More Relics Found

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 19.—Additional valuable relics have been dug up at Monte Alban in the State of Oaxaca, according to a message received here tonight, which reads: "Tomb 13 has been sacked, but some bones remain and a human tooth inlaid in the Mayan style. Two guardian skeletons were buried above tomb 14, one with an extraordinarily thick skull. Within the stone-lined chamber one guardian skeleton was near the door, and a heap of bones, retaining some red paint with which they had been painted, were near the tomb's head. Red was the ancient Mexican funeral color.

"The painted bones were accompanied by a Zapotecan dish, a bone ring, and a single turquoise bead. Near the tomb, outside, a pot of red mineral color was found; also some yellow, which is the Mexican color for women."

Confidence Is The Thing

In issuing their calendar for 1933 Messrs. DeBlois Bros., Ltd., have this message for their patrons: "As we pass through these days of readjustment and reconstruction many problems of vital importance face us, and it behooves all of us to do our part in restoring stable conditions in every-day economic life by making an intelligent and determined effort to regain confidence through business and industrial co-operation, and by exhibiting Faith in one another, Faith in the leaders of our Government, Faith in our Province and our Country as a whole. We are indeed a favoured people, living in a favoured land.

"Be Optimists, and not Pessimists, thus lending a helping hand in destroying the spirit of depression and in ushering in the much desired era of successful Peace and Prosperity.

"The following article, entitled 'Their Confidence was Justified' appeared recently in one of our leading magazines. We would suggest you read it carefully—it will chase away the blues."

THEIR CONFIDENCE WAS JUSTIFIED When 169 Railroads Failed in 1893 John H. Patterson Said: "The year has been unparalleled in the history of the United States. Great questions were to be solved, every industry was stagnant. Some closed down, some lost courage, while a few pushed ahead and worked harder than ever with confidence in the future. We did not let the hard times interfere with our work. When times got duller, we advertised the more and worked the harder."

When Pig Iron Dropped 50% in 1907 Andrew Carnegie Declared: "This panic will soon run its course and pass away leaving no impediment to the return, in due season, of another period of wholesome, because needed, expansion of our resources."

"We have had the greatest expansion of modern times. Reaction had to come—will prove healthful. Nothing can stay the rapid progress of the Republic. She is all right."

When Deep, Dark Gloom Ruled in 1921 Thomas Fortune Ryan Said: "Our merchants have been buying only what they can sell quickly for cash. The consumer has had to listen to so much pessimistic talk that he buys only what is absolutely necessary. People everywhere have been scared. They are getting 'over that."

"Our people are the greatest consumers of food and manufactured articles in the world in normal times—and normal times are coming back"

America Came Through In 1893 stark ruin stalked through the land. 467 banks failed in a few months. Mills, furnaces, and factories shut down everywhere. Bankruptcy was on every hand. America had twice as many unemployed per thousand population as she has today. But she put them all back to work.

In 1907 panic broke loose. The production of pig iron dropped 50% in less than a year. All but the strongest men lost heart—"We are ruined," they declared, "recovery cannot come in our time." Yet in two years prosperity had returned.

In 1921, when many honest and thoughtful people were predicting worse conditions, the country was already beginning to climb to the greatest era of prosperity it had ever experienced.

Costs Must Be Cut

WINNIPEG, Dec. 19.—Universities of Western Canada, if they are to stay open, must face drastic reductions in cost and devise means of operating on Government appropriations cut to the very bone. This was the warning delivered to the heads of the universities who conferred with western premier and their representatives at the inter-provincial conference here today.

Confronting those taking part in the conference was the admission by all concerned that the provincial governments will find it extremely difficult to maintain the higher institutions of learning and at the same time keep primary schools open. It might ultimately have to be a choice between higher learning and the primary schools since the municipalities of the harassed agricultural areas were finding it increasingly hard to maintain educational facilities.
