SIMPLE MAKE-UP BEST FOR SUMMER

By ALICIA HART
NEA Staff Writer

How the summer gypsy can alight from a bus, train, plane or rumble seat looking as crisp at journey's end as she did when she started depends upon a hair-do that's a good traveler, a make-up that stays pat and duds that can resist warm-weather mussing.

For details of that formula, worked out by two-job girl Ann Hamilton, here's the Enid, Oklahoma-born Powers model and aviatrix in person ready to tell you what's what. A veteran of the WASPS who is on call duty with an aircraft dealer to ferry planes to U. S. and Canadian customers, Anne must be able to hop out of the cockpit and meet appointments with the camera.

Hair-do? Her good traveler is a short curly bob, which is washed at home. It rides all night and lands unruffled under the safekeeping of an invisible hairnet.

Make-up? The kind that stays pat in face-mopping weather and holds its own against soil or cinder, says Anne, is a cake foundation. She reminds you, too, that deep shades—her choice is mocha—look fresher at journey's end than any peaches-and-cream tints. If face make-up is used also as leg make-up, you can lift one cosmetic bottle from your luggage load, says Anne.

Best clothes to see you through your travels, she thinks, are a dark skirt and printed jersey top. Although our aviatrix must travel in slacks and a jacket shirt, she sloughs these off upon arrival for a light skirt-dark top combination which can be pulled, wrinkle-free, from her musette bag. Her packable hat—it must flatten out and be rolled for traveling in this erst-while-military bag—is a beret.
