mrs. Tufts had to return to St. John on account of illness, but her place is being well filled by Mr. Donaldson, who is going to be the illustrated singer for another week, while another is being procured. The program last night was fine, and the change of act by Coffman and Carroll was heartily appreciated. These are artists in every sense of the word, and music such as Miss Carroll's is rarely heard here. Her voice is exquisite, sweet and true, and in the grand music she renders, she has all lovers of music with her. Geo. Donaldson as usual brought down the house with his extemporaria song, and proved himself a comedy maker of rare ability.

Now is the time for Fruit Growers to look after their orchards. The busy season has not yet begun on the farms and there is no better time for pruning and spraying than the present. Oyster Shell Bark Louse can be gotten rid of by thoroughly spraying with the Lime Sulphur Wash. If this cannot be done the trees should be well white-washed wherever any are to be found. The Co-operative Fruit Company will keep its shareholders well posted on the care they should give their orchards to obtain the best results. Every Fruit Grower in the Province should be a shareholder in this Company. Full information can be obtained from Theo. Ross, Department of Agriculture, Charlottetown.

The very high class pastel portrait work done by A. A. MacLeod, 208 W. 15th St., New York City, is being greatly appreciated. Mr. MacLeod has recently received several orders from the Province, particulars of which will appear later. No better idea of what he accomplishes in this line can be had than by viewing the large portrait of Lieut. Gov. MacKinnon in the Provincial Building in this City, presented to this Province by the artist himself. Mr. MacLeod does work faithfully and well, and the fact that he has been for so many years in the employ of Marcea the famous portrait artist of New York City brands him as thoroughly competent. Mr. MacLeod's ad will be found elsewhere in this issue.
